Alioto claims Zebra search constitutional

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph Alioto has defended as constitutional a police tactic of stopping and questioning young blacks in an effort to capture the "Zebra" killers.

And, Alioto told a crowded news conference Thursday night, he welcomed a civil rights lawsuit challenging the validity of the stop-and-search program.

The mayor said such a suit "would develop the facts and satisfy everybody that there is no problem."

Twelve white persons have been slain by blacks in random street attacks since November. Six others have been wounded. The stop-and-search program was instituted Wednesday after the 12th victim was gunned down in a quiet neighborhood.

Civil rights groups criticized the police action on grounds it was violating the constitutional rights of blacks who were being stopped on city streets, searched and questioned.

"I want first of all to dispel the notion that there can be any racial implication in what we are doing," Alioto said.

He added that, when officers were hunting the "Zodiac" killer, they were spot-checking hundreds of whites.

"We are not willy-nilly going to stop black men because they are black," the mayor said. "We are going to stop only those who reasonably fit into the profile that the composite picture throws off. And that is constitutional."

The latest fatal victim was Nelson Shields IV, 23, son of a prominent Delaware family. He was killed Tuesday night and a witness gave a description to police who came up with the composite drawing. Police said, however, they believe more than one man is involved.

The American Civil Liberties Union charged that the search techniques were a "racist outrage." General Counsel Paul Halvonik said the measure was "totally unprecedented" and "clearly indefensible in view of the Constitution."

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People agreed and promised to seek injunctive relief in the courts.

In Oakland, Black Panther Party leader Bobby Seale said the stop-and-search program was "a vicious and racist attempt" resembling Hitler's persecution of Jews.

"Operation Zebra" is a special police program set up many weeks ago to catch the killers. Squads of uniformed officers were placed in plainclothes and in their own cars to patrol in the six areas where the killings took place.

The intense dragnet was intensified as Shield's father, a DuPont Chemical Corp. executive arrived to claim his son's body.

"I know his life is wasted now, but maybe it will help us to get back on the track,", Nelson Shields III, Wilmington, Del., told reporters.

Woman gives birth to 4th set of twins

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — The chances it could happen are one in 65 million, but Mary Morris of Powhatan, Va., has beaten those odds and given birth to her fourth consecutive set of twins.

She and her husband Howard, a school custodian, now have 13 children.

Mrs. Morris, who has not taken fertility drugs, said Thursday she was surprised as first but now is "just a proud mother, that's all." She said her husband was also a bit surprised at the birth of more twins, "but as the days go by we get more and more used to it."

Hearst kidnap hint ignored

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A notebook mentioning "guns" and an "action" against Patricia Hearst was found by police in a burned and hastily abandoned Symbionese Liberation Army headquarters three weeks before the girl was kidnaped, it was disclosed today.

A federal investigator said the notebook notations, including Miss Hearst's name and school, were perhaps made by someone taking notes on a telephone call.

Newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst said the notebook was "unquestionable proof" his daughter was not involved in the abduction.

Hearst and his wife, Catherine, also defended their daughter after U.S. Attorney General William B. Saxbe called the girl a "common criminal."

However, Hearst said that the girl shown in the photographs taken during a holdup at the Hibernia Bank Monday probably was his daughter, as the FBI has reported. Earlier, Hearst had said he had enough doubts that he would have had difficulty testifying about the girl's identity in court.

"The man (Saxbe) made irresponsible statements and evidently talks off the top of his head when he should be listening," Hearst said.

However, Hearst said he could not understand why neither he nor his daughter was notified by police when the notebook was discovered after an arson fire Jan. 10 in a Concord house used by the SLA.

The federal investigator told the San Francisco Chronicle the notebook had references to Miss Hearst being a junior art major at the University of California at Berkeley. He added that the book had been turned over to the FBI crime laboratory in Washington.

In addition, he said, there were comments about "teams," "guns", the need to "register the van by Feb. 1" and the Black Guerrilla Family, a group of inmates in state prisons.

Miss Hearst was not kidnaped from her Berkeley apartment until a month later, Feb. 4, and the full moon was Feb. 6.

A police investigator said it was a "horrendous goof" not to release the information to the Hearst family.

"Apparently those who first examined the notebook either put no significance to the name Hearst or assumed the SLA would drop its plans knowing the house hadn't burned down and considerable evidence had been found."

INEXPENSIVE MOBILE HOME

Harvey Smith, 67, puts his "house" in order and prepares to go down town. An unemployed baker, he lives in this cardboard box on a heavily wooded lot near downtown Tallahassee. He keeps his stove and personal belongings in a bus station locker and shaves and washes in a can of water. Since his story broke in the papers, he has had several job offers, but as yet hasn't taken any of them.

Moscow rolls out red carpet for Ted Kennedy

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union rolled out the red carpet today for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., treating the visiting legislator with the deference due a high-ranking official —or a strong presidential contender.

Kennedy arrived in Moscow Thursday with his wife, Joan, and children, Kara, 13, and Ted Jr., 12, for a week-long visit, his first trip to the Soviet Union.

The senator and his family were staying at a Lenin Hills government guest house usually reserved for higher-ranking travelers. Visiting lawmakers usually stay at less plush accomodations.

He was also accorded a meeting with Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev during the visit, but the date of the talks has yet to be announced.

The trip was the last stop on an East European fact-finding mission, which has already taken Kennedy to Romania and Yugoslavia.

At Sheremetyevo airport, Kennedy was asked by Western newsmen about the effects of impeachment moves in the United States on President Nixon's scheduled visit to the Soviet Union in June.

"If the question (of Nixon coming) were today, I think the answer would have to be yes," Kennedy replied. "If there are going to be dramatic changes in the United States, which I think are possible, then I think the answer would have to come based on the actions which are taken."

Kennedy's remarks were not reported in a Tass news agency dispatch on his arrival, but the Soviets were believed concerned about the impact of possible impeachment on detente.

Political observers in Moscow said the first-class Soviet treatment of Kennedy indicated the Kremlin's worries about impeachment and attempts to keep all options open.

Kennedy told newsmen he intended to discuss the question of emigration and civil rights and to "express my own views about East-West issues" in talks with Soviet leaders.

He said he would also talk about his differences from Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., about Soviet-American relations.

Jackson, also mentioned as a possible Democratic presidential candidate in 1976, has often been under attack in the Soviet press as an opponent of detente.

Felony manslaughter charges lodged against Covina youth

CHINO — A Covina youth involved in a traffic accident here Wednesday in which two men were killed has been charged with felony manslaughter.

Officials said two counts of manslaughter and one count of felony drunk driving were filed today in the Superior Court's juvenile division in San Bernardino.

The youth, who slashed his wrists in a suicide attempt, is being held at San Bernardino County Hospital. His identifty was ordered withheld by court order. However the driver was identified earlier as Jim Boschma.

The driver, 17, was going north on Grove Avenue and started to pass another car when he saw a third vehicle coming toward him.

He swerved back, struck the back of the second auto, and his car then veered into the southbound lane, where the two cars collided head-on, said highway patrolmen. The accident occurred near Merrill Avenue, a short distance from the Chino Airport.

Killed were Hufford Allen, 62, of Calimesa, and William Merritt, 56, of Riverside. Both were state employes.

After the collision, the driver ran to a nearby dairy, where he broke a mirror inside a restroom and attempted to slash his wrists, said officers.

A woman, however, saw him and screamed. Investigators then grabbed the youth and stopped the flow of blood. The driver was taken to Chino General Hospital and later to San Bernardino hospital.

Officers said their initial investigation does not indicate there was any drag racing involved in the accident.

Two youths in the Covina youth's car suffered minor injuries. They were treated at the Chino hospital and released.

Officers said they may have escaped more serious injuries by lying down on the floorboard and seat before the impact.

18 months for conspiracy, mail fraud

Ex-La Verne minister receives prison sentence

The Rev. T. Sherron Jackson, former La Verne minister and school board member, will begin serving an 18-month federal prison sentence May 17 for conspiracy and mail fraud.

Mr. Jackson lost his almost four-year battle to stave off a prison sentence on charges stemming from his involvement as president of the defunct Baptist Foundation of America.

Mr. Jackson, 51, appeared Wednesday at a pre-sentencing hearing before U.S. Dist. Judge Harry Pregerson. Mr. Jackson earlier had pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy and three counts of mail fraud.

Judge Pregerson sentenced the founder of the Calvary Baptist Church in La Verne to 18 months in the Federal Correctional Instruction in Lompoc. He is now released on $50,000 bail and will report to the prison warden on May 17.

Mr. Jackson will be eligible for parole "anytime that the parole board feels he is ready for parole," a court spokesman said. On the four counts, Mr. Jackson could have received a maximum of 20 years in prison and-or $13,000 in fines.

He was originally indicted along with 13 other men he described as "financial advisers." None of the other 13 defendants were board members of the Baptist Foundation of America. The organization at one time had assets of $380 million and claimed to have channeled money into various education, housing and health projects. The indictments read that less than $54,000 was donated to charitable purposes, although over $4 million in cash and property was obtained.

Mr. Jackson resigned his position as pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church in La Verne and from the Bonita school board in 1968 to devote his time to his position as president of the Baptist Foundation of America. The organization was established in 1966 and, although some Baptists were involved in the organization, it was not under the auspices of the Baptist Church.

All projects of the organization failed, including the purchase of the historic old Del Mar Hotel at Del Mar for a retirement center, two children's hospitals in San Fernando Valley and South Los Angeles and the purchase of the Global Baseball League.

Mr. Jackson said in an interview in 1972 that his "financial advisers kept coming up with investments sure to yield profits." This included the purchase of two high-rise commercial buildings in downtown Los Angeles, complicated stock deals, land proposals in the California desert and Tennessee and donations that could be discounted by donors as non-taxable gifts.

The minister repeatedly denied any involvement in any swindle and claimed he was innocent until last September, when he entered a guilty plea to the four charges at a federal court hearing.

He made an eloquent plea on his own behalf at the hearing Wednesday, saying that he "regrets it all" and that he was "swept along on the tides of my dreams and later drowned in them."

Federal Public Defender John Van de Kamp, who was appointed by the court to represent Mr. Jackson last year when he didn't have funds to hire an attorney, asked Judge Pregerson to release the minister on probation so that he could return to the ministry.

The Rev. Edward V. Hill, pastor of the Mt. Zion Missionary Baptist Church of Los Angeles, told the judge that Mr. Jackson would be a "tremendous asset to their church program and that he had been working with the congregation for the past year. He said he had offered Jackson a $10,000 a year job, if he were placed on probation.

New Watergate subpoena goes to White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the second time in a month, a subpoena has been served on the White House ordering President Nixon to surrender key Watergate evidence sought by Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

The latest summons —for tapes and documents involving more than five dozen presidential conversations with top aides —was issued late Thursday on the orders of U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

The subpoena was served little more than an hour later by George K. McKinney, chief U.S. marshal for the District of Columbia, on James D. St. Clair, Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, at the Executive Office Building next door to the White House.

Sirica ordered issuance of the subpoena at Jaworski's request and directed that Nixon comply with it by delivering the materiel to the court no later than 10 a.m. EDT on May 2. The White House had no comment other than that Nixon's legal team would study it.

Over harassment, lack of support

JDL's West Coast region will disband

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The West Coast Region of the militant Jewish Defense League announced Thursday it was disbanding due to lack of support from the Jewish community, federal police harassment and the withdrawal of the league's cofounder, Rabbi Meir Kahane.

Other JDL regions throughout the country were considering the same action, said Irv Ruben, West Coast regional director. He said he spoke for JDL chapters in Southern California, Arizona, Nevada and New Mexico.

The disbandment came one day after the league's national headquarters in New York announced that the controversial Kahane, now in Jerusalem, had resigned as head of the league.

Kahane helped found the JDL in New York in 1968, urging Jews to resist, with force if necessary, anti-Semitic actions. The group adopted the slogan "Never Again," referring to the massacre of European Jews by the Nazis.

"We're under unbearable pressure from the federal authorities, who think we do awful things," Ruben said. "The federal agents terrorize our people. They're here all the time trying to force us to admit to bombings and things, threatening to reopen old cases where the charges were dropped.

"Anyone can get on the telephone and say 'Never Again' after a bombing or something. That doesn't prove we had anything to do with it," he said.

Kahane, in announcing his resignation, said the league could not succeed because it had frightened the Jewish people by acting boldly.

"Apparently our goals were too immense for the Jewish community leaders to understand—the same kind of leaders who stood by 35 years ago and let our people die," Ruben said.

"We believe that many Jews have been allowed to leave Russia, and the state of Israel was created, as a result of militant actions by Jews here in the United States."

Higher prices riding back of worst inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of living rose 1.1 per cent in March, the third highest monthly increase in 27 years. Higher prices for food and gasoline accounted for nearly half of the increase.

The report today on the Consumer Price Index (CPI) came as the second piece of bad news for the U.S. economy in two days. The Commerce Department reported Thursday the nation's economic growth rate fell by the biggest rate in 16 years and inflation was at a 23-year high.

The 1.1 jump in the CPI last month is been exceeded only twice since '47 —a 1.3 advance in February this ear and a 1.8 per cent increase last ugust, the Labor Department's reau of Labor Statistics said.

In the first three months of the year the CPI has increased at an annual rate of 14.5 per cent, greatest three-month increase since consumer prices went up at an an annual rate of 15.2 per cent in the first quarter of 1951.

In spite of the dark news on two consecutive days, Gary Seevers, acting chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, expressed some cautious optimism about future economic trends. He said prospects appeared favorable for a leveling-off in the key categories that showed big rises last month.

"We believe we are now in a period when the sharp rise in food prices is moderating," Seevers said, and on fuel prices, he said it appeared that "most of the expected bulge ... is behind us."

The CPI rose in March to 143.1. This meant that goods and services which cost $100 in 1967 base period cost $143.10 last month — an increase of 43 per cent in the past seven years.

Consumer prices in March were 10.2 per cent higher than a year earlier, the biggest 12-month increase since the year ending in October 1947. The BLS said these were some of the items that accounted for the big March increase:

—Gasoline and motor oil accounted for about a fourth of the rise, going up 7 per cent to a level 39.3 per cent above a year ago.

—Food accounted for another quarter of the jump, although the price increase of 1 per cent was lower than the 2.5 per cent rise in February and a 1.6 increase in January.

—Nonfood commodities went up 1.5 per cent, largest monthly increase since statistics were started in 1956. The previous high of 1 per cent was set in February.

—Postal charges were up 20 per cent in March as the price for mailing a letter was raised 2 cents to a dime, and doctor's fees increased 1.7 per cent.

The Commerce Department said Thursday that economic growth, as judged by the Gross National Product (GNP), fell at an annual rate of 5.8 per cent in the first quarter while inflation was going up at a 10.8 per cent annual rate.

The GNP index measures inflation nationwide in wholesale and retail prices, while the CPI gauges prices including changes resulting from inflation and "real" growth in selected urban areas.

THE GNP index of 10.8 per cent reflected effects of price increases on the economy as a whole, while the CPI is a more accurate reflection of the effect on the average consumer.

The higher prices in March took another bite out of the purchasing power of the average worker despite bigger pay checks. This power declined 0.8 per cent in March because price increases outstripped a 0.2 per cent increase in average weekly earnings.

The bad news Thursday on GNP and inflation was attributed largely to the energy shortage and had been anticipated.

Few economists expect the slump to last long, but unless a marked upswing occurs in the current April-June quarter, the nation could be faced with six months of negative economic growth —the technical definition of a recession.

President Nixon has promised on several occasions to take whatever steps he deems necessary to avoid this condition.

The latest figures could also accelerate calls in Congress for a tax cut as a means of putting more money in the pockets of Americans and thus stimulating the economy. Administration officials have argued that such a move would only compound the present inflationary dilemma.

Reagan unveils plan for election campaign reform

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, declaring that Watergate has spawned an "ugly" erosion of public confidence in government, today proposed remedial "surgery" on the body politic.

The Republican presidential contender's list of state campaign reforms included:

—A virtual ban on political activity by business and labor, including barring them or their committees from making contributions to candidates or ballot measures.

—A prohibition on campaign donations by lobbyists:

—And an end to "on-the-job" political activity by public employes.

In remarks prepared for delivery to the Better Business Bureau, Reagan said:

"Aside from inflation, the present widespread lack of confidence in government and in the election process is America's most compelling problem.

"This cynicism is a cancer, an ugly growth eroding the public's belief in the honesty and integrity of our very form of government.

"Surgery is required," declared Reagan, who has defended President Nixon in the wake of the Watergate scandal.

Reagan said Watergate had "caused America to take a searching look" at campaign reform.

The governor's sweeping proposals were his apparent answer to Prop. 9—a political reform initiative supported by Common Cause, the People's Lobby and Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., a Democratic candidate for governor.

In some cases, Reagan's proposal, such as the ban on campaign contributions by business and labor, went beyond those in the June ballot measure.

The governor's package, which his office said would be introduced "soon" in the legislature, also included:

—Changing the date of the primary election from June to the first Tuesday in September to shorten campaigns and therefore reduce their costs.

—Allowing campaign contributions only from individuals and banning those by professional associations in addition to business and labor.

—Creating a fair campaign practices commission.

—Making the office of secretary of state nonpartisan. Reagan said it was not possible for a partisan secretary of state to carry out his election law respossibilities without "someone raising the possibility of personal or partisan conflict-of-interest."

—Banning campaign contributions by judges so the public can be assured they are exercising their power "impartially."

Two of the suggestions were aimed at Secretary of State Brown and state Supreme Court Justice Stanley Mosk, a former Democratic state attorney general.

Reagan said both men had behaved improperly while holding their current offices:

The governor first advocated making Brown's office nonpartisan in January. Today he noted some thought the suggestion was "facetious" although he was "dead serious."

The proposal regarding judges was triggered by the disclosure last month that Mosk maintained a political campaign fund during his 10 years on the high court, occasionally dispensing funds to candidates.

The lobbyist restrictions, fair campaign practices commission and simplified ballot analysis were basically similar to proposals in Prop. 9. Reagan's other suggestions, however, were not contained in ballot measure, which additionally limited the amount of campaign spending.

In proposing the ban on business and labor contributions, Reagan said, "The greatest potential for abuse is in the massive collective financial contributions of special interest groups."

The governor proposed barring "any corporate, labor organization or public employe organization" from soliciting, receiving or making political campaign contributions.

He would also ban them from forming a group to make contributions or "otherwise" support or oppose candidates or ballot measures.

'We don't know where Hearst girl is'--Kelley

ATLANTA (UPI) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley told newspaper editors Thursday he believes his agents will locate Patricia Hearst "in a minimum of time," but as for now, "we don't know where she is."

Kelley said the FBI had made an extensive search for Miss Hearst, who was kidnaped in Berkeley, Calif., Feb. 4, and that his men had "just about turned that area upside down.

"I'm going to make an admission that hurts. We don't know where she is."

Kelley, at a meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, answered questions during a session with Atlanta Constitution editor Reg Murphy, a recent kidnap victim, and Thomas Eastham, an editor of the San Francisco Examiner. Miss Hearst's father Randolph A. Hearst is editor and president of the Examiner.

Miss Hearst was identified as a participant in a San Francisco bank holdup on Monday, and Kelley said, "We feel we have a better opportunity (of locating her) since they have come out in the open."

Kelley avoided direct comment on Attorney General William Saxbe's description of the newspaper heiress as a "common criminal."

He said, "We choose to take the lesser of the evaluations that she is a material witness and could have been coerced. We will be guided by the facts and not by any opinion."

Kelley said the possibility the case might be a hoax was "part of our investigation" and if it is determined Miss Hearst took part in the bank robbery, "the U.S. attorney has said she will be charged. At this point, we just don't know."

Among lowest paid

'Liberated' women not so liberal with household help

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Today's "liberated" woman often depends on another group of women —the domestic employes who free her of the need to stay home to clean the house, cook and care for the children, says a researcher at the University of Michigan.

"More often than not, professional women deny their household employes benefits that they themselves expect — indeed, take for granted —in their own work," said Dr. Doris B. McLaughlin, assistant research scientist in the Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations at Ann Arbor and Wayne State University in Detroit.

Dr. McLaughlin said household employes are among the lowest paid and least protected workers in the labor force. She reported that in 1972, before the $2 statutory minimum wage, about half of the household workers earned less than $1.40 an hour, and 82 per cent had an annual income under $2,000.

She said career women "espouse the principle of women's liberation because they covet a better society and working conditions for themselves. They generally have no real interest in providing such opportunities for the women who work in their homes."

6-15-year term

BOSTON (UPI) — Mark Frechette, 25, who starred in the film "Zabriskie Point," and Sheldon T. Bernhard, were sentenced to six to 15 years in prison for robbing a branch of the New England Merchants National Bank last August.

Frechette and Bernard, 31, both lived in a Fort Hill commune. They were sentenced after pleading guilty earlier this month to charges of armed robbery.

They were arrested inside the Brigham Circle branch of the bank in Roxbury on Aug. 30, shortly after police shot and killed a third member of the holdup gang, Christopher Thien, 25.

'You're evil, Janie'

LONDON (UPI) — When 16-year-old Janie Jones ran away from her home in an English coalmining town to find her fortune in London, she boasted to friends that one day she would be famous.

"I shall hit the headlines one day," she told one friend.

Miss Jones, now 37, did just that today.

"Evil Janie jailed for seven years," "You're evil, judge tells jailed Janie," "Seven years in jail for most evil Janie Jones," the headlines blared.

It was Judge Alan King Hamilton who at the close of the Jones trial Thursday called the alleged madam in a sex-and-money scandal one of only two truly evil women he had ever come across in a courtroom.

"And beside you, she (the first woman) was comparatively harmless," he told Miss Jones.

King-Hamilton sentenced her to seven years in prison and ordered her to pay $38,400 in court costs on charges that she controlled prostitutes and perverted the course of justice.

Cronkite subpoena

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Television newsman Walter Cronkite will be subpoenaed to testify at a hearing to determine whether reporter William Farr can be sent back to jail for refusing to reveal a news source, according to Farr's lawyer.

Farr has already spent 46 days in jail for his refusal to name a source for a story on the Manson family trial. A new hearing has been set for April 25 to determine whether further jail time would be penal or coercive.

Farr and his attorney, Marc Hurwitz, said they will use the time before the hearing to contact out-of-state witnesses. Cronkite was expected to testify on a newsman's right to protect his sources.

Farr has steadfastly refused to reveal his source since writing the story in 1970 while he was covering the Manson trial for the Los Angeles Herald Examiner. He now is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times.

Can do no more

ALTOONA, Pa. (UPI) — John B. Connally, former U.S. Treasury Secretary, says the Nixon Administration has done everything it can to halt inflation.

"I don't know what else the administration can do to stop galloping inflation," Connally said. "If I did, I would certainly advise them of it. I think everyone in Washington from the President down is concerned about inflation."

Connally also said he does not anticipate a recession and expected 1974 to be a good year.

"A great many economists a few months ago were predicting a recession," he said. "I think they have been proven wrong. I think we can look forward to a very good year in 1974."

Demo package stiffens curbs on health plans

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A package of consumer legislation to impose stiffer regulation of prepaid health plans affecting 5 million Californians was unveiled today by prominent Democratic lawmakers.

The measures were disclosed at the same time a new study cited the potential danger of the current lack of state regulation that easily could lead to fraud in the health care field.

The report by the Senate subcommittee on health needs said the state had far less power to oversee prepaid health plans than it does to regulate other types of health insurance. Meantime, Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, unveiled a bill (AB3885) designed to cure many of the ills outlined in the Senate study. He said the bill was a good consumer protection bill but noted every prepaid health plan now opposed it.

The measure, the keystone of a package of bills, would require state licensing of prepaid health plan salesmen, provide for auditing and evaluation of the plans and create a new state agency to oversee the plans. It will be coauthored by Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego.

Riles' priorities for schools in state

Flexibility . . . financing . . . crime

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — Restructuring of secondary school programs, followed closely by equality in financing and curbing of violence, are top priority issues in public education in California, according to State Schools Supt. Wilson Riles.

Riles addressed a capacity audience Thursday afternoon in La Fetra Hall at La Verne College.

"We must focus on individual needs at the secondary level and provide learning alternatives to match individual capabilities," said Wilson.

"Students tell me they have been kept and treated as children too long, that they need the responsibility of the real world."

Riles said that even with our crises, "we're not going to move backward into manual labor. We're moving toward a more sophisticated way of doing the world's work. We can't prophesy tomorrow's needs, yet we have to ask ourselves, will today's students be ready for tomorrow?

"That is the challenge in public education."

Recalling that the state Supreme Court has declared unconstitutional present means of public school financing, Riles said, "I don't propose to talke anything away from the high-wealth districts. You can equalize by bringing down. I'm not interested in that. I don't want everyone poor.

"I want all the school children in California to have the same educational opportunities as those in Beverly Hills, and I'm not going to pussy-foot around in saying it.

"What is more important than preparing our young people to run this state and this nation?

"I'll be satisfied when the schools have all the money they need and the Pentagon has to conduct bake sales to buy Marine uniforms."

Riles said he did not anticipate any new legislation this season because of elections, but did expect by next January to see new laws controlling school financing in California.

Riles said that the disruption of conflict and violence in the schools cuts across all boundaries.

"We must come together with a strategy to solve this vexing problem," he said. "Schools should be places where no children or parent cannot come and function without fear."

The problem of crime in schools is being studied in Sacramento, Riles said. "We find that what occurs in our schools is a slop-over from what is happening in society," he explained. "This is no time to point fingers. This is a time to come together and solve the problem." He said people with "creative instinct" in the schools tend to eliminate disruption.

Since taking office in 1970, Riles said he had "set in motion major reform in elementary education" which he pinpointed as his Early Childhood Education program. This program provides individual instruction for children through the third grade.

He feels strongly 4-year-olds should be included. "Those on welfare have Head Start. The affluent have private nursery schools. The only ones left out are those in the middle, those too rich for welfare and too poor to send their children to nursery school," he explained.

"Children come into the world eager to learn. They will learn in spite of us if we just open the door."

Cal Poly prof given foreign program role

POMONA — Dr. Esther B. Leffler, acting chemistry department chairman at Cal Poly, has been selected as one of the resident directors of the international programs of the state university and colleges system.

$2 million bid approved for new Vina Danks school

By JEANNE HEMENOVER
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — After months of planning, discussion and waiting, at 2 million bid for the construction of a new Vina Danks Junior High School has been approved by the Ontario-Montclair school board.

Bids were first opened in Novemeber, but all those submitted were more than the budgeted $2,046,235 and were rejected. At that time plans for the school were returned to the architect, Harnish, Morgan and Causey, for revision.

After the plans had been modified to reduce the cost of construction, bids were reopened on Wednesday. A $2,036,438 bid from K and F construction of Long Beach was accepted by the board Thursday, subject to the approval of the State Department of General Services, Office of Local Assistance, and the architect.

The K and F bid was one of four submitted. Other companies making bids were Berry Construction, Inc., $2,058,808; Powers Construction Co., Inc., $2,135,000; and Peter Kiewit Sons Co., $2,130,000.

Vina Danks School is being rebuilt to meet earthquake safety standards established in the Field Act. Students are now attending classes in relocatable classrooms.

To fulfill a need for improved telephone service in the district, board members voted to award a contract to Master Communications, Inc. for a telecommunications system at a five-year lease-purchase cost of $85,839, or $1,430.65 per month.

The system will include an intra-district set-up exclusive of the public line and is expected to increase efficiency by as much as 35 per cent. A new automatic switchboard and one new instrument per school will be added with the new system.

Trustees also accepted a bid of $21,566.69 from United Bus Sales of Bell Gardens for the purhase of two new school buses. Four bids were received with United Bus Sales making the lowest offer within the $22,000 amount budgeted by the district.

Both new buses will be delivered to the district after July 1.

Authorization to open bids for sprinkler system supplies was given by the board. Board members recognized the need to commit a company to a contract for the work immediately since prices continue to rise and are not expected to go down. A sum of $20,000 was previously authorized in the budget for the installation of playground sprinkler systems and the planting of lawns at several schools with inadequate turf areas.

Crash hurts 2 Ontarians

UPLAND — Two men were injured early this morning when two cars collided on Foothill Boulevard just west of Euclid Avenue.

Robert Bryan Labreche, 20, of 1428 W. B St., Ontario, suffered back injuries and was admitted to San Antonio Community Hospital where he is listed in fair condition. Kirkland Lee Hale, 22, of 1404 W. B St., Ontario, a passenger in Labreche's car, was also injured slightly. Hale was given medical treatment at the Upland hospital and later released.

Police said the Labreche car collided broadside with another car making a turn onto Euclid Avenue about 1:49 a.m. The driver of the second car was identified as Harold James Hindle, 55, of Oxnard. He was not injured.

Tax hike for schools seen by Flournoy

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Controller Houston Flournoy, a candidate for governor, said Thursday the state will have to increase personal and corporate income taxes, liquor and cigarette taxes and impose a state property tax to meet a judicial ruling requiring more money for schools in poor neighborhoods.

If the legislature approves a state property tax, the increases in other taxes will not have to be large, Flournoy told a news conference.

If such a tax is rejected, he said, the state will have to make it up with much larger tax increases in other areas.

The higher taxes are needed to cope with the ruling by Superior Court Judge Bernard S. Jefferson in Los Angeles last week, holding that the state's method of school financing violates the state constitution.

Even with $332 million in state funds pumped into the school system to provide a basic minimum, the disparity is too great between the money spent on children in poor districts and those in middle class and wealthy neighborhoods, the judge ruled.

Source of grocer

The Middle English term for a merchant who sold spices, dried fruits, tea and coffee, was spicer. The wholesale dealer in these articles was a spicer "en gross" — or a grosser — as he sold the goods by the gross, or in bulk; hence our word "grocer."

More stations staying open this weekend

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Auto Club of Southern California said Thursday more stations were resuming weekend operations and increasing pumping hours, making it easier for motorists to find gasoline this weekend than during any other weekend since November.

The weekend also is the first since the end of the odd-even gasoline distribution plan in nine counties, set up last month.

The club's weekly Fuel Gauge survey showed that 33 per cent of stations in metropolitan areas plan to be open Sunday and 48 per cent in outlying areas along major highways.

About 90 per cent of the stations surveyed said they will be open Saturday.

High blood pressure

The poor also afflicted

BOSTON (UPI) — High blood pressure afflicts the poor as much as the rich, a panel of medical experts have said.

Furthermore, they said, an estimated 25 million Americans suffer from high blood pressure and at least half of them are unaware of the threat to their lives.

More than 200 health profes sionals, community leaders and health care consumers attended the New England conference on "community action against high blood pressure." The meeting was held at the Museum of Science.

Dr. Adrian Ostfeld was among those who said too much emphasis was placed on salt as a factor in hypertension. He also emphasized, as did others attending the meeting, that high blood pressure affected the poor as much, or more, than the affluent.

"It is a disease of people who cannot make ends meet," he said.

Members of the panel also said the rate of high blood pressure was high among blacks and other minority groups.

Dr. Gertrude T. Hunter, federal regional health administrator for New England, said hypertension and high blood pressure were not exclusively medical problems and involved social and economic factors as well as obesity and other physiological factors.

Dr. Gerald H. Payne, chairman of the program evaluation committee of the National High Blood Pressure Education Program, and Dr. William Kannell, medical director, Framingham Study of the National Heart and Lung Institute, said there was a need to inform the public of the hazards of high blood pressure.

Payne noted that it was almost two years ago that Elliot Richardson, then secretary of Health Education and Welfare, began a national education program to make Americans aware of the problems of high blood pressure.

The "operational objective of the program is to disseminate effectively the knowledge and understanding that high blood pressure is a serious health problem..." and that "available treatment can control most cases of high blood pressure," Payne said.

About 80 per cent of those with high blood pressure can respond to medical treatment, doctors said, with a good chance of averting either heart attacks or strokes.

Simon says as Simon does? some say not

By ROBERT F. BUCKHORN
United Press International

William E. Simon, President Nixon's choice for treasury secretary, is a man addicted to action.

"He's a go, go, guy," says an aide. "His idea of a uniform for the work day is shirtsleeves, two packs of cigarettes and a telephone stuck in his ear."

Most observers agree that Simon, 46, is the closest thing to a perpetual motion machine in the Nixon administration. But they disagree on whether the motion produces all that many results.

His supporters cite the job he did in the energy crisis. He created the Federal Energy Office, set up a mandatory fuel allocation system, made Americans conscious of energy conservation and kept homes heated during the fuel short winter of 1973-74.

His detractors claim he was more talk than results. They claim he bungled the fuel allocation program and that this resulted in long lines at local gasoline stations.

Equally as bad, they claim, was his economic policy during the energy crisis: Allow the price of oil to rise to a point where the oil industry will make large enough profits to finance exploration for new sources of oil, which will then increase the supply and cause the price of oil to drop.

Simon brushes off critics as "doom-sayers". When the energy crisis began to grow, these same critics were predicting that homes would be cold, cities would suffer brownouts and unemployment would jump to staggering highs when industry was forced to lay off workers due to fuel cutbacks.

None of these things happened, Simon says, because the FEO program successfully prevented them.

Simon is a former investment banker—a partner in the prestigious Wall Street firm of Salomon Brothers. A success almost since he left college, Simon had collected a multimillion dollar-a-year income, seven children, and a reputation as a tough task master when he became George Shultz's deputy secretary at the Treasury in January, 1973.

As treasury secretary, Simon apparently is not going to have the power that his mentor Shultz had.

According to White House spokesman Gerald Warren, the White House intends to play an increasing role in formulation of economic policy.

But, said one longtime Simon-watcher: "Bill Simon is not the kind of guy who sits around and watches other people play increasing and expanding roles —he's pretty good at that himself."

Ages-old flywheel is energy boon

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — Stanford University scientists are considering as a proposed solution to the energy shortage —the flywheel, an invention thousands of years old.

The versatile flywheel design presented to the Stanford Energy Seminar was introduced by Dr. Richard F. Post a professor at the University of California-Davis, and his son Stephen.

The Posts said large flywheels similar to the one they designed could be used to store power in electrically run cars and trucks. Larger flywheels, they said, could possibly be used to store large amounts of energy produced by electric utilities, helping them to meet peak hour loads.

Tax reform

Biggest loophole is politics itself

By JAMES S. BYRNE
Tax Analysts and Advocates
(Last in a Series)

For a number of reasons, this is a good year for tax reform. If Congress decides it is good politics to examine taxes in terms of what really benefits the public, here are some reforms it might consider.

The most popular way many rich individuals avoid paying much income tax is by capital gains. If an asset is held for six months and then sold, only half the profit is taxes.

The most important problem with capital gains is that if a rich family has stocks or real estate which rise in value, this appreciation builds the value of the estate that will be willed to heirs. If the family has enough income from other sources, these assets do not have to be sold and, thus, no income tax will be paid on the appreciated value. Probably half the increased value of private property that increases in value capes tax in this way.

Avoids income tax

When this wealth is transferred to the heirs, an estate tax is paid on the appreciated value. But estate taxes also are paid on wealth accumulated out of dividends, salaries, savings and business profits—all of which have been subject to income taxes during lifetime. Wealth accumulation in the form of property that increaes in value avoids the income tax.

Congress is aware that appreciation at death is a big issue in tax reform. President Kennedy had to go at this in 1963 and there was more discussion of it in 1969. This basic tax reform is now closer to enactment than at any time before but it will probably take a president who is willing to recommend it. Mr. Nixon has not been willing.

There are conspicuous tax preferences other than capital gains which basically do not benefit the public. One example is the availability of fast depreciation, especially for buildings, which generates large tax deductions for investors.

Another device which benefits money holders rather than the public is the tax shelter, an outgrowth of the tax-incentive program that was designed to offset tough corporate taxes. It has led to a complicated game in which tax-wise investors set up business organizations that work like corporations but without paying the corporate tax. The shelters can then shovel out to investors tax savings from real estate, cattle feeding and the like.

May fiddle around

Instead of digging into the hard problems of tax reform, Congress may fiddle around with the minimum income tax. The minimum tax was invented in 1969. Its supporters said that while tax incentives serve a useful purpose, they were not intended to create a class of nontaxpayers.

There have been many attempts in the current Congress to increase its bite but the beneficiaries of the tax benefits fight such increases in the minimum tax just as hard as proposals for fundamental reform.

Basically, the minimum tax is levied at 10 per cent on income that would otherwise be sheltered from tax by the use of certain allowances. In a sense, the minimum tax is the opiate of tax reformers. Putting a light burden on people or companies who enjoy substantial tax preferences blunts the emotional force of arguments about the wealthy paying no taxes.

At root, the minimum tax strategy is a way to deal with the politics of tax reform. If the minimum tax rate can be increased to the point that it becomes a severe burden, there will be increasing pressures for groups enjoying special preferences to give them up in exchange for the lifting of the minimum tax load. But this seems hardly likely.

Unfortunately, the minimum tax seems in many ways like a big game. The technical problems are very tough, almost too tough for a congressman to grapple with at the same time he is trying to keep in touch with constituents and maintain his inside track for re-election.

Political pay off

The political payoff for doing hard work like studying tax incentives to find out whether the public is getting its money's worth is very modest.

All this means that while 1974-75 seems like a good year for tax reform, the reforms might be very shallow one (e.g, the minimum tax).

WW II Japanese sub wasn't sunk off coast of Oregon?

MEDFORD, Ore. (UPI) — A World War II B25 bomber crew decorated for the sinking of a Japanese submarine off the Oregon coast probably sank an oil slick instead, a research journalist has concluded.

The "sinking" off the mouth of the Columbia River Christmas morning, 1941, has been the subject of a debate for three decades.

Three Army Air Corps officers were credited with the alleged feat. Their aircraft later flew in the Tokyo raid led by Gen. James Doolittle.

Journalist Bert Webber of Medford, Ore., concluded Wednesday, after a research project, that the supposed "sunken" submarine returned in early 1942 to sink several more ships. It also shelled Ft. Stevens near Astoria, Ore., he reported.

"The B25 surely did bomb something but it was not any Japanese submarine," Webber said. "The target of the B25's bombs early that Christmas morning probably was an oil slick."

Webber explained that the former executive officer of the "I-25" Japanese submarine wrote him that the vessel's bilge had been pumped before its departure from the Columbia River area five days before the alleged bombing.

Oregon State University commissioned the research, which Webber is making into a book. He received personal mail from nearly all survivors of the submarine, which finally was sunk in the South Seas in 1943.

Webber said the sub found a notch in military history, however, with its launching of aircraft in two raids over southern Oregon. One such sub-borne plane dropped bombs and started a forest fire.

Audit of IRS called for by protest chief

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — According to his eulogy, "Jonathon Q." led a pretty rotten life, in slavery and torment. Monday being tax day, there must have been thousands who would cast themselves in the title role.

The IRS, the eulogy said, "bugged his phone, read his mail, seized his small pretzel business, and ran off with his life savings from his safety deposit box —all this without due process of law."

The group, from the Church of Scientology, said the IRS constantly violates constitutional rights in its efforts to collect all the money it can get — "searches without warrants, seizures without warrants, electronic surveillance, things like that have been going on for years," said the group's leader, Heber Jentzsch.

When miners panned gold

When a lookout aboard an oldtime whaler first spotted a whale, he yelled, "Thar she blows!" When a faller among the lumberjacks made his last cut through a tree, he yelled, "Timber!" Client cites the foregoing, and asks? "What did the prospector of old traditionally yell, if anything, when he discovered gold?" Research reveals it was: "Color in my pan!"

Maybe you didn't know there's a snowless valley right in the middle of Antarctica. About 4,000 square miles of it. Lake Vanda sits in the center. The lake's covered with ice, all right. But the water temperature down at the bottom is in the high 70 degrees F.

Q. "How long should a good sherry age?"

A. Trick query, that. Sherry is made in a solera. That's a bank of connected barrels one atop the other. The vintner adds new wine to the top, bottles from the bottom. The sherries in all those casks tend to marry therefore. Some of that sherry in the bottle on your table, if such there be, may be fairly new, some may be decades old. Did I tell you the word sherry comes from a warped pronunciation of the name of tha Spanish port called Jerez?

$2 million winner in Brazil lottery

SALVADOR, Brazil (UPI) — A few days ago, Francisco Couto Portela, 25, was earning less than $200 a month working as an accountant's assistant in Salvador, capital city of Bahia state.

Now he is worth more than $2 million.

Portela was the only person in Brazil who chose correctly the results of 13 soccer games played throughout the country last weekend. It got him the world's largest lottery prize — $2,291,000. He managed it by betting 60 cents.

After two days of hiding out, Portela accompanied by officials of the Finance Ministry told newsmen at a news conference Wednesday that the first thing he intends to do with the money is pay off some debts.

"I bet illogically, not really believing I had the slightest chance at winning. I bet in favor of three "zebras" —the term for weak teams that usually lose.

How GOP, Demo spokesman view the party chances

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George Bush and Robert Strauss are sharing a common inhibition —both are trying to keep from saying what comes naturally.

Bush, the Republica National Committee chairman, is bravely fighting off despair and panic following four GOP congressional election disasters since February.

Strauss, his Democratic counterpart, is trying to squelch overconfidence, complacency and the impulse to claim victory in April for elections that won't be held until November.

But the plain fact that neither chairman will publicly concede or claim is that the GOP appears to be in deep trouble and the Democrats seem to have the tide with them as the 1974 congressional and state elections approach.

The most recent Democratic victory, in Michigan's 8th District just north of Detroit, would be no sweeter to Strauss nor more bitter to Bush than the previous three except for the extra added attraction of last Wednesday — the personal intervention, in the form of a full day of campaigning, by President Nixon. The President toured a series of rural towns in the Michigan "Thumb" and got what was generally agreed to be a warm reception.

Bush and Dean Burch, the manager of Sen. Barry Goldwater's 1964 presidential campaign who is now a Nixon aide, attached some significance Wednesday to the fact that the Republican candidate in Michigan, James Sparling, was 9 per cent behind Democrat Robert Traxler before Nixon appeared, but lost by only 3 per cent. Strauss, when asked about this, responded that it called to mind super-Texans of his acquaintance who liked to recall that "we lost only 128 men at the Alamo, while the other side lost thousands."

Bush's post-electio prescription for the GOP was "work harder" to get out the Republican vote and articulate the party's principles. But he said the November campaigns for 34 Senate seats, the entire 435-member House and 35 governorships would be "a new ball game" because it would be Democratic incumbents, not newcomers, running and "you're going to have changed conditions on employment, on Watergate (and) on energy."

Strauss, who has done everything to dampen Democratic euphoria short of denying that Watergate occurred, stuck to his season-long position that Nixon leadership, not the 1972 scan dals, was the controlling issue of the special elections. And he refused to show concern that an improving employment and energy picture might hurt his party's chances. He airily predicted that it would be the Democrats who control Congress who would gain from any such developments.

Strauss also put his finger on a factor in the Michigan special election campaign that was little noted at the time of Nixon's whirlwind stumping tour. Nixon did all of his campaigning in the predominantly rural area of the 8th District, and while Sparling carried them, he was stomped in the more populous urban areas such as Saginaw and Bay City, where unemployment is high. Strauss said Nixon's impact on the outcome was "negligible" because he ignored the cities, where both the problems and the votes exist.

The Michigan result also opened two other lines of campaign debate. Both Bush and Vice President Gerald R. Ford spoke in ominous tones of a possible overwhelming Democratic victory, producing "a veto proof" Congress that would be bad for the country, and there was a renewal of Republican complaints that labor unions had tipped the balance with massive outlays of money and organizing effort.

Strauss responded to these by suggesting that it ill-behooved Republicans to complain about "do-nothing" Democratic congresses on one hand and warn about dominant control on the other.

On the complaint about unions, Strauss finessed, saying the Democrats had indeed been successful among "working people—expecially the 10 per cent in that Michigan district who are unemployed."

2 suspects in slaying freed

EL MONTE (UPI) — Two men, arrested in connection with the shooting deaths of two teen-agers at a trailer court four days ago, were released recently for lack of evidence.

Released were Faris Zeferino Ramirez, 35, and Richard Zardenta Telles, 18. Police said they believe a third man, not identified, was responsible for the shooting of Rudy Guzman, 17, and Robert Arizmendi, 19, who were gunned down Sunday while standing in front of the trailer court.

Martha Mitchell: a very unhappy woman

By VERNON SCOTT

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Martha Mitchell said Wednesday night she is a very "unhappy woman," who has been "restrained physically" from seeing her daughter and no longer recognizes her husband.

The estranged wife of former Attorney General John Mitchell appeared on the "Tomorrow Show" to say that she favored impeachment of President Nixon as a means "of bringing everything out into the open."

Mrs. Mitchell came here from New York to appear on the interview show, to be broadcast by NBC-TV May 1.

By turns reflective and gay, Mrs. Mitchell blamed Nixon for her own personal problems as well as the national political malaise of the administration.

She also denied being crazy or alcoholic, saying, "I've been accused of being both in part of a campaign by certain people in Washington."

"John Mitchell left me with $945 in the bank," she said. "He puts money in the bank, but it's not a regular thing. It's difficult for me to pay my bills. I even have trouble trying to get an attorney. I don't have one now."

Regarding Nixon's knowledge of Watergate and the subsequent coverup, Mrs. Mitchell said, "My husband always said there was nothing in the government that Richard Nixon didn't know about.

"Nixon knew everything that was going on in Washington," she said. "Is there any way he could not have known when he saw John twice a day and talked to him three times a day on the telephone?"

She said the White House tormented her constantly.

"In Mississippi last year, the Secret Service was following me," she said. "I fear for my safety from time to time. I don't know if I am being followed.

"The John Mitchell and Richard Nixon I knew aren't alive any more, they are dead. They killed themselves. John Mitchell is not near the man I knew. But he started out with good intentions."

Asked if she would weep if her estranged husband were convicted and imprisoned, she said, "I don't think I'd cry any more if he was sent to jail. I've been through all that."

Mrs. Mitchell was near tears when she said she had not seen her daughter Marty, 12, for many months.

Kidnap victim's screams spur convict's recapture

MERCED (UPI) — An escaped convict who kidnaped a Marin County couple was recaptured Monday because one victim started screaming at a gasoline station.

Mrs. Victoria DuBois, 19, locked the convict out of the couple's car when he left it to fill the gasoline tank at a self-service station.

Her screams attracted station attendants and led to Robert R. Hohenberger, 31, fleeing on foot —only to be caught by a posse directed by the Mercent County sheriff's office.

Hohenberger, serving time for assault with a deadly weapon, escaped from a minimum security area at San Quentin Prison on Friday and kidnaped the hiking San Rafael couple Sunday on Mount Tamalpais, using a knife.

He is to be charged with escape, kidnaping and assault with a deadly weapon.

Today is Friday, April 19, the 109th day of 1974 with 256 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries.

American nuclear scientist Glenn Seaborg was born April 19, 1912.

On this day in history:

In 1775, the American Revolutionary War began.

In 1933, the United States went off the gold standard.

In 1972, U.S. warships in the Gulf of Tonkin were attacked by Communist MIGs and patrol boats.

A thought for the day: American poet James Russell Lowell said, "Who speaks the truth stabs falsehood in the heart."

Rattles & straws

Hours seem like days

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Poets, we are told (by poets) reveal Truth to us.

As a rule of thumb, or pen, I think the statement is valid. However, occasionally a poet goofs, or more poetically, errs. One of the more majestic booboos in the annals of onomatopoeia is found in Longfellow's lines about the children's hour:

Between the dark and the daylight,
When the night is beginning to lower,
Comes a pause in the day's occupations,
That is known as the Children's Hour."

Now I submit that for the harried mother and the workworn father, nothing called the Children's Hour represents any pause in the day's occupations. Au, as the French say, Contraire.

For one thing, that period "between the dark and the daylight" is not the children's hour at all; it is the cocktail hour, that brief respite in the long day when a man wants to — nay, must — relax for a moment over a chilled martini to recharge his battery.

Longfellow's poem describes in rather sickening phrases three lovely little girls who leave Nanny in the nursery and creep downstairs to pounce on the dear, sentimental poet — the old fool.

In today's typical family, Children's Hour finds the television set and radio blaring, teen-age daughter on the telephone, teen-age son batting his siblings about.

Various children, depending on their age, build booby traps in the hall, throw baseballs through the window, and crawl about tipping over wastebaskets and breaking ahstrays.

Children's Hour: You separate the brawlers, wipe a bloody nose, pick up the broken glass, sweep out the trash. At this point all of the kids are acting like your wife's children.

If you are a good father (and have had the day off) you may do something constructive with one or more of the little whelps. You toss the ball around with your oldest son, and he soon has you panting, perspiring and falling into the rose bushes.

Maybe you help another with his Cub Scout project. ("Make a chestful of toys and games to entertain the whole family.") The minute I pick up hammer and saw, I entertain the whole family. They stand around holding the first aid kit and having hysterics.

Children's Hour may entail helping your daughter with her homework. ("If two boys sell five apples and one-third of a mellon, and each boy has $1.26, how many mellons would . . . " Or, "Underline the gerundive participles and dangling infinitives, showing the indefinite relationships between . . . ") Oh boy!

And this "pause in the day's occupation" may be otherwise filled with discussion of report cards, fights at school, allowances, dented fenders, outcurves, playing with matches, and other topics of general interest.

For my money, the Children's Hour is when they are all in bed and asleep.

The doctor comments

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I get a terrific shock every time I touch something metal at home, work, shopping, getting out of a car, etc. I have even shocked other people.

It's a crazy situation, and it's beginning to get me down. Can anything be done about it?

DEAR READER — This is more common than you apparently realize. In modern operating rooms, the personnel must all wear grounded shoes, or shoe coverings. A wire conductor connection is placed inside the sock to connect the body to the grounded footwear. This is done because everyone has some degree of the problem you describe.

You are storing static electricity. It is capable of giving of a spark. Since there are explosive gases used in the operating rooms, it is very important that no spark occur, hence the grounded footwear.

You might check with some of the medical supply houses in your city and see if they can offer you any footwear that would do the trick.

As you know, after you have discharged the static electricity from touching something metal or a person you will not have another immediate discharge shock until you have built up electricity again. If you continually discharge electricity you won't build up a static charge. I suppose if it is really a problem you could have a piece of metal in the heel of your shoe that touches the surface of the floor and connects to a piece of metal that has contact with your bare heel. This would serve as a constant ground wire and prevent accumulation of static electricity.

Rugs are a common cause of the problem. The friction between the filament and the movement of your feet builds up static electricity. The coverings without filaments are better in this sense, such as tile, wood, or even the flatter indoor-outdoor carpeting (but that too can still be a problem).

I can't resist the temptation to suggest that if all else fails you could always wear a chain and drag it along as gasoline trucks do to prevent static electricity and the possibility of an explosion. It would be a real conversation piece.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been told by friends that two foods, almonds and saccharin, can cause cancer. One person told me that if you eat two almonds a day you will inevitably get cancer. This sounds ridiculous. How reliable are these rumors?

DEAR READER — As far as almonds go, the statement is completely wild. There is no truth in it at all.

Saccharin is another story. There is some evidence that large amounts of saccharin may cause bladder tumors. In fact, it may have been the saccharin and not the cyclamates that caused the problems in rats that led to the banning of cyclamates in the country. I suspect the saccharin has been left on the market because the government didn't want to rush headlong into another decision without all the facts, as occured with the cyclamate mess.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb in care of The Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on ulcers, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Ulcers" booklet.

Kidnap or execution victims

SLA had target list of 14

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) —The names of 14 San Francisco area business executives appear on lists of potential kidnap or execution targets of the Symbionese Liberation Army, police sources said Thursday.

The names were included in SLA documents seized in January in homes of suspected SLA members.

Two of hte names were found in a Concord, Calif., bungalow which was set afire a few hours after the arrests in the area of Joseph Remiro and Russell Little, SLA "soldiers" later indicted for the assassination of Oakland school superintendent Marcus Foster.

The other names were discovered in the Oakland apartment of William and Emily Harris, an Oakland couple who vanished the morning of the Concord fire leaving their belongings behind. Warrants for the Harrises were issued Wednesday, accusing them of perjury on drivers license applications.

The Harris list contained instructions on how to conduct surveillance of the "targets'" residences and prepare maps and reports about their neighborhoods.

Persons on the list generally were wealthy business executives but most were not publicly prominent. Two documents contained this paragraph:

"This attack is to serve notice on this corporation and its divisions, its subsidiaries and its executives that they have been found guilty of supporting the murder, oppression and robbery of the people of the world."

Most of the targets were not warned by police until after the Feb. 4 kidnaping of Patricia Hearst when, some of the potential victims said, police began taking the SLA "seriously."

One of the targets was John E. Countryman, former board chairman of Del Monte, who died 21 months ago of natural causes.

Among others listed were a distribution executive of Colgate-Palmolive, a Standard Oil director, a University of California regent, the board chairman of Safeway Stores, a Bank of America executive, two men connected with ITT and at least two men now retired.

Minority aides to address counseling unit

WEST COVINA — Representatives from black and Mexican-American ethnic groups will speak at a meeting of the San Gabriel Valley Chapter of the California Association of Marriage and Family Counselors Sunday.

The meeting will be held in the Community Room of the Home Federal Savings and Loan Building, 1400 W. Service Ave. from 2 to 4 p.m.

The speakers will be Jewel Otis, executive director of Job Resources and Educational Center, Inc., Monrovia, and Christine Flores, a counselor with Community Concern Corp., Los Angeles.

Arline Steiner, a retired Pomona school teacher, is chapter president. Chapter members meet the third Sunday of each month in the Community Room. They will sponsor a seminar May 18-19 at Cal State Los Angeles on "The Violent and the Victim," and another in September on "Counseling the Handicapped."

Their meetings and seminars are open to the public and to students and interns entering the field.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF PROPOSED ABANDONMENT OF A PORTION OF TORITO LANE IN THE VICINITY OF DIAMOND BAR IN THE FIRST SUPERVISORIAL DISTRICT

Notice is hereby given that a Resolution of Intention and Order was adopted by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles on April 9, 1974, declaring its intention to abandon a portion of Torito Lane on the turnaround beginning at a point approximately 510 ft. northwesterly of Golden Springs Road in the vicinity of Diamond Bar, in the First Supervisorial District, as described in Exhibit "A", attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference.

EXHIBIT "A"

That portion of Torito Lane, in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, as shown on map filed in Book 27, page 88, of Parcel Maps, in the office of the Recorder of said County, within the following described boundaries:

Commencing at the southwesterly terminus of that certain course of North 56°40'00" East in the center line of said Torito Lane, as said center line is shown on said map; thence North 56°40'00" East along said certain course 2.50 feet; thence North 33°20'00" West 32.50 feet to a point, said point being a point on a curve concave to the south and having a radius of 32.5 feet, a radial of said curve to said point bears North 33°20'00" West; thence southwesterly and southerly along said curve to a point in the northeasterly prolongation of that certain course of North 56°40'20" East 4.03 feet in the northwesterly boundary of said Torito Lane, said last mentioned point being the true point of beginning; thence northerly, northeasterly, easterly, southeasterly and southerly along said curve to the beginning of a reverse curve concave to the east and having a radius of 34.85 feet, said reverse curve being tangent at the south-easterly terminus thereof to the northwesterly prolongation of that certain course of North 33°20'00" West 188.68 feet in the northeasterly boundary of said Torito Lane; thence southerly along said reverse curve to said northwesterly prolongation; thence southeasterly along said northwesterly prolongation to said northeasterly boundary; thence northwesterly, northerly, westerly, southwesterly and southerly along the northeasterly, easterly, northerly, northwesterly and westerly boundaries of said Torito Lane to the northeasterly terminus of said certain course of North 56°40'20" East 4.03 feet; thence northeasterly along said northeasterly prolongation to said true point of beginning.

A hearing on the proposed abandonment will be held in the Hearing Room of the Board of Supervisors, Room 381 Hall of Administration, 500 West Temple Street, (corner Temple Street and Grand Avenue), Los Angeles, California 90012 on THURSDAY, May 9, 1974, at 9:30 o'clock a.m.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, adopted April 9, 1974.

Cultural awareness training slated in school district

POMONA — Teachers and administrators in Pomona public schools are being asked to complete a minimum of 60 hours' inservice training in minority cultural awareness within the next two years to comply with new state legislation.

The legislation requires that certificated personnel in districts where there is more than a 25 per cent minority enrollment complete inservice training in the history, culture and current problems of the minorities.

Pomona has a 25.18 per cent black enrollment at the elementary level, and a 28.76 per cent black enrollment at the secondary level. It has a 22.66 per cent enrollment of Spanish surnamed students at the elementary level and a 19.95 per cent enrollment of Spanish surnamed students at the secondary level, according to statistics presented at the school board meeting Tuesday night.

"It is the professional responsibility of the certificated staff—both teachers and administrators—to participate in the inservice training," said Sidney G. Moses, assistant superintendent of educational services.

Moses said any part of the required training completed by a teacher or administrator within the past four years would be acceptable and counted towards his or her 60 hours.

There are approximately 840 teachers and 65 administrators in Pomona schools.

At Tuesday's meeting, the board unanimously adopted a cultural awareness inservice program written in the district which details courses and programs acceptable.

Listed were after-school sessions during the regular work day, independent study plans which are approved by a school term and the Office of Intergroup Education, college or university courses, community work experience with minority organizations, and after school, evening, Saturday or summer paid inservice, such as that normally scheduled for the Comp Ed school staffs.

Five "philosophical" goals were stated. They were "to achieve the worth and dignity of each individual, to achieve respect for each individual, to achfeve freedom for each individual to the extent that it does not deprive another of his freedom or human rights, to achieve an opportunity for equality in education for each individual."

Six additional goals were stated, based on "our changing student enrollment and district programming with a multi-cultural emphasis."

They were to facilitate dynamic, meaningful communication in the district, to improve communication skill, to develop interpersonal and intrapersonal mutual respect of staff, students, and community through communication and personal contact.

Also, to present accurate information regarding the accomplishments of all races, all peoples, all nations; to provide opportunities designed to develop awareness of feelings, attitudes and behaviors concerning groups that have been labeled minorities and to provide opportunities for positive change, as appropriate, in those feelings, attitudes and behaviors.

Also, to facilitate training designed to help people define their real problems and then to work out and facilitate their own plans for solutions.

The program adopted states that all training courses must be equal to 15 hours per credit unit, and while 60 hours is the minimum, there is an option of 30 additional hours.

Each school is to organize an educational team which will work in conjunction with the district's representative to evaluate courses taken.

The teachers and administrators have from July until July of 1976 to complete the training.

MSAC receives salary increase proposals ranging from 12 to 16%

By BOB NAGEY
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — Salary increases ranging from 12 to 16.3 per cent were sought Thursday by employes of the Mt. San Antonio College District.

The requests were taken under study by the college's board of trustees with some counter offer expected next month.

The 16.3 per cent raise was asked by the California School Employes Association, whose chapter president, James Graves, estimated that the cost of living by the end of June would rise that much over the corresponding period of last year.

He said that if the board approves the request, then "we can maintain our present standard of living."

The request was higher than the 12 per cent recommended for the district's classified employes by Eugene Curl, assistant business manager of the district. He said Department of Labor statistics show the cost of living in the metropolitan Los Angeles area rose 10.9 per cent during the past eight months.

Curl also asked for more fringe benefits and a better formula by which to tie the salaries to the cost of living index.

Also seeking 12 per cent raises were the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, the college's office and clerical staff, and the teaching staff.

The instructors, in seeking the pay increases, asked the board to boost minimum salaries from $10,180 to $11,460, and maximum salaries from $19,840 to $22,170 for their 10-month year.

The teachers also asked for comparable increases for evening instructors and the summer school staff.

The SCME, in seeking the 12 per cent raise, asked the board to grant 6 per cent of the total as a lump amount across the board to all employes, and the rest as a percentage increase.

The school employes association, with a membership of 130, is the largest classified group. The SCME has 39 members and the office workers group represents 63 persons.

The certificated employes were represented by the Mt. San Antonio College Faculty Association.

FROG GOES A-WOOING

Giant frog (Mark Klopfenstein) from the Mt. San Antonio College children's theater group, gets a hug from 10-year-old Elsie Doran while 6-year-old Meri Doran offers him a kiss, and Gloria Thomas looks on. The frog will be performing in the second annual Children's Theater Festival to be held on the Cal Poly campus from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Fourteen professional, amateur and college theater companies will present shows at various locations on campus during the festival.

Home-study student is ill so school clears account

I enrolled in a home study course, making a down payment of $40.

Then I had an accident which totaled my car. I developed a nervous condition and can't keep any one thing on my mind for long at a time.

I write to the school telling what happened and asking that my course be canceled as I had completed only one lesson.

The school has billed me for $253.75. I cannot hold a job half the time and live alone with no other support than what I earn.

I don't know what I could possible owe $253.75 for. Please help. — K.P., Pomona.

M. Liegl, student service manager, informed us that you enrolled with International Accountants Society for the home study course on Feb. 17, 1973.

You submitted one assignment, which was returned to you with a grade of 'A".

When you wrote to the society telling of your accident, you were asked to submit a doctor's statement giving full details so that the school could evaluate the amount due upon termination.

You didn't reply, according to Liegl, so International Accountants Society canceled your program and advised you that $293.75 was due according to the terms of your contract. This amount, less your down payment of $40 left a balance of $253.75.

Because you have indicated you are suffering from a nervous condition and acquiring a doctor's statement might cause you additional mental strain, International Accountants Society is waiving the requirement for a doctor's statement and canceling your program with no further obligation. The society said you would be welcomed as a student if you are able to reenroll in the future.

I wonder what can be done to improve the service of the Humane Society by putting on extra men for the hours after the office closes.

As you know, the law clearly states dogs should not run loose but this apparently only applies to the hours 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Our lawns are fouled each night by neighborhood dogs who are allowed to roam.

I would think the fines collected from the people who disregard the law would pay for a night crew to police the city.

Anyway, I'm asking Action Line to see that there is a little less action on my lawn. — A.P., Pomona.

The Humane Society of Pomona Valley, Inc., regularly operates a patrol until 11 p.m., answers emergency complaints during the rest of the night, and has another patrol beginning about 5:30 a.m.

They also patrolled your area during the night and early morning hours through a four-night period, including a patrol around 2:30 a.m.

Officer Dean Balduc reported that in all the times he patrolled your neighborhood, he saw only one dog on the street and it was at the end of a leash and under control of a man.

The trap caught no dogs but it did catch one cat on each of three consecutive nights. Each time the cat was released.

Officers reported many cats roaming the neighborhood. Two were seen pulling trash from the top of a trash can two doors away from your house. The officers think it may responsible for your lawn problem.

Model U.N. has 11 from Cal Poly

POMONA — Eleven Cal Poly students are representing the People's Republic of South Yemen in the annual National Model United Nations conference through Sunday in New York City.

While the university has had a model United Nations in past years, this is the first year the contingent is participating in the national meeting.

Students representing the university include Jerry L. Morris of Upland, delegation chairman; Wendy Scott, Diana Curtis, Penny Glasgow, Dave Schnitzer and Jose Marcus, all of Pomona; Thomas Pruitt, Patty McKniff and Eileen Schulte, all of Covina; Donna Stone of Claremont; and George Rodriguez of Walnut.

TV Week features Grand Ole Opry

"County Comes Home," a Friday night NBC special saluting the Grand Ole Opry, is the cover close-up subject of this Sunday's Progress-Bulletin supplement, TV Week. The 10 p.m. musical salute will feature Johnny Cash, Loretta Lynn, Charlie Rich and the Earl Scruggs Revue.

Cal Poly forum will probe solutions to energy crisis

POMONA — A forum discussion stressing the future possibilities and solutions to the energy crisis will be presented Tuesday from 9 a.m to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m. in the Cal Poly theater.

Participants, who will give short presentations, include Barna S. Szabo, chief deputy supervisor, Los Angeles County Fourth District; Dr. W. H. Chillingar, professor of petroleum engineering at USC; Alan Tratner, Citizens' Foundation for Alternate Energy; James Cermak, associate professor of energy and kinetics at UCLA; and Edward A. Myers Jr., vice president of Southern California Edison Co.

The meeting, open to the public at no charge, is sponsored by the Cal Poly chapter of Tau Beta Pi national engineering honor society in cooperation with the Associated Students, Inc.

Parking meters removed from downtown lot

POMONA — A change in the parking limit at the parking lot at the southwest corner of Third and Main streets went into effect today.

The rate there of 25 cents for all-day parking was replaced by free parking with a two hour limit. Removal of parking meter heads and installation of new signs were made by city crewmen Thursday.

The changes were authorized with the approval of the City Council of a resolution of commissioners of Vehicle Parking District No. 3.

The resolution says the changes were necessary because of a parking problem in the general vicinity of Third and Thomas.

In a letter to the council, Richard E. Abblitt, district chairman, said it appeared that a lot just south of Great Western Savings and Loan fills up early in the morning, eliminating adequate parking for customers.

He said the southwest lot was being used only by about three cars a day, bringing in 75 cents in revenue daily for the entire lot.

Athletic club gets reprieve, can stay at school for year

POMONA — Sacred Heart Athletic Club has been given a one-year extension on its agreement with Pomona school district to use the gym of the old Fremont Junior High School as a meeting place and training headquarters.

Schools Supt. Robert E. Wentz told the school board this week that Mayor Ray Lepire, Councilman Ben Ochoa, City Administrator Gerry Gonce and club officials were in agreement that the club needs a permanent facility.

Wentz said the City Council had agreed to assist the club in applying for a federal or state grant which would allow it to purchase or build a permanent structure suitable for its programs.

The club first occupied the old gym on May 25, 1971, under a year agreement with the school district. In February, district administrators recommended that it be asked to leave, citing district need of warehouse space as the reason.

The school board failed to accept the recommendation and called for meetings with City Council to attempt to find a solution to the problem.

Council proclaims four weeks in one

POMONA — The City Council issued proclamations celebrating four events next week.

The events are Mt. San Antonio College Day on Sunday, Realtor Week, Secretaries Week and Youth Temperance Education Week, all from Sunday through Saturday.

One of the proclamations urged citizens to join with the Pomona-Claremont Woman's Christian Temperance Union in the observance of programs on the harmful effects on the human system caused by alcohol, tobacco, narcotics, hallucinatory and other dangerous drugs.

General Motors show visits Pomona schools

Nine local junior high schools have been getting a peek into the future with Previews of Progress, General Motors national assembly program, appearing at their campuses.

The Programs concluded in this area at Emerson Junior High in Pomona at 1 p.m. and 2 p.m. today.

The noncommercial show is midway through a 35-school appearance schedule in the southland.

The program seeks to inspire more student interest in science, engineering, and related vocational careers. It is presented live and narrated in nontechnical language by a two-man team.

Previews of Progress demonstrations depict work being done today in America's research laboratories and point out contributions of research to modern living. Highlighted in the program are two energy conversion techniques involving fuel cells and solar cells.

Fuel cells convert chemical energy into electical power and solar cells change sunlight into usable energy. Students also were shown recent developments aimed at solving water and air-pollution problems. Another demonstration uses a laser beam to translate sounds into visual patterns of light.

All in all, the students saw nine separate examples of research-in-action.

Imagine Siberia a tourist trap

With little fanfare, the inaugural flight of a new weekly service between Washington, D.C., and Moscow took off the other day from Dulles International Airport.

Aboard the IL-62 turbojet, flagship of Aeroflot, the Soviet airline, were American travel writers, legislators and other VIPS invited to sample the tourist attractions of the Soviet Union and to discover first-hand whether the Russians are serious about this business of "detente" — not just on a government-to-government level but a people-to people one.

They apparently are, judging from statements by Aeroflot, which up to now has been restricted to operating only from New York. An official expressed hope that the new Washington-Moscow service would present the opportunity of discovering the "unknown" Soviet Union to a wider segment of the U.S. travel public.

"There is much more to the Soviet Union that American tourists should be aware of," said an Aeroflot spokesman in good old American public-relationsese. "In addition to the cultural, historic and leisure appeal of our large cities such as Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev, we think Americans will be pleasantly surprised by the subtropical climate and lush, tranquil beauty of our Black Sea Coast."

He went on to describe "fairylike winters with bright sunshine, sparkling snowflakes and dry frost, more bearable than the bone-chilling dampness of winters in the north-eastern U.S." Still waiting to be discovered "are ski and winter resorts, which should have a special appeal to active sports enthusiasts."

If you're enthusiastic enough, you can book a round-trip, first-class seat for $1,117. Economy fares will range from $836 in the fall and winter to $1,034 during the peak spring and summer months.

To make you even more enthusiastic, Paris, the one stop on the flight, is thrown in as a "bonus."

Tourism, like every other aspect of international dealings, is a two-way street, of course. After all, restrictions on travel by Russians in this country have only been in response to similar restrictions on Americans in Russia.

Said the same Aeroflot official: "We hope that the sight of Americans strolling beside the Moscow River eating blini and Russian visitors eating hot dogs along the banks of the Potomac will be commonplace rather than a rarity."

Yet one wonders if they realize what they could be starting. Russians strolling along the Potomac will absorb a lot more of the American way of life than wieners and buns. And American rubber neckers in Moscow or Leningrad or elsewhere, with their free and easy manners, will leave as much an impression on the Russians they meet as they will take away with them.

All eyes have been on the SALT nuclear arms limitations talks in Geneva and the peregrinations of Secretary of State Kissinger and his grave deliberations with Kremlin officials.

The real thing to watch for signs of the future shape of U.S.-Soviet relations may actually be the success of this attempt by the Soviet Union to introduce the hot dog lovers to the blini eaters.

Percy who?

The front running, although officially unannounced, candidates for the Republican presidential nomination in 1976 are, of course, Vice President Gerald Ford, Governor Ronald Reagan and former New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller.

If you ask "Percy who?" you are not alone. Charles Percy, U.S. Senator from Illinois, is not exactly a household name nationwide, even though he out-polled Richard Nixon while winning a second term in the Republican landslide year of 1972.

Percy is personable, if not dynamic. A youngish 54 he is moderately liberal. Although he has been told bluntly by GOP bigwigs that no one really is taking his bid seriously, he hopes that whatever happens to Nixon by 1976 the Republicans—and the country—will want a fresh, untainted new figure in the White House. Another Ike Eisenhower.

Unfortunately for Percy he has no world-endearing war record to open people's hearts as Ike did. Nor, say those who know him does he come over with the Eisenhower or Kennedy charismatic effect.

Politics, however, is among other things the art of the possible. And Senator Percy is seriously, studiously, dedicatedly devoting himself to bucking the presidential nomination odds.

White House pressured Agnew

WASHINGTON — Spiro Agnew grimly told aides after his abdication last October that the White House had brought "terrible" pressures on him to give up the vice presidency.

The White House feared he would lose his fight to stay in office, said Agnew, thereby setting a bad precedent for President Nixon's own struggle against impeachment. Agnew felt compelled to resign in exchange for a deal to keep out of jail.

Only a few hours after the high drama in a Baltimore courtroom, we have now learned, he discussed his action individually with trusted aides.

"There are things you don't know about and pressures that were brought on me that you may never know about," he told one aide, who has now recounted the conversation to us.

To another aide, Agnew described the White House as "ruthless" and the pressure it brought on him as "terrible."

What pressures? For one, the White House staff chief, Alexander Haig, had called Agnew's top aide, Art Sohmer, and had warned brutally that the Vice President could end up behind bars if he continued his fighting tactics.

But the Agnew aides were familiar with this incident; they knew the President was maneuvering to ease their man out. What, then, were the terrible, unknown pressures?

One former aide told us he had learned from Agnew's Secret Service bodyguards that the pressures were "personal." Another former aide said he "understood" that Agnew wanted to protect his family from embarrassing revelations.

Washington Post reporters Richard Cohen and Jules Witcover in their carefully researched Agnew book, "A Heartbeat Away," allude cautiously to "spicy insights into Agnew's personal life."

They report that "several witnesses had volunteered very damaging information about aspects of Agnew's personal life." These findings, they assert, were "ruled out of bounds" by the prosecutors.

The suppressed statements to the prosecutors, we have learned, dealt with allegations that a Maryland contractor had provided Agnew with a call girl in exchange for government favors.

Agnew told us that the call girl charge was "laughable" and "ridiculous," and played no part in his decision to resign as Vice President. He knew who had told the prosecutors these stories, he said, and the contractor was a "congenital liar . . . , a wild man."

Agnew said he had told his wife all about the sex charges and, therefore, any threat to reveal these charges couldn't possibly have been used as a weapon against him.

Another story linked Agnew with a friend of Blaze Starr, the famed, fiery burlesque queen. She acknowledged to us that Agnew was a "steady customer" at her Baltimore strip joint, the Two O'Clock Club, during his county executive days. But she recalls him as a quiet man who sat in a corner, minding his own business.

FOOTNOTE: We obtained a draft copy of an autobiography Blaze Starr is writing for the Praeger publishing house. She doesn't mention Agnew, but recounts a romantic interlude with Philadelphia's law-and-order Mayor Frank Rizzo.

According to her account, she met Rizzo about 20 years ago when he was a police captain. He arrested her, she related, for her "Panther Woman" strip act in Philadelphia. This led eventually to a rendezvous with Rizzo in the apartment of one of his friends, she wrote. For awhile thereafter, she met him frequently.

Reached at his office in Philadelphia, Mayor Rizzo fumed that the story "absolutely is not true . . .All I ever did to her was arrest her."

The publishers told us that they gave Blaze Starr a lie detector test about the Rizzo revelations before accepting her manuscript. She passed the test completely, they said.

In contrast, the mayor made news recently when he offered to take a lie detector test about an alleged pay-off and then failed the test.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: President Nixon identifies more and more lately with people who fight against the odds. During a recent White House discussion on the Middle East, according to the secret minutes, he suddenly blurted: "I admire those Israelis. They've got guts. How they will fight!" . . . House Speaker Carl Albert advised us privately to disregard speculation about how the House will vote on President Nixon's impeachment. Albert said he was convinced from cloakroom conversations that the majority are waiting for the House Judiciary Committee to lay out the evidence . . .

Sources close to the impeachment inquiry say the grand jury evidence which was delivered to the committee in such great secrecy, contains little new material. But the compilation of all the existing evidence, say our sources, adds up to a "devastating case against the President"

MYSTERY CONGRESSMAN: Attorney General William Saxbe titillated reporters recently by telling them about a mystery congressman who came to him seeking clearance for Jimmy Hoffa to engage in Teamsters Union politics.

We have now been able to identify Hoffa's mysterious errand boy as Rep. Larry Williams, R-Pa. Our sources say Williams not only approached Saxbe but buttonholed President Nixon at a White House party.

The irrepressible Hoffa, whose prison sentence for jury tampering was commuted by the President, is eager to regain his old post as Teamsters chief. The government claims his presidential pardon bars him from involvement in Teamsters politics, but Hoffa insists that it became unconditional after March 10, 1973.

To press Hoffa's case, Williams sought an appointment on Feb. 4 with Saxbe and showed up with a Hoffa ally, Al Cohen. Earlier, Williams twice cornered President Nixon and talked to him about Hoffa at a Christmas party. Sources with direct knowledge of the incident tell us that, the second time, the President told Williams with some irritation: "Larry, I got your message."

Reinecke dealt a body blow

California's gubernatorial contest continues to get curiouser.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke has been indicted on three counts of perjury by a Watergate grand jury in Washington D.C.

Reinecke says:

"I am innocent."

"I will not plead guilty."

"There will be no plea bargaining."

"I intend to fight this action."

The heck of it is that innocent or guilty Reinecke's gubernatorial campaign has been dealt a body blow. In this era of hysteria the "innocent until proven guilty" thesis isn't given much weight and a great number of California voters are going to start looking for someone else to support.

The indictment sword has been hanging over the Lt. Governor's head for quite some time. Before Reinecke filed for the Republican nomination for governor he had travelled to Washington, D.C., in February trying to get "official clearance of my name" from special prosecutor Leon Jaworski. He did not get any answer.

Just a few weeks ago in a further attempt to get the cloud off his head Reinecke, at his own request, was able to get the FBI to give him a two-day lie detector test on the subject matter. He emerged from that session saying that he was innocent of any wrong-doing. Results of the test were not made public by the FBI or Jaworski.

When the indictments were handed down, Reinecke said:

The special prosecutor's office "... have said they have no witnesses, no evidence, no information or material, except that which I myself turned over to them.

"I have given total cooperation on a totally voluntary basis because I have nothing to hide. I have waived my client-attorney privileges. I have answered every question and I have turned over all my files and records.

"I find this decision shocking, incredible and unbelievable in terms of fairness to the special prosecutor's office . . . "

Reinecke concluded, "I am in the gubernatorial race to stay. I will win the June primary, and I will win the November general election."

Guilty?

President Nixon has been accused of so many crimes, we wonder just what specific charges will be made. Possibly, the hearings will be in the nature of a kangaroo court, where the niceties of law are not so important. Presumably, if it can be established he was even aware of skulduggery, it will be sufficient to convict.

Which places us all in jeopardy. We hear of some crime from the media.They have their favorites, whose errancies they love to bring to light. We can hardly be unaware of other crime, popular as it is today. Do we thereby become a party thereof? How can we protect ourselves?

We nailed Christ to the cross. Here, we see the same mob hysteria, where even Nixon's best friends dare not put in a good word for him.

What has happened to law and order? Where is our Christianity?

Crime is too often in the eyes of the beholder. Unions do not feel constrained in buying an election, although they deplore the practice in others. Zealots in the National Council of Churches have been known to divert welfare funds from food for the world's hungry to guns for the African insurgents. — Ray O. Swanson, Pomona.

Pet pup returned

Many thanks to the Progress-Bulletin and the Pomona Humane Society for my not having to run a "found" advertisement over the holiday weekend.

Because of the genuine concern of Florence in the classified advertising department and a kind young lady at the Humane Society, "Chrisma" the Samoyed pup joyfully returned to her owner less than 24 hours after her unscheduled trip across town, and my "Found" ad was cheerfully cancelled.

It is such a pleasure to find people more interested in the welfare of others than in executing red tape and extracting money! — Carolyn J. Therrio, Claremont.

Gossip for today

Today, when a fellow takes his girl for a ride and a few miles down the road insists the gas tank is empty, he is probably telling the truth.

Only 30 years ago (To some of us it seems like only yesterday.) you could mail a letter anywhere in the United States for only 2 cents.

Once, according to a popular song, we fought a war to make sure that someday the lights would go on again all over the world. Today we are still desperately trying to live up to that promise, but a good start has now been made. Once again, on a week end basis, the lights are shining on the Las Vegas Strip.

When our children were babies we could hardly wait until they learned to talk. Now we scream to high heaven because they won't keep their mouths shut.

And just try to tell the politically oriented youth of today that "Poor Richard's Almanac" was written by Benjamin Franklin.

Finally, if the truth must be told, isn't it surprising how eventually we all arrive at that age when we know what to do but don't feel like doing it?

RAY CROMLEY

Does Yugoslavia play both sides?

WASHINGTON — U.S. analysts were amazed at the effectiveness of Soviet weapons tested in last fall's Arab-Israeli war. But what has shocked them more is the discovery that essential components of some of the most advanced Red weapons systems clearly reached Russian designers through a series of U.S. and West European security leaks.

This discovery serves as a most worrisome portent for our future safety. The Russian buildup of recent years makes effective U.S. defense dependent on staying comfortably ahead technologically, a lead which cannot be maintained if the Russians have ready access to our latest discoveries.

Ironically, the leaks were not developed through the ingenuity of Russian agents. Rather, the critical new devices were virtually handed the Russians for free as a result of major mistakes by analysts of East European countries and because of some wishful Washington thinking as to what motivates the leaders of Yugoslavia and other East European nations.

To understand the problem, we must go back roughly two decades to when the Yugoslavs "broke" with the USSR, and the United States thereupon began a daring experiment in foreign aid.

The resulting U.S. support of Yugoslavia has since burgeoned into billions of dollars of direct and indirect assistance. The United States has gone so far as to train Yugoslav pilots and other military officers and technicians. And with the blessings of the State Department and the Pentagon, American companies have delivered the Yugoslavs advanced protytype weapons banned for sale to the Russians and Chinese.

The theory was that nationalism is stronger than communism, and that if it came to a showdown, the Yugosavs would put their own interests before those of Moscow and would resist Russian aggression.

In the shaky world of these past two decades, this seemed a sound investment to both American conservatives and liberals. A conservative hardliner, in fact, conceived the program.

Recently, however, a sense of shock has spread through those Communist watchers who deal with the most sensitive of technical material. Convincing evidence is now at hand that Yugoslavia is serving as a conduit through which Moscow secures Western military secrets. As a result, at least one U.S. firm has recently cancelled a highly profitable deal with the Yugoslavs and another has refused any business with them.

The Yugoslavs have made much of their "defiance" of the Russians and their role as a leader of the "neutralist" nations. After the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia, the Yugoslavs reorganized their forces, set up an area defense system, and ordered local troops to continue fighting as guerrillas if Russia should capture the country and force the central government to declare resistance at an end. Marshall Tito himself told Americans this reorganization was intended to insure Yugoslavia would not suffer the fate of East Germany, Hungary and Czechoslovakia at Russian hands.

The Yugoslavs have been furnished with a variety of weapons of types needed by a small country if it is to effectively resist aggression by a large neighbor. Some of the weapons systems and equipment were so advanced that in the hands of determined men they could make a Soviet invasion exceedingly costly — perhaps prohibitively so.

In all this, it was essential for Yugoslav defense to make certain these weapons and this equipment did not fall into Russian hands.

What has been discovered however, is that before the ink was dry on the contracts, these secret arms and equipment essential, remember, to Yugoslav defense, were in the hands of the Russians. Some of this equipment came from the U.S., some from the Netherlands, Britain and Canada. Because of the circumstances surrounding these deals, it is certain this delivery to the Russians was made by Yugoslavs acting officially; the theft was not by some Soviet agent stealing for pay.

A new assessment of the Yugoslav role in Western defense strategy is now being made.

Walnut teachers top 14.2% pay hike bid with variety of fringe requests

WALNUT — Various fringe benefit improvements—on top of a 14.2 per cent salary increase—have been requested by Walnut teachers, in presentations to school trustees.

In addition to salary boosts which would cost $426,000 for the district's 220 teachers, Certificated Employe Council (CEC) spokesmen have called for these improvements:

—Specifying no dollar amount limit on medical and dental insurance preminums. Presently, there is an $839.50 limit per employe and dependents, and further increases require board approval.

—Teachers assaulted at work should receive indefinite sick leave until recovery. Present policy calls for only a certain number of sick days off, and then pay based on the difference between a teacher and his substitute's salaries.

—A fully-paid income protection plan.

—Reduction of the teacher-student ratio from 28 to 1 to 22 to 1, gradually.

—Reducing the steps on the salary schedule to 10, from the present 12, providing teachers an opportunity to "get to the top" quicker.

—Adding two more steps to the new "condensed" salary schedule, in the most advanced educational column.

—That experience from outside the district be counted towards longevity bonsues granted after 15 years' service.

—One more day off next year, reducing the number of school days to the 175 required by law. It would provide for a holiday the day after Memorial Day.

In other business, trustees received a report on steps being taken to relieve expected pupil housing problems next year at Walnut and Vejar elementary schools.

Supt. David Brown said space will be needed for about 180 to 200 youngsters which presently is not available at the two schools, based on projected enrollment for 1974-75.

Brown proposed that four sixth grade classes continue to be housed at Walnut High School, as they are this year. In addition, three portable classrooms should be rented, and placed at Vejar and Walnut High to provide more space, he said.

The moves, thus, would avoid double sessions at Vejar in fourth to sixth grades, and not place "all the burden" on Walnut High to house the six additional classes, Brown added.

Cost to the district—for renting the portable and administrative costs—would be around $30,000, he stated. No board action was taken, however, and officials indicated it will be considered later.

In other action, trustees approved a milk price increase for seven district schools, amounting to one cent on half-pints (now 8 cents) and a cent on one-third quart cartons (now 9 cents), effective Monday. It was necessary, administrators said, to offset previous losses and "at least break even on milk sales."

Young woman 510th Golden Gate victim

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A young woman became the 510th known suicide from the Golden Gate Bridge Tuesday when she leaped from the span moments after a friend telephoned authorities to warn she was going to kill herself.

The California Highway Patrol said the body of Adrienne L. Brown, 21, of San Anselmo, Calif., washed up on shore. Officers said she did not leave a note.

South's fast one is legit

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There is nothing wrong about swindling your opponents provided you do it honestly. Thus, you are not supposed to hesitate when you have no problem, but there is no stigma attached to fast play, when you do have some sort of problem.

South did have a problem about his six-diamond contract. What was he going to do about the two missing aces?

Obviously, they were split, but how could he keep the man who held the ace of trumps from leading a spade?

It looked almost hopeless, but South figured out an honest swindle that just might work if West held the ace of trumps and jack of spades.

He proceeded to discard his six of clubs on one good heart and the queen of clubs on the other one. Then he led a trump.

West won the ace and decided that East was marked with four clubs to the ace. In that case if East also held the spade king, a spade lead would allow South to play dummy's 10 and avoid the loss of a spade trick. So West led a third heart and South was able to discard his three spades on dummy's clubs.

The American consumer is beginning to understand the need for functional cars that are clean, economical, and make environmental sense.

Introducing The Peugeot Diesel.

Introducing
the car that got 37.3 miles per gallon on a coast-to-coast economy run.

Introducing

Introducing
the engine that requires no emissions control devices.

Introducing
the sedan that costs about $2,500 less than the other Diesel.

Introducing The Next Car.

The Peugeot experience with the Diesel stretches all the way back to 1923. We are the largest manufacturer of Diesel passenger cars in the world, building more Diesel automobiles longer than any other company. But up to now, in the United States, people who were advocating Diesels took on the quality of doomsday prophets. Here was a car with an engine that, from the very beginning, offered a solution to problems of energy shortages and air pollution. Problems that until just recently were far off in the future. But the future is now. We are reminded of it daily by experiencing shortages that affect us personally. What we are asking for is an attitude of enlightenment by the American public.

We, at Peugeot, are committed to the idea that expressways are not showplaces for speed and cars are not a form of expensive toys. The time is right for a new set of habits. For looking at the automobile as a preventive measure to deal prudently with the issues of economy, energy and ecology.

Stephen F. Wilder, professional road test driver and automotive writer, reports on a cross-country economy run sponsored by Peugeot, October 1973:

"I drove the Peugeot sedan from Los Angeles to Boston, 3,077 miles through 14 states and averaged 37.3 miles per gallon. Most of the time, we drove at speeds ranging from 40 to 60 miles per hour. We averaged approximately 45 miles per hour." (Distance and fuel consumption documented by the General Environments Corporation of Springfield, Virginia, an independent laboratory specializing in automotive testing for industry and government.)

Road & Track, September 1973:

"The savings here result from the lack of an ignition system. With no spark plugs or points to change and no timing to set, about half the normal tuneup costs can be eliminated."

Popular Science, November 1973:

Motor Trend, September 1972:

"...intriguing is the fact that low emissions characteristics are inherent in the basic design of the Diesel engine; no external add-ons—such as air pumps or thermal reactors—are necessary."

Road & Track, September 1973:

"...the Peugeot 504 Diesel is a good Diesel car, rich in transportation value and economy of operation. If you're an environmentalist at heart, you might even find it exciting."

Training will stop rug-chewing habits

By Dr. Frank Miller

DEAR DR. MILLER: Lassie, our Sheltie, is a very smart but very spoiled dog. She has gotten into this destructive habit of chewing up the rug to get even with us when we have to leave her home alone. Then one day my husband forgot to turn the TV off before we left and when we came home, voila! No new holes in the rug! There Lassie was, sitting in the living room watching TV, much too busy and engrossed to bother chewing. Needless to say, since then we leave her alone, we lave the television on for her to watch and it solved the entire problem. The rug has been safe since. Since most dog owners have television sets, too, I'm sure this tip will save a lot of rugs. — B. D.

COMMENT: In the case of some dogs, the TV technique could save furniture or portions of the house itself from the frustration-tantrum chewing syndrome. Other dogs may prefer a good radio program. Unfortunately, however, many frustrated canines aren't turned on by either medium. The other, more time-consuming, techniques of additional exercise and training are more likely to solve their problems.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Max has been our only "child" for seven years now. He was a baby rhesus moneky when we got him. I just read somewhere that humans can give a herpes virus to monkeys. I have never seen Max with anything on his lips but I break out with herpes on my lips quite often. Could he get it from me? — N.M.

Dear N. M.: Possibly he could. Simians are susceptible to many human viruses and vice versa but having had Max for that number of years would produce a reasonable sense of security in this regard. However, macques such as your Max may show lip and oral mucosa ulcers which could be caused by herpes B infection. This particular herpes doesn't usually cause great problems with the siminans, themselves, but it is particularly virulent for humans and can be easily transmitted from macque to man where it may migrate through nervous tissue into the brain with rapidly fatal results.

DEAR DR. MILLER: How soon after being born does a kitten have to nurse? — G. A.

Dear G. A.: Reserves of glycogen within the liver can keep newborn kittens alive for several hours. If they are not fed within 12 hours, however, they suffer fatal hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) and hypothermia (falling temperature).

Giants invade L.A.

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — It's the Dodgers and Giants in the renewal of baseball's biggest rivalry this weekend at Dodger Stadium but something is missing.

It will be the Giants all right in their visiting uniforms tonight but Dodger fans may not recognize some of the young kids in the San Francisco lineup.

Willie Mays has has been gone for some time now. Willie McCovey has already visited Dodger Stadium in a San Diego Padre uniform. Juan Marichal is now in the American League.

Who will Dodger fans boo now that Marichal has departed?

The Dodgers return home to open a 12-game homestand after a successful road trip. L.A. has jumped to a 2½ game lead in the National League West with an impressive 9-3 record climaxed by a two-game sweep in Cincinnati.

Don Sutton, who is already 3-0 this young season, will open the weekend series against Mike Caldwell (2-1), the young southpaw acquired from San Diego in the McCovey trade.

The Saturday and Sunday games will be under the sunshine at 1:15 p.m. Tommy John, also 3-0, will face Jim Willoughby on Saturday with Andy Messersmith (1-0) slated to go Sunday against rookie John D'Acquisto.

Manager Walter Alston's club is off to an excellent start thanks to a balanced output from the bats and pitching staff.

The Dodgers are hitting .301 as a team with third baseman Ron Cey leading the regulars with a .409 mark. Jim Wynn has supplied the power in taking the early lead in the National League with six home runs and 17 runs batted in. Steve Garvey has belted four homers while Cey has driven in 13 runs.

Catcher Joe Ferguson, who is struggling at .179, is the only Dodger regular battling a batting slump.

After a hot start at friendly Candlestick Park, the Giants have cooled down on the road. After losing two out of three at San Diego, the Giants dropped their first three at the Astrodome this week before snapping the streak with a 5-2 win Thursday night.

Manager Charlie Fox has a talented offensive team led by Bobby Bonds. But most baseball experts question whether the Giants have enough pitching to be a top contender in the West.

DODGER DATA — The Phillies, Expos and Mets will follow the Giants into Dodger Stadium in the next two weeks . . .

It will be Batting Glove Day at the Stadium on Saturday, All youngsters 14 years old and under in attendance will receive a batting glove.

Bucks enjoy 2-0 advantage over Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Chicago Bulls rally that fell short left the Milwaukee Bucks "happy with two wins going back to Milwaukee" today for the third game of their National Basketball Association playoff series.

The Bucks had a 20-point lead in the third period and finally won 113-111 to take a 2-0 lead in games in their best-of-seven series. But the two-point difference in the final score didn't truly represent the difference between the teams as the Bulls scored four points in the final seven seconds to narrow the final gap.

"We couldn't put the ball in the ocean," Bucks Coach Larry Costello said, "and we gave them momentum. It's amazing how momentum can change. Almost unbelievable.

"They didn't give up. I don't know if Chicago can play any better than they played. But I'm happy with two wins going back to Milwaukee. I feel that pressure is really on them now because we play good at home and we feel we can win at home.

Bucks' superstar Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was the major cog in helping the Bucks seize their 20-point lead. He had 42 points for three quarters but in the fourth quarter, when the Bucks shooting turned cold, he netted only two points to wind up with 44, two below his personal record for a playoff game.

Jabbar netted 20 field goals in 29 tries and he pulled in 21 rebounds to keep the Bucks in control almost all the way.

He didn't get many chances in the last period because, Costello said, "We had other guys open for good shots and we just missed the open shots. Kareem played well, and it didn't seem like he had all those points."

Bulls Coach Dick Motta declared his team was "up against it now," because it must go to Milwaukee and play some basketball.

"We've got to click on all cylinders," he said. "Each of us has got to do a little more than we've been doing during the season. We've got to shoot better than our average and we've got to play a little better defense."

Motta said he believed his team was going to win the game when it pulled within three points of the Bucks in the last period, but he said, "I compliment them for holding their poise.

"We can't play much better than we did, but if we play that well in Milwaukee we'll win a game."

The third game of the series will be played Saturday afternoon on national television.

Singer faces A's tonight

Bill Campbell stops Angels' hopes

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — The Angels, with a 6-4 record on their first homestand behind them, send Diamond Bar's Bill Singer (2-0) against Catfish Hunter of the World Champion Oakland Athletics tonight in the Alameda County Coliseum.

Right up to the end Thursday afternoon at Anaheim Stadium, the Angels thought they could come back and beat Minnesota.

But for the second time in three days they ran into Bill Campbell in a relief roll. The former Ganesha and Mt. San Antonio College player just about stopped the Halos cold in the last three innings to pick up his fourth save.

"Bleep," bleeped manager Bobby Winkles in the Angel clubhouse. "We really wanted that bleep of a bleep. We could go on the road in real good shape.

"We're still in good shape," he added. "but (at home) 6-4 isn't as good as 7-3. You know, in the ninth inning, we still had the feeling we were going to win. That Campbell is a good-looking pitcher. He was just wild enough today to be tough."

Called in with runners on first and second with nobody out in the seventh, Campbell gave up a single to Bob Oliver that brought in a run.

Oliver actually was fooled on the pitch, looking for a fastball and getting a slider instead. But the big third-baseman managed to get his bat on the ball anyway and pushed a short single scoring Bobby Valentine who had opened the inning with a double and moved to third on a wild pitch by former Angel Tom Burgmeier.

Campbell got Tom McCraw to ground to second baseman Rod Carew who threw to shortstop Sergio Ferrer at second to force Oliver. On the play, Frank Robinson, who had walked, took third.

Smart base running by McCraw got the Halos their second run. Lee Stanton grounded sharply to Carew but McCraw held up halfway between first and second forcing Carew to throw to first to nip the speedy Stanton.

Meanwhile Robinson had broken for the plate and was obviously going to beat any throw. First baseman Joe Lis had to fire the ball to second to try and get McCraw who was racing for the bag there.

Robby crossed the plate before McCraw was tagged out at second and the run counted. Although he had hit into a double play, Stanton was credited with a run batted in because of McCraw's fast thinking on the basepaths.

Over in the Twins' clubhouse Campbell came out of the shower and began to dress. "I was a starter in the minors," he said, "but I kind of like relieving now."

The slender (6-3, 185) righthander said he had three pitches, the fastball, slider and screwball. "I started throwing the screwball with Charlotte (N.C.) in 1972," he said."I only use it once in a while to throw hitters off stride."

Reminded that two of the game's premier relief pitchers, Mike Marshall and Jim Brewer of the Dodgers, rely on the scroogie, Campbell commented, "That Marshall is something else, his screwball is super. I'd give anything for one like that."

What he has must be pretty good. In 12 innings, Campbell has not allowed an earned run. He has struck out seven while walking three.

"For a young guy, Billy has a good disposition and a fine array of pitches," commented Twins' manager Frank Quillici. "He throws the ball from different angles and shows very little emotion."

How did the Twins come to settle on Campbell, a starting pitcher, as their top reliever? "We fell out of contention last August and went through the whole staff looking for a reliever," said Quilici. "We had a chance to bring Billy up. He was a little nervous as a starter and we tried him in relief."

The way things are going,Campbell may never get another chance to start, especially with good relievers at a premium.

ANGEL ANGLES — Frank Tanana (2-1) was not as sharp Thursday. Tanana labored from the beginning, but the game was scoreless until the young lefthander got a fastball high to number nine hitter Steve Brye in the sixth. The result was a three-run homer.

Bobby Valentine played second base in the ninth inning. It marked his first infield appearance in the regular season since May 12, last year. He made an error that day which he blames for all his problems. In a batting slump (0-for-15 and 1-for-24) Valentine was moved to the outfield where he broke his leg.

Attendance Thursday was 7,383 which was more than the Halos drew Wednesday night. The game was the first mid-week daytime contest since Sept. 11, 1969 when the Angels and Kansas City drew only 4,970.

In Women's sports programs

Turning point is reached

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — After a century of being "separate and clearly unequal," women in the University of California reached the "turning point "this year in intercollegiate athletics, a university report says.

The volumnious study of athletic programs throughout the multi-campus system, released Thursday, said that money, participation and opportunity all were increasing for sports-minded women.

However, the report said, "The separation between men's and women's athletics has remained. And most athletes, both men and women seem to want it that way."

Participation in intercollegiate athletics by women increased an average of 33 per cent this year at seven of the university's primary campuses, while the number of men increased an average of 7 per cent. Even stronger gains were listed for women in intramural sports and recreation club sports. And the number of women in physical activities classes surpassed enrollment by males.

Most of the increases were in female-only or coed sports. Rarely have women cracked normally all-male events or teams.

Sports budgets also reflected increasing attention towards women, the report said, with intercollegiate athletic spending for women up 78 per cent, compared to a 3 per cent drop in support for men's programs.

But in sheer numbers women lagged far behind men in virtually every area. Women accounted for only 1,054 of the 4,564 students in intercollegiate athletic programs. Identifiable expenditures for women totalled a mere $138,824 out of an intercollegiate athletic budget this year of $6.1 million.

The Berkeley campus, as one example, showed a dramatic 770 per increase in financing for women's intercollegiate programs, from $5,000 last year to $42,500. Men, on the other hand, were budgeted $2.1 million.

"This year, however, appears to be the turning point for women's intercollegiate programs," said the report.

"Recently the growth of the women's movement and the emergence of nationally prominent women athletes have focused national attention on women's sports."

Noting that "the 100-year history of intercollegiate athletics for men and women can best be described, at this point, as separate and clearly unequal," the report claimed several "obstacles" stood in the way of equalizing sports programs between sexes.

It said there were inadequate facilities for women, that women's sports bring in no income to support programs and that one of the biggest athletic expenses is the high cost of male-oriented football.

It also said there was a fundamental hesitation by many women to try out for sports because of "traditional male-female roles, lack of athletic training and unequal skills."

Bill Shoemaker gets suspended

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Jockey Bill Shoemaker, the alltime leading rider with 6,633 triumphs, was handed a five-day suspension Thursday for careless riding by the Hollywood Park Board of Stewards.

Shoemaker's suspension begins Sunday and runs through April 26.

He was cited for failure to make the proper effort to maintain a straight course, causing interference through the stretch while aboard Mirlivam in the ninth race at Hollywood Wednesday.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Betsy Cullen's best finishes thus far in 1974 are a pair of thirds but with the biggest purse in women's golf history on the line in the $200,000 Dinah Shore-Colgate Winners Circle tourney she leads the field entering today's second round.

Psyched up by the heavy prize money, the 35-year-old University of Oklahoma graduate from Tulsa outbattled winds gusting to 25 miles-per-hour Thursday to card a two-under-par 70 for the first round lead.

"This tournament means a lot to us," said Miss Cullen, her eyes red from the wind and blowing desert sand. "This is a lot of money we're playing for."

The first prize in the 72-hole tournament scheduled to end Sunday is $32,000 and a 1974 automobile.

Miss Cullen, whose best finishes in two previous Dinah Shore tournaments, viewed as the Master of the Ladies Pro Golfers Association tour, are 11th (in 1972) and 17th last year, said she viewed as the Master of the Ladies wasn't bothered by the wind.

The shortest of her four birdies—she also had two bogeys-was a one-inch tap in at the 10th hole.

"I can handle those," she quipped. All alone in second place with a one-under-par 71, the only other sub-par round of the opening day's play, was Jo Ann Prentice,o f Miami, Fla.

Miss Prentice believes a four-under-par 284 total will be enough to win if the wind continues.

"It was terrible out there," she said. "I blew over a couple of times but I picked myself up and went on. If the wind keeps blowing, I'll take some more of those 71's."

The only other player to equal or better par Thursday was Sandra Haynie, of Fort Worth, Tex., who managed a par 72.

Six players were bunched at 73, Jocelyne Bourassa, Beth Stone, Judy Rankin, Kathy Cornelius, Jane Blalock and Mary Mills.

Knotted at 74, two over par, were 18-year-old Laura Baugh, Sandra Spuzich and Marlene Hagge.

The pre-tourney co-favorites, Kathy Whitworth and 6-foot-3 Carol Mann, a two-time winner on the LPGA tour this year, were well down the list of 51 golfers with rounds of 80 and 82, respectively.

WFL hit by judge's ruling

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Federal Judge David Porter ruled today that Bill Bergey was "undermining" his obligations to the Bengals when he signed with the World Football League, and ordered the new league to keep its hands off Cincinnati's players.

Porter ruled in a suit brought by the NFL's Bengals this morning which had asked for a restraining order to stop Bergey, a star linebacker, from playing with the Virginia Ambassadors of the WFL.

Bergey still has a year to go on his contract with the Bengals. He said he would play out his option year in 1975 and then go with the Virginia team.

The Bengals contended Bergey's signing with the Ambassadors constituted a breach of contract with the Cincinnati team and would have the effect of "undermining Bergey's obligations to the Cincinnati team."

NHL playoffs no longer dull, conventional

By United Press International

After a dull, conventional start, a few upsets are beginning to add spice to the Stanley Cup playoffs.

When Boston and Philadelphia won their quarterfinal series in the minimum four games and Chicago needed only five, there wasn't too much for hockey fans to get excited about. But the situation changed drastically Thursday night.

The New York Rangers, after falling behind two games to one against Montreal, knocked the defending Stanley Cup champion out of the playoffs with a comeback 5-2 victory and the Black Hawks scored an upset 42 triumph over the Bruins in the opening game of their semifinal set.

In overcoming an early deficit for the third consecutive game, New York advanced to the semifinals against the Flyers. This series will open Saturday night at Philadelphia. The Rangers' victory also marked the third consecutive season they had eliminated the previous year's Stanley Cup winner from the playoffs.

"I don't know if this is some kind of omen, but I think it's about time we got it ourselves now," New York Coach Emile Francis said in reference to the Stanley Cup, a prize the Rangers haven't won since 1940. "Anytime you can come from behind three consecutive times against a club like Montreal you've certainly got to have something going for you."

After falling behind 2-0 on Montreal goals by Henri Richard and Steve Shutt, the Rangers drew even midway through the second period on their home ice when Bruce MacGregor and Bill Fairbairn scored 46 seconds apart.

Jean Ratelle, held to only one goal in the previous five games, then provided the winner at 11:04 of the final period when he converted a pass from Rod Gilbert. Pete Stemkowski padded the score with a pair of empty net goals in the final minute of play.

"Beating Montreal after the string of defeats we had against them the last couple of years really means a lot to us," said Gilbert, a Montreal native. "If there was any team we wanted to beat, it was Montreal. They've really humiliated us in the Forum (in Montreal), and it caused us to have a shadow in our mind about them. We were starting to think that Montreal had a super club."

In Boston, it was brother against brother, and Chicago goaltender Tony Esposito, with 46 saves, came out on top although his brother Phil scored the first Bruin goal to give them a 1-0 lead. The Hawks, outshot 21-10 in the second period, nevertheless got goals from Stan Mikita and Randy Rota to go ahead 2-1.

Darryl Edestrand earned a tie for Boston at 9:08 of the final period only to have John Marks score the winner with just 3:04 left to play. Dennis Hull then fired into an empty net with 21 seconds remaining for the insurance goal.

"(Tony) Esposito was tremendous but he's been tremendous for us all season," Chicago Coach Billy Reay said. "I can't give him enough credit. He wants to play in every game and there aren't too many goaltenders like that anymore. He deserves all the accolades he'll get tonight."

The second game of the series will be played at Boston Sunday afternoon.

Lynn Swann decides on Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Spurning the fledgling World Football League, All-America wide receiver Lynn Swann of Southern California signed a multi-year contract Thursday with the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League because he wanted to play for a "winning team."

"The team I played on in high school had a record of 263," said Swann, the Steelers' No. 1 draft pick. "At USC, we always played top competition. I didn't want to wait around for a league (the WFL) to build up to a competitive situation. Pittsburgh is a winning team."

Swann, 22, the Trojan's all-time leading receiver, also was the first-round draft choice of Memphis, whose WFL franchise later was moved to Houston. And his attorney, Howard Slusher of Newport Beach, Calif., said the WFL had indicated Swann might have had his pick of its franchises.

"But I had only two or three telephone conversations with the WFL, call them courtesy calls," said Slusher. "But it was decided beforehand that if he received a draft that was desirable in the NFL, we would make it known that Lynn wanted to play in the NFL."

"Only as a last resort—if, for some reason, we couldn't sign with Pittsburgh — would we have had discussions with the WFL," he said.

"What we've tried to do here is put together a football team that can win," Rooney said. "Anything that might prevent that is disruptive."

Swann was the 20th player and the first wide receiver chosen in the NFL college draft last January. He was the 10th Steeler draftee to sign a 1974 contract.

Lucas plans retirement

Owls, Chaffey fall in Mission games

Citrus and Chaffey colleges both suffered losses in Mission Conference baseball action Thursday.

Citrus dropped a 3-1 decision at Palomar while Chaffey traveled to San Bernardino only to absorb a 10-6 defeat at the hands of SBVC.

Palomar's Don Johnson hurled the win, allowing only eight Citrus hits and one run. It was the second time this season that the Comet southpaw has beaten the Owls.

Citrus lost a run in the second when John Freedman's long drive bounced over the leftfield fence and Dave Cates, who was running on the pitch, had to return to third on the ground-rule double.

Palomar came right back to score twice in the bottom of the inning off of Eric Mustad. A walk, Bill Lackey's single, and an error loaded the sacks with Comets with two away, and Mustad proceeded to toss two straight wild pitches to put Palomar on top 2-0.

Citrus came back to make it 2-1 in the fourth. Phil Doktor, Gary Weincek and Randy Nall all singled to load the bases with no outs. Freedman got one run in with a sacrifice fly, but that was all the Owls could come up with against Johnson.

Chaffey fell behind 7-0 to San Bernardino after five innings and, despite a six-run sixth, the Panthers could never catch the Indians.

Steve Gibson started on the hill for the Panthers but was routed during a four-run Indian uprising in the third. Four more Chaffey hurlers had little success in cooling the hot San Bernardino bats.

Muniz upset by Gerardo

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mexico's Marco Gerardo, enjoying a five inch height advantage, held on for an upset 10-round split decision over rinth-ranked welterweight Armando Muniz of Los Angeles Thursday night at the Olympic Aditorium.

The judges awarded the 8-1 underdog Gerardo the decision by scores of 5-2 and 5-4, while the referee saw the bout as even, 5-5.

Muniz, who had been looking forward to fighting the winner of the No. 4 rated Zovek Barajas-Billy Lloyd bout at the Olympic next week, said he wanted a rematch with Gerardo.

There were no knockdowns although Muniz appeared to be in trouble in the sixth round and Gerardo was on the verge of going down in the seventh.

APC notches 20th victory

Jim Donker, with 11 strikeouts in eight innings, picked up the mound win for the Cougars. Craig Lynch hurled a scoreless ninth to preserve the shutout.

APC's Ted Dominguez had four of the 17 Cougar hits on the afternoon, to go along with his four RBIs.

Azusa Pacific, now 20-11 on the year, will play a doubleheader Saturday at Westmont.

Claremont girl spikers win track meet at Eisenhower

CLAREMONT — Claremont High's girls track team boosted its season record to 5-1 Thursday by defeating a visiting Eisenhower team, 56-35.

Some of the top performances for Claremont were turned in by Muriel Brownell, Sonia Bowe, Beth Fossum and Jennie Stary.

Miss Brownell won the 220 in 27.7 seconds, finished second in the 100 with a time of 11.7 seconds, and also ran on both relay teams.

Miss Bowe won the 100 in 11.6, placed second in the 220 in 27.7 and anchored Claremont's winning 440 relay team.

Miss Fossum won the 440 in 62.5 seconds, tied for first in the high jump at 4-6, and anchored the winning mile relay team.

Miss Stary tied with Miss Fossum in the high jump, won the long jump at 15-9¼, placed second in the 80 yard hurdles and ran on the mile relay team.

Claremont will now host Ontario Christian next Thursday in the season finale.

The Wolfpack's junior varsity team finished its season unbeaten by knocking Eisenhower, 56-35.

Ski award to Claremont lass

Virginia Slims event set for Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Los Angeles has been selected as the site of the $100,000 Virginia Slims women's tennis championship tournament Oct. 14-19, it was announced Thursday by tournament manager Jerry Diamond.

The top 16 women professional tennis players as determined by their standing in the 18-tournament Virginia Slims circuit will be selected to play in the grand finale at the Sports Arena.

The winner's purse of $32,000 is the highest in the history of women's tennis. A total of $90,000 will be shared by the 16 participants in singles play. Another $10,000 in prize money will be awarded the four team finalists in doubles play.

Expected to qualify are such stars as Billie Jean King, Evonne Goolagong, Rosemary Casals and Chris Evert. This would mark the first appearance of Miss Goolagong, the Australian sensation, on the West Coast.

"His attorney and my attorney are still negotiating," she said. "I would only be playing for money, not prestige. He needs the match, I don't.

"He (Riggs) has done a fantastic job for women's tennis. People who had not watched tennis before saw him lose to Billie Jean King on television in the so-called Battle of the Sexes. That created a lot of interest in women's tennis."

San Dimas track champs again

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

SAN DIMAS — Chalk up another Hacienda League championship for San Dimas High's track team.

The Saints claimed their second consecutive league title Thursday afternoon by whipping a visiting Gladstone team, 91-27. But the fact that it was San Dimas' second straight title isn't the incredible part about it.

The Saints entered Hacienda action for the first time last year and ran off with the track championship in their debut. Entering Hacienda competition, coach Jim George's troops had won eight consecutive dual meets while competing in the Arrowhead League.

Last year the Saints went unbeaten in dual meet action, and have done it again this season. The unbeaten string is now at 24, and it doesn't look like there will be an end to it in the near future.

This year, the track championship came a little earlier than expected. Ontario upset second-place Royal Oak Thursday, 68-50, to give San Dimas a two-meet edge in the standings with only one week of competition to go.

San Dimas did better Thursday than coach George had expected. "I thought Gladstone would be a little tougher," stated the San Dimas skipper. "I had doped out a score of 78-40."

George had special praise for his sprinter Tim Shepherd, who claimed a triple win against Galdstone. "Shepherd did an exceptional job for us today."

The flashy San Dimas senior won the 100 in 10.3, the 220 in 23.4 and the long jump at 20.3.

Another top performer for the Saints was distance man Kevin Kellogg, who won the mile with a time of 4:44.6 and then captured the two mile in 10:15.9.

A cold wind cut into some of the performances Thursday, but George was still pleased. "Considering the weather, I was happy with the way our guys performed today. We were kind of lethargic at the beginning of the meet, but our captains (Dan Hitchens, Frank Diaz and Perez Shoemaker) got the guys going again.

The tri-captains also played a key role in leading the Saints to the romp. Hitchens won the 440 in a blazing time of 50.2 second, which is the quickest in the league this season, and also ran the anchor legs on the Saints' two winning relay teams.

Diaz finished only a stride behind teammate Jim Ratcliff in the 880, and then also ran a leg on the mile relay team.

Shoemaker ran legs on both relay teams and finished second behind Shepherd in the long jump.

San Dimas got off to a slow start against the Gladiators, trailing after the first event (120 high hurdles), 5-4.

But after winning the 440 relay, the Saints began to romp all over their Thursday afternoon visitors.

In other Hacienda League action Thursday, Alta Loma upset Walnut by an 80-37 margin and Sierra Vista defeated Bonita in a battle of the cellar-dwellers by a 67-51 count.

Over in the San Antonio League, Chino took over sole possession of third place with a 67-51 win over Upland and Montclair rolled over last-place Garey, 83-35.

The top performance for Chino was turned in by sprinter Jayson Law, who won the 100 in 10.1, the 220 in 23.0 and ran the anchor leg on the winning 440 relay team.

Upland had a double winner in hurdler Jim Loney, who won the 120 highs in 16.1 and the 180 lows in 21.5.

Sprinter Jerrard Bryant and distance man John Roza posted double wins in Montclair's win over Garey. Bryant won the 100 in 10.0 and the 220 in 23.2, while Roza captured the mile in 4:45.4 and the two mile in 10:22.7.

PASSENGER CAR TIRE GUARANTEE
Montgomery Ward guarantees each of its passenger car tires for a specified number of miles when used on passenger cars or station wagons, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of:
• defects in material or workmanship,
• normal road hazard failure,
• premature tread wearout (2/32 inches or less remaining);
Montgomery Ward will:
1. During the first 10% of guaranteed mileage, replace the tire free.
2. During the remaining guaranteed mileage, replace it for a prorata charge based on mileage used.
Nail punctures repaired free during the entire guaranteed mileage.
Charge after first 10% of guaranteed mileage based on selling price in effect at the time of return at branch to which returned, including federal excise tax.
Passenger tires used on taxicabs, and motor vehicles other than passenger cars are guaranteed on the same basis against defects in materials and workmanship only.

We Can Save You Money!

When it comes to solid value in stereo equipment, these people really know what they're talking about. They're managers and salespeople from Pacific Stereo stores, and they help make sure our everyday prices on hundreds of components and accessories are the best you'll find anywhere. They're in a position to know what customers ask for most, and they also keep track of which products give the most satisfaction after purchase. This week they've picked some of their personal favorites, and we're passing along their recommendations with prices that are even lower than usual. That means you can choose from some of our biggest bargains ever, and you'll find them all in each of our 22 Southern California stores. These special prices are good for only a week though, so be sure to stop by as soon as you can. Get to know the people at Pacific Stereo, and see what they can do for you.

How About TEAC's 355 for $80 Off?

It's been one of the best selling cassette decks in our North Hollywood store, where Paula Lewis thinks its reliability and long list of features more than justify TEAC's regular price of $329.50. The Dolby noise reduction system gives you clear, high quality recordings, and there are sliding level controls for both recording and playback. Now that we've reduced the 355's price by a full $80 during our factory authorized sale. Paula thinks she'll be selling a whole lot more.

For Example, Over $141 on this Complete Pioneer System

George Roberts meets a lot of customers in Long Beach who like their music loud and loaded with bass. He's tried several combinations for these listeners, and this system's the most successful of the lot. The PIONEER SX-525 AM/FM stereo receiver delivers 34 watts (RMS at 1 kHz) of distortion-free power, handles two sets of speakers, and offers click-stop bass and treble controls for precise tonal adjustments.

George picked TRANSAUDIO 1012 speakers because they have twelve-inch acoustic suspension bass drivers that can really punch out low notes, and with separate midrange and treble speakers inside, 1012's give you crisp, clean sound no matter how loud you listen. The GARRARD 62 automatic record player offers the kind of performance you used to find only in more expensive models, and as part of Garrard's latest series, sports some attractive new styling as well. The regular total for all this gear would be $529.80, but at $388 George thinks this system defies comparison.

Price includes our written 5-Year Service Agreement.
Purchased separately, these components would cost you:
Pioneer SX-525, walnut case (fair traded) . $259.95
Garrard 62, base, Empire 999XE/X cartridge . 69.95
TransAudio 1012 (pair) 199.90
TOTAL $529.80

$388 Save $141.80

Or TDK Cassettes at a Double Discount?

Shell Fowler uses TDK tape to demonstrate cassette recorders in our Canoga Park store, and he thinks you'll be pretty impressed when you try them on your own machine. At our regular prices, you'd save as much as $1 on each TDK low noise cassette, but right now we're out to make them downright irresistible.

C-60, regularly $2 $1.49
C-90, regularly $3 $1.99
C-120, regularly $4 $2.49

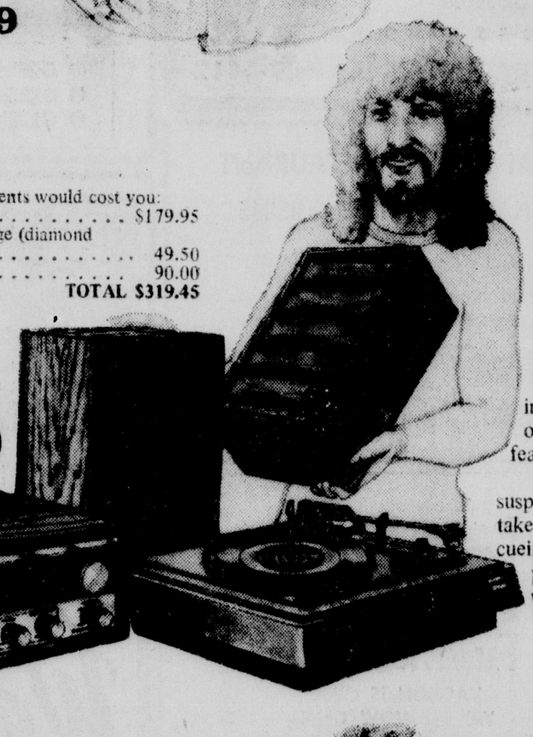
A Written 5-Year Service Agreement

Our Regional Manager, Bernie Stevens, feels that Pacific Stereo's obligation doesn't end with the sale. Hence our really comprehensive Service Agreement: You get free parts for 5 years and free labor for 3 years on just about any system we advertise. Since we have fully equipped service departments, we can get started on any necessary repairs almost immediately. You get a loaner while your component is incapacitated, and instead of just tending to the specific complaint, we'll return your gear performing at its best in all respects. Our only exclusion is the needle on the record player.



Purchased separately, these components would cost you:
Sherwood S7050 with walnut case $179.95
BSR 260A, base, Shure M81 cartridge (diamond stylus) 49.50
Fisher XP-44S (pair) 90.00
TOTAL $319.45

Save $94.45

We Recommend...

Murray Kerdman's our new assistant manager in Pomona; he's a firm believer that components are a much better buy than any compact or console, and that they save you more money too. To prove his point, he's put together this complete stereo system, including a popular SHERWOOD receiver, for just $225. The S7050 has 20 honest watts of power (RMS at 1 kHz), a clean-sounding AM/FM tuner section, and convenience features you can really use.

Murray's matched the S7050 with FISHER XP-44S speakers because their acoustic suspension design delivers firm lows from cabinets that don't fill up half your room. And to take good care of your records, he's included a BSR 260A automatic record player with a cueing lever to gently lower and raise the tonearm. For $225, you can't find a more pleasant-sounding or dependable music system anywhere; not only do you get Murray's word for it, but our written 5-Year Service Agreement as well.

This Week It's Half Price

If you need to replace a worn-out record player or want to upgrade that part of your component system, Bryce Baldwin at our Costa Mesa store recommends GARRARD's precision SL72B; it's just $55 this week (half the nationally advertised price of $109.95) when you buy a base and cartridge at our regular low prices. There's really nothing in its league for the money.

With the purchase of base and cartridge

At $29 Each, Nothing Comes Close to KLH

We've sold hundreds of KLH 32's at our Downey store, and manager Jack Libbea thinks they're incredibly good speakers for their regular price of only $57.50 each. These two-way, eight-inch systems use the acoustic suspension principle to get strong bass notes out of a compact walnut cabinet. Jack suggested that we drop our price to just $29 per speaker this week so you could enjoy the great KLH sound anywhere in your home.

Alice Shapiro to perform at Scripps

CLAREMONT — Concert pianist Alice Shapiro, a member of the Scripps College faculty will present a scholarship benefit recital for Claremont Collegiate School in Balch Auditorium, Scripps College, at 3 p.m. May 12.

Miss Shapiro will play Brahms Waltzes, Beethoven's Sonata Op. 81a, Prokofieff's Sonata Op. 28 and Symphonic Etudes by Schumann. Ticket information can be obtained at 624-1634.

Miss Shapiro is a graduate of Hunter College, Columbia University, and the Juilliard School of Music, where she studied with Mme. Rosina Lhevinne. She has made concert tours of the United States, Canada and Europe.

The London Times called her "a pianist with strikingly dramatic temperament" and described her playing as "vivid and powerful, urged on with immense energy and complete control over the instrument's potentialities." The New York Times said "A special pleasure was the rhythmic precision and meticulous attention to detail. She provides a warm, singing tone."

Claremont Collegiate School, sponsoring the recital, was founded as Girl's Collegiate in 1892, the third oldest girls' college prepatory school in California. It became coeducational in 1971.

PIANO VIRTUOSO — Alice Shapiro, concert pianist and professor of music at Scripps College, goes over the program for her recital in Balch Auditorium at Scripps at 3 p.m. May 12. The recital will benefit the scholarship fund at Claremont Collegiate School.

Drama class

The classes are taught by Mark Shipley, former professional actor and director of the theater. Instruction in movement, voice, improvisation and mime is given from 3:30 to 5 p.m. each Wednesday.

Roses rich in vitamin C

The rose is rich in vitamin C. Its syrup was a staple of medieval pharmacies, and today, rose hips are said to have 400 times more vitamin C than orange juice.

Valley Community Theater to do 'Once Upon a Mattress' in May

POMONA — Valley Community Theater will present "Once upon a Mattress," a musical version of the fairy tale of the princess and the pea, starting at 8:30 p.m. May 9.

The opening night performance will be followed by VCT's traditional champagne reception for cast, crew members and the audience. The comedy will play at 8:30 Friday and Saturday nights for several weekends.

"Mattress," starring Carol Burnett as Princess Winifred, ran for 300 performances on Broadway in 1959-60 and was featured in a TV special.

The VCT production will be directed by Judy Clem, who holds a master's degree from Cal State Fullerton and spent two years at the Pacific Conservatory of the Performing Arts in Santa Maria. Jeryl Greay is mudical director; Lorraine Mainhart is choreographer, and the costumes will be designed by Paul Oakes, who did the costumes for VCT's "Dames at Sea."

Lynda Hershey, who appeared in "Dames at Sea," "Little Mary Sunshine" and "Oliver!", will star as Princess Winifred. VCT veteran Jerry O'Connor plays King Sextimus. Karen Russikoff, who played Nancy in VCT's "Oliver!", will be Lady Larken, and Nick Hooybeer will take the part of Sir Harry.

Others in the cast are Brad Ekstrand, David and Carol Spencer, Debbi Shock, Judy Kellen, Craig Seibert, Glen Vivenzio, Beth Chirch, Kathy Lane, Helen Demetrion, Alice Ivey, Scott Poindexter, Johny Sullivan, Jim Stanley and Andrea Nazzare.

Benefit performances of "Matress" will be offered for fund-raising groups. Group rates and special prices for senior citizens and students are also provided.

Occurrence at Owl Creek

Local bluegrass quartet to appear on television

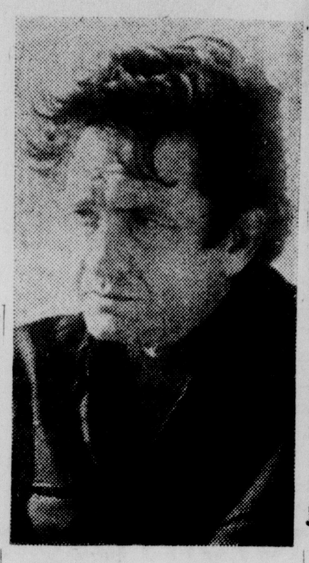
ONTARIO — Occurrence at Owl Creek, a bluegrass quartet made up of four Claremont musicians, will appear on Channel 3, Theta Cable television from Ontario at 10 p.m. May 9.

The program is Profile, a weekly, half-hour show presented live from the Ontario studio and broadcast to subscribers in Ontario, Upland and Montclair. Host is Jack Fisher, film and television actor.

Owl Creek is made up of Jim Cope, Gil Frazee, Dave Brock and David Firman. Their repertoire includes bluegrass, folk, and country-western music, and several songs composed by members of the group.

Brock plays banjo, fiddle and guitar; Frazee, six-string guitar, bass and electric guitar; Firman bass, guitar and dobro, and Cope six-string and 12-string guitar, fiddle, autoharp and electric guitar. All four share the vocals.

Owl Creek has performed widely throughout Southern California. The group recently completed a two-week engagement at the Boiler Room at Griswold's Old School House in Claremont. Other performances have been given at the Calico Ghost Town celebration, Penny University in San Bernardino, UC Riverside, and at other local colleges.



JOHNNY CASH will host a salute to the new Grand Ole Opry House in Nashville, Tenn. on NBC-TV at 10 p.m. next Friday. Among the performers will be Roy Acuff, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Charlie Rich, Kris Kristofferson and Danny Davis and the Nashville Brass.

Joan Baez to perform at UCLA

LOS ANGELES — Folksinger Joan Baez will present a recital in UCLA's Pauley Pavilion at 8:30 p.m. May 18.

Her program will include selections from her latest recording, "Gracias a La Vida," as well as music from a score of other recordings and albums made by Miss Baez during her often controversial, 15-year career.

Miss Baez is known almost equally for her meaningful, often pungent lyrics filled with topicality and for speaking her mind on the issues of the decade. In the years since her debut at the 1959 Newport Folk Festival, she has displayed an unshakable commitment repeatedly on several of the hot topics. She demanded integration of her southern audiences before civil rights really was fashionable; she sang at festivals, marches and jails and toured with Bob Dylan.

Miss Baez founded the Institute for the Study of NonViolence despite the neighborhood fears of a "hippie" invasion; she married draft resister David Harris, and she participated in innumerable demonstrations.

How to make new plants from old ones

By Sheila and Allan Swenson
NEA Garden Columnists

Gardening should be a sharing experience. Here's how to make new friends with plants and neighbors. It's really quite easy to multiply gardening pleasure with simple propagation methods.

Basically plants grow from seeds. But many plants can be reporduced easily but cuttings of stems, tips and shoots and air layering. Some plants can be propagated from leaves alone.

Here's how you can create new plants from old yourself. An old aquarium or plant tray, plastic, aluminum or clay containers can be used. Even butter dishes or cut down milk cartons.

First, mix clean sand with peat moss, half and half. Prepared planting mixes also are available in garden centers and chain stores. If you use potting soil, add extra peat moss for water holding capacity.

Cut tips or shoots of plants: boxwood, firethorn, holly, similar woody types in spring. Ivy, philodendron, African violet can be done other times. Cut three or four inches below a leaf or node. Remove the lowest side leaves.

Plant the cuttings in moist planting mix. Place a plastic bag over them to retain vital moisture while roots form.

Locate your plant propagation unit where it gets good sun but not direct rays. Best rooting temperatures range from 65 to 70 degrees for most plants.

Many plants, ivies, coleus, philodendrons can be rooted simply in glass jars in water for several weeks, then planted into soil in pots.

Air layering also is reliable for starting new plants. Slit the softwood stem slightly. Insert a wood sliver or small stone. Next, pack moist sphagnum moss around the cut. Moisten well then wrap the area with clear plastic and seal with tape.

When roots are clearly seen inside the plastic, about four to eight weeks, cut the new plant off and pot it in a shady location until it has adjusted and taken strong root.

Be experiemental. Add plant propagation to your gardening skills this year and you'll have lots of new plants to share.

HOUSE BEAUTIFUL — Rhododendrons have few rivals in the flower kingdom which can match their glorious seasonal show. In addition to the sensational colors and blooms, rhododendrons are excellent evergreen shrubs for use in landscaping, as shown here.

Lecture due on composting

Composting, or the use of garden and kitchen refuse to provide nutrients for garden soil, is the subject of an outdoor lecture-demonstration to be given at Descanso Gardens, La Canada, Sunday, April 28, at 2 p.m. George Lewis, Descanso superintendent, is the speaker.

Although there is nothing new about compost bins, home gardeners today are interested in this means of conditioning soil because the recycling of raw, natural material fits current environmental concepts. A compost pile is just as effective as chemicals and, of course, is cheaper.

Lewis will demonstrate three types of compost bins-the old-fashioned hole in the ground, one made of old timber, and one made of cinder block, the most modern. He will also discuss the kinds of refuse that may be used and how the compost pile should be prepared. The lecture is another in the series of Sunday morning walks and Sunday afternoon lectures presented by the Department of Arboreta and Botanic Gardens at Descanso Gardens, the Arboretum in Arcadia, and at South Coast Botanic Garden on Palos Verdes Peninsula. All are admission free.

Smuggled color TV sets sought

CARACAS (UPI) — J. M. Rodriguez, head of customs at Maiquetia International Airport, has offered special measures to guard against contraband color television sets now that Venezuela is on the verge of converting to color television.

Rodriguez says that the color sets are smuggled in from Miami and the neighboring Dutch island of Curacao.

Weavings for wall on market

A young artist who lives by the sea, not only gathers seashells, but driftwood, sea urchins, fish netting, dried flowers, leaves, bamboo and other odds and ends picked up on the sand in front of her Malibu Beach home.

She further adds such diverse items as dog, goat and human hair, unspun sheep and lambs wool, jute, ceramic and clay discs, chenille yarn, hemp, mirror bits and manzanita. From the strange assortment of materials Lauren Lesko creates wall hung weavings from "natural" elements.

The handmade tapestries are exclusive represented by Earl R. Retterath in the A. Mart and are sold through interior studios and specialty shops such as Spider Shop of Southern California.

Rhododendrons begin domination of garden

During these early spring days, Rhododendrons begin to dominate the garden scene. Their spectacular blooms adorn plants used as hedges, specimen shrubs, or the hillside. In any of its many shapes and sizes there is no better time than now to plant these lovely performers.

According to the California Association of Nurserymen, the varieties you plant, and how you plant them, will depend upon your climate—and the garden situation.

In Southern California and hot inland valleys, where rhododendrons are planted in increasing numbers every year, nurseries will have varieties that have done well in weather that once was considered unfavorable for growing them.

In such marginal areas planting instructions are different: Plant in pure peat moss or ready-to-use planting mixes designed for such acid loving plants as rhododendrons. Normally, gardeners would use peat moss or commercial planting material with a mixture of sand. It's a step in the right direction to solicit sound advice on planting from a CAN nurseryman.

In containers, rhododendrons are an impressive sight. Nurserymen have redwood tubs, or unusual containers, which will accommodate the plants indefinitely. Is it any wonder that more and more rhododendrons are being planted this way?

On a more massive scale, you can plant rhododendrons in an area suitable for azaleas and camellias. An unforgetable sight is a mass of vari-colored rohododendrons beneath a group of high-arching trees. For smaller gardens, use them as a specimen landscape shrub. Several of the same color make a desirable border planting.

There are so many varieties, hybrids, bloom shapes, colors and plant types of this flower. When making selection, the best thing to do is check your local nurseryman and inspect his supply.

Stop and think before planting

So you'll be spending more time at home this spring and summer! No doubt, you would really like to get busy and plant a garden or redesign the old landscape. Perhaps, certain members of your family would like to take up 'hobby gardening'—specializing in growing one certain flower for color and beauty and perhaps winning grand prize at the fair. You can involve the whole family in a very enjoyable garden vacation this year, if you plan ahead.

Planning the garden before you plant is an economic and esthetic necessity, according to the California Association of Nurserymen.

Your CAN nurseryman can furnish planting guidance through consultation at the nursery and he can give you ideas that can make it truly a garden vacation.

Before consultation, take a photograph of the front and back yard. Then, on a piece of paper sketch out areas you wish to utilize for patio, vegetables, play yard, 'hobby' garden. From a good garden reference (SUNSET Western Garden Book, for instance), choose a list of plants that you admire and will enjoy in your own garden.

Take all this material to your nurseryman, let him look it over, and suggest locations for trees and shrubs, advising you of their adaptability to a garden of the size you own. Your nurseryman knows what grows best in your locality. He can suggest methods and varieties for keeping your garden colorful through the year.

After you have completed your plan, you are ready for your planting list. Plant materials suggested along with prices will be furnished by your nursery.

Remember you are not required to buy all plants on your plan at one time. You may wish to budget your time and expenses for each weekend of your vacation.

Nurserymen have charge accounts and budget plans. Banks will make home improvement loans for the purpose of landscaping.

A new garden landscaping project—refurbishing the old—all adds up to upgrading the value of your property and affording you many hours of enjoyment in a beautiful environment right in your own back yard. So, with the help of your nurseryman, plan ahead and have a happy garden vacation.

It's matter of opinions

Jack David Dean placed the following ad in the Cleburne Times-Review:

"I will not be responsible for any debts other than my own."

Progress-Bulletin Home and Garden

There's a horse in the pool

As the dog days descend, more and more horses, just like people, are taking to water like ducks.

A horribly mixed metaphor? Perhaps, but it's really happening! More than 30 pools "for horses only" are now in operation as training, therapy, and recovery centers. And horses are swimming and, apparently, loving every minute of it.

Take Pennsylvania trotter Private Bill for example.

"Here was a horse," remembers pool builder Dave Hough, "plagued with bowed tendons in front and suspensories behind. He hadn't raced for two seasons due to his infirmities.

"But, after a swimming therapy and training program at the Meadowlands Therapeutic Horse Spa, this horse went out to win 12 times in his first 14 races."

Hough, whose company also builds "people" pools, is an active member of the National Swimming Pool Institute, and says that the benefits of swimming for people are widely promoted by the industry.

"But when I was called in at Meadowlands, I was really stumped for a bit. I soon learned, however, that horse trainers and vets have long recognized and valued hydrotherapy."

According to Hough, swimming helps injured horses recover from problems ranging from serious leg fractures to sprains and simple muscle soreness.

As training for the track, swimming is just coming into its own, but is of particular interest to trainers working with horses whose joint, ligament or tendon problems are worsened by continued pounding on the hard surface racetrack.

Trainers seem to agree, however, that a 15-20 minute swim exercises the same muscles and produces the same results as running a 2:10 minute workout mile.

Riding, hiking trails abound

SAN FRANCISO (UPI) — There are 14,280 miles of riding and hiking trails and 14,016 miles of fishable mountain streams in California's 17 national forests, according to the U.S. Forest Service.

Gardener's Checklist

1. Many rhodeodendrons are blooming—or will be soon—which means it is a good time to shop for these regal beauties.

2. After camellia flowers fade, prepare the plants for spring growth. Remove the faded flowers, prune plants that need shaping, feed with a specially prepared Camelia food and add a generous mulch of peat moss, ground bark, or other ready-to-use spread.

3. This is lawn planting time. Remember that preparation of soil is no longer a back-breaking chore as many effective an labor saving soil conditioners are available.

4. Plant these perennials now: Chrysanthemums, delphiniums, penstemon, gaillardia, columbine, coreopsis and gerbera.

5. Try one or several dwarf citrus trees as tubbed or patio plants. These bear heavily in tubs, are ornamental all year, and add charm to the outdoor living area.

Farm labor rate now $2.21 per hour, up 11%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farm wage rates on April 1 were up 11.1 per cent from a year earlier, an Agriculture Depatment report shows.

The agency's monthly farm labor report said wage rates for workers who do not get board and room rose to an average of $2.21 an hour April 1—24 cents or 11.1 per cent above a year earlier. A seasonally adjusted Department index of farm wage rates was about 10 per cent higher than a year earlier.

The report said the nation's farm labor force in the last week of March totaled nearly 3.8 million persons, about 1 per cent below the same week a year earlier. Records showed the number of hired farm workers—874,500—was at the same level as in 1967. The number of farm family workers, however, was down 14 per cent from 1967.

Parent Guild gives camera to doctors

The team of specialists will use the camera in their evaluation of cleft palate youngsters. The Rancho team is one of three major teams located within Los Angeles County.

The parent guild has scheduled its final meeting of the season on April 26 at 7 p.m. The guild, affiliated with Crippled Children's Society of Los Angeles County, will meet at the Pomona Regional Center, 480 S. Indian Hill Blvd., Claremont.

Mrs. Kay Lott and Mrs. Kathleen Selden, speech pathologists, will present a program after the buffet dinner. It will include demonstrations and discussions of "Speech Therapy for the Cleft Palate Child."

The Cleft Palate Parent Guild will reconvene in the fall. Any parent of a cleft palate youngster in the area is invited to participate. Additional information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Joseph Lombardi, publicity chairman, 595-4496.

Emblem Clubs to meet for 23rd convention

The Beverly Hilton Hotel in Beverly Hills will be decked out in purple and gold banners for the 23rd annual convention of California State Association of Emblem Clubs and the Nevada, Hawaii Clubs on Wednesday through April 27.

Mrs. Robert Weddle, president of Pomona Emblem Club 196, along with delegates Mmes. Fred VanDerLine, Edwin Adams, Al Langlois, Phil LaPierre, Lyle Patterson, Frances Patterson, William Plutte, and alternates Mmes. Merle Wooten, Eugene Beeson, Homer Pattie, Robert McCammon, Hazel Fox, Ray Mix, Jack Edwards and Frank Entler will attend the many meetings and social events.

Local past presidents authorized to vote are Mmes. Robert Pitts, William Parsonage, Cal Stafford, Paul Serna, Paul Knox, Henry Gunski, Harold Stott, Ed Huffaker, Lyle Kendall, Arthur Graves, John Swaim, Milton Collins, Margaret Delafranc, Leonard Mullins, Harry Pollock, Janet Saari, Gween Stark, Merle Morgan, James Anderson, Marvin Mahowald and Inez Stephens.

New state officers will be elected at the Thursday session and presidents of the clubs will be honored at a banquet that evening.

Another highlight will be the annual birthday luncheon celebrating the founding of the state association in 1950 during which state past presidents and honorary state past presidents will be honored. Awards will be presented in Americanism, history, press, bulletin, president's memory book, membership and attendance.

Pomona Emblem Club is competing in ritualistic competition. On Saturday, the state banquet will honor current state officers and include the presentation of awards for ritualistic work, bowling and outstanding clubs.

Salute to Youth charted

Pomona Valley youths are among the 55 youth groups and individuals from Los Angeles County nominated for Vision Awards to be announced at the ninth annual Salute to Youth luncheon of the Women's Dvision, Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday at the Biltmore Bowl.

The nominations are from individuals, schools and organizations. Nominated from the local area are the Webb School student tutors of Claremont, Miss Rebecca Sue Elder of Azusa Pacific College, Jeffery T. Kennedy of Walnut High School, Joanne Merrill of Pomona Valley Community Hospital, the Candy Stripers of Casa Colina Hospital, the Wandering Folksters of Pomona Catholic Girls High School, Michelle Fractions of Pomona, Patrick H. England of Pomona High School, Charlotte E. Moore of Garey High School and Sondra A. Shells of Pomona.

A wards will be presented for group and individual activities and all nominees will receive a certificate of merit for volunteer service in the community.

Deputy grand matron

"Rainbow of Love" was the theme for a reception given by Star of the West Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, in honor of Mrs. Robert E. Powers, deputy grand matron of the grand chapter, OES, recently in the Pomona Masonic Temple.

Marshals were Mmes. Orville Deardorff, Roy Bowman, Meyer Gatov and Mae Hunt, all past matrons.

The worthy matron, Mrs. Irma Gustafson, and worthy patron, Lorren Walrod, and officers of the chapter were escorted and introduced.

Mrs. Gustafson presented the worthy matrons and patrons of Chino, Claremont, Ontario, Pomona and Upland. These chapters and Star of the West comprise the 59th district.

Mrs. Gene Harris, worthy grand matron, and James B. Craven, worthy grand patron of the state, were special guests.

Mrs. Powers, accompanied by her husband, was escorted into the reception room and presented, after which the Star Chords of Gardena Chapter sang a duet.

Mrs. Merle Kistler placed the Holy Bible and Mr. Kistler, past patron, gave the invocation. Philip Gustafson, past patron, presented the flag, and Mrs. Robert Machulies gave the tribute.

Other grand officers present were: Mrs. Earl Robinson, past grand matron; W. Gordon Gibert, associate grand patron; Mrs. Jack Smith, grand conductress; Mrs. Ray Quibell, associate grand conductress; Earl G. Marshall, grand chaplain; Mrs. Kenneth Smith, grand marshal; Miss Barbara Cambell, grand organist.

Others were: The Grand Star Points, Mmes. Warren Wildman, Jim Stubblefield, Ed Warren, Roy Wheeler and Charles Towner; Mrs. Frank Garst, grand warder; Robert L. DeVries, sentinel; Mrs. John Blum, and Helen Andrews past grand treasurers; 34 deputy grand matrons; Gene Harris, Mrs. James B. Craven, Mrs. Ross Williams and Clarence Andrews.

Grand Chapter committee members, Mrs. Bill Dean, Roy Bowman and Glen Younkin, were introduced. Escorted were the worthy matrons, patrons, past matrons and past patrons of Star of the West and grand officers, worthy matrons and worthy patrons for 1970.

MRS. DAVID WILSON

Miss Leslie Ann Frantz became the bride of David Hayden Wilson in an afternoon ceremony read by Dr. James Dallas in Kingman Chapel of the Claremont Church of Christ, Congregational.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Frantz of Claremont was given in marriage by her father. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilson of Claremont.

The bride's gown of white sata peau was fashioned with a fitted bodice, long full sleeves and a chapel-length train. Guipure lace formed the V-neck and encircled the cuffs and hemline.

Mrs. Paul Buchanan was matron of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Richard Frantz and Mrs. Randall Conrad.

Pen Women will meet at Gardens

Finding a market for one's creative work will be the topic for the Saturday meeting of the Claremont Branch of the National League of American Pen Women.

The 2:30 p.m. meeting will be in the lounge of C. Building at Mt. San Antonio Gardens, 900 E. Harrison Ave.

Mrs. Alice Riddlington of Ontario, president, has invited non-members to hear a talk on "From Palette to Pocketbook" by Mrs. Dorothy Palmer of Upland, one of the artist members of the branch.

Tom Dunagan to call for square dance

The Foot 'N' Fiddle Square Dance Club will hold its semimonthly dance this Saturday from 8 to 11 p.m. at the La Verne Community Center, 1550 Bonita Ave.

Tom Dunagan will be the caller. Visitors are welcome, according to club president Richard Hathaway. Refreshments will be served at intermission.

Inter nos Club meets Tuesday

The Inter Nos Club will meet Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the Ramona Avenue Christian Church in San Dimas.

Serving as hostesses will be Mrs. Lillian Mills and Mrs. Jack Johnson.

Alioto claims Zebra search constitutional

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph Alioto has defended as constitutional a police tactic of stopping and questioning young blacks in an effort to capture the "Zebra" killers.

And, Alioto told a crowded news conference Thursday night, he welcomed a civil rights lawsuit challenging the validity of the stop-and-search program.

The mayor said such a suit "would develop the facts and satisfy everybody that there is no problem."

Twelve white persons have been slain by blacks in random street attacks since November. Six others have been wounded. The stop-and-search program was instituted Wednesday after the 12th victim was gunned down in a quiet neighborhood.

Civil rights groups criticized the police action on grounds it was violating the constitutional rights of blacks who were being stopped on city streets, searched and questioned.

"I want first of all to dispel the notion that there can be any racial implication in what we are doing," Alioto said.

He added that, when officers were hunting the "Zodiac" killer, they were spot-checking hundreds of whites.

"We are not willy-nilly going to stop black men because they are black," the mayor said. "We are going to stop only those who reasonably fit into the profile that the composite picture throws off. And that is constitutional."

The latest fatal victim was Nelson Shields IV, 23, son of a prominent Delaware family. He was killed Tuesday night and a witness gave a description to police who came up with the composite drawing. Police said, however, they believe more than one man is involved.

The American Civil Liberties Union charged that the search techniques were a "racist outrage." General Counsel Paul Halvonik said the measure was "totally unprecedented" and "clearly indefensible in view of the Constitution."

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People agreed and promised to seek injunctive relief in the courts.

In Oakland, Black Panther Party leader Bobby Seale said the stop-and-search program was "a vicious and racist attempt" resembling Hitler's persecution of Jews.

"Operation Zebra" is a special police program set up many weeks ago to catch the killers. Squads of uniformed officers were placed in plainclothes and in their own cars to patrol in the six areas where the killings took place.

The intense dragnet was intensified as Shield's father, a DuPont Chemical Corp. executive arrived to claim his son's body.

"I know his life is wasted now, but maybe it will help us to get back on the track,", Nelson Shields III, Wilmington, Del., told reporters.

Woman gives birth to 4th set of twins

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — The chances it could happen are one in 65 million, but Mary Morris of Powhatan, Va., has beaten those odds and given birth to her fourth consecutive set of twins.

She and her husband Howard, a school custodian, now have 13 children.

Mrs. Morris, who has not taken fertility drugs, said Thursday she was surprised as first but now is "just a proud mother, that's all." She said her husband was also a bit surprised at the birth of more twins, "but as the days go by we get more and more used to it."

Hearst kidnap hint ignored

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A notebook mentioning "guns" and an "action" against Patricia Hearst was found by police in a burned and hastily abandoned Symbionese Liberation Army headquarters three weeks before the girl was kidnaped, it was disclosed today.

A federal investigator said the notebook notations, including Miss Hearst's name and school, were perhaps made by someone taking notes on a telephone call.

Newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst said the notebook was "unquestionable proof" his daughter was not involved in the abduction.

Hearst and his wife, Catherine, also defended their daughter after U.S. Attorney General William B. Saxbe called the girl a "common criminal."

However, Hearst said that the girl shown in the photographs taken during a holdup at the Hibernia Bank Monday probably was his daughter, as the FBI has reported. Earlier, Hearst had said he had enough doubts that he would have had difficulty testifying about the girl's identity in court.

"The man (Saxbe) made irresponsible statements and evidently talks off the top of his head when he should be listening," Hearst said.

However, Hearst said he could not understand why neither he nor his daughter was notified by police when the notebook was discovered after an arson fire Jan. 10 in a Concord house used by the SLA.

The federal investigator told the San Francisco Chronicle the notebook had references to Miss Hearst being a junior art major at the University of California at Berkeley. He added that the book had been turned over to the FBI crime laboratory in Washington.

In addition, he said, there were comments about "teams," "guns", the need to "register the van by Feb. 1" and the Black Guerrilla Family, a group of inmates in state prisons.

Miss Hearst was not kidnaped from her Berkeley apartment until a month later, Feb. 4, and the full moon was Feb. 6.

A police investigator said it was a "horrendous goof" not to release the information to the Hearst family.

"Apparently those who first examined the notebook either put no significance to the name Hearst or assumed the SLA would drop its plans knowing the house hadn't burned down and considerable evidence had been found."

Since his story broke in the papers, he has had several job offers, but as yet hasn't taken any of them.

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union rolled out the red carpet today for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., treating the visiting legislator with the deference due a high-ranking official —or a strong presidential contender.

Kennedy arrived in Moscow Thursday with his wife, Joan, and children, Kara, 13, and Ted Jr., 12, for a week-long visit, his first trip to the Soviet Union.

The senator and his family were staying at a Lenin Hills government guest house usually reserved for higher-ranking travelers. Visiting lawmakers usually stay at less plush accomodations.

He was also accorded a meeting with Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev during the visit, but the date of the talks has yet to be announced.

The trip was the last stop on an East European fact-finding mission, which has already taken Kennedy to Romania and Yugoslavia.

At Sheremetyevo airport, Kennedy was asked by Western newsmen about the effects of impeachment moves in the United States on President Nixon's scheduled visit to the Soviet Union in June.

"If the question (of Nixon coming) were today, I think the answer would have to be yes," Kennedy replied. "If there are going to be dramatic changes in the United States, which I think are possible, then I think the answer would have to come based on the actions which are taken."

Kennedy's remarks were not reported in a Tass news agency dispatch on his arrival, but the Soviets were believed concerned about the impact of possible impeachment on detente.

Political observers in Moscow said the first-class Soviet treatment of Kennedy indicated the Kremlin's worries about impeachment and attempts to keep all options open.

Kennedy told newsmen he intended to discuss the question of emigration and civil rights and to "express my own views about East-West issues" in talks with Soviet leaders.

He said he would also talk about his differences from Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., about Soviet-American relations.

Jackson, also mentioned as a possible Democratic presidential candidate in 1976, has often been under attack in the Soviet press as an opponent of detente.

18 months for conspiracy, mail fraud

Ex-La Verne minister receives prison sentence

The Rev. T. Sherron Jackson, former La Verne minister and school board member, will begin serving an 18-month federal prison sentence May 17 for conspiracy and mail fraud.

Mr. Jackson lost his almost four-year battle to stave off a prison sentence on charges stemming from his involvement as president of the defunct Baptist Foundation of America.

Mr. Jackson, 51, appeared Wednesday at a pre-sentencing hearing before U.S. Dist. Judge Harry Pregerson. Mr. Jackson earlier had pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy and three counts of mail fraud.

Judge Pregerson sentenced the founder of the Calvary Baptist Church in La Verne to 18 months in the Federal Correctional Instruction in Lompoc. He is now released on $50,000 bail and will report to the prison warden on May 17.

Mr. Jackson will be eligible for parole "anytime that the parole board feels he is ready for parole," a court spokesman said. On the four counts, Mr. Jackson could have received a maximum of 20 years in prison and-or $13,000 in fines.

He was originally indicted along with 13 other men he described as "financial advisers." None of the other 13 defendants were board members of the Baptist Foundation of America. The organization at one time had assets of $780 million and claimed to have channeled money into varicus education, housing and health projects. The indictments read that less than $54,000 was donated to charitable purposes, although over $4 million in cash and property was obtained.

Mr. Jackson resigned his position as pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church in La Verne and from the Bonita school board in 1968 to devote his time to his position as president of the Baptist Foundation of America. The organization was established in 1966 and, although some Baptists were involved in the organization, it was not under the auspices of the Baptist Church.

All projects of the organization failed, including the purchase of the historic old Del Mar Hotel at Del Mar for a retirement center, two children's hospitals in San Fernando Valley and South Los Angeles and the purchase of the Global Baseball League.

Mr. Jackson said in an interview in 1972 that his "financial advisers kept coming up with investments sure to yield profits." This included the purchase of two high-rise commercial buildings in downtown Los Angeles, complicated stock deals, land proposals in the California desert and Tennessee and donations that could be discounted by donors as non-taxable gifts.

The minister repeatedly denied any involvement in any swindle and claimed he was innocent until last September, when he entered a guilty plea to the four charges at a federal court hearing.

He made an eloquent plea on his own behalf at the hearing Wednesday, saying that he "regrets it all" and that he was "swept along on the tides of my dreams and later drowned in them."

Federal Public Defender John Van de Kamp, who was appointed by the court to represent Mr. Jackson last year when he didn't have funds to hire an attorney, asked Judge Pregerson to release the minister on probation so that he could return to the ministry.

The Rev. Edward V. Hill, pastor of the Mt. Zion Missionary Baptist Church of Los Angeles, told the judge that Mr. Jackson would be a "tremendous asset to their church program and that he had been working with the congregation for the past year. He said he had offered Jackson a $10,000 a year job, if he were placed on probation.

Felony manslaughter charges lodged against Covina youth

CHINO — A Covina youth involved in a traffic accident here Wednesday in which two men were killed has been charged with felony manslaughter.

Officials said two counts of manslaughter and one count of felony drunk driving were filed today in the Superior Court's juvenile division in San Bernardino.

The youth, who slashed his wrists in a suicide attempt, is being held at San Bernardino County Hospital. His identifty was ordered withheld by court order. However the driver was identified earlier as Jim Boschma.

The driver, 17, was going north on Grove Avenue and started to pass another car when he saw a third vehicle coming toward him.

He swerved back, struck the back of the second auto, and his car then veered into the southbound lane, where the two cars collided head-on, said highway patrolmen. The accident occurred near Merrill Avenue, a short distance from the Chino Airport.

Killed were Hufford Allen, 62, of Calimesa, and William Merritt, 56, of Riverside. Both were state employes.

After the collision, the driver ran to a nearby dairy, where he broke a mirror inside a restroom and attempted to slash his wrists, said officers.

A woman, however, saw him and screamed. Investigators then grabbed the youth and stopped the flow of blood. The driver was taken to Chino General Hospital and later to San Bernardino hospital.

Officers said their initial investigation does not indicate there was any drag racing involved in the accident.

Two youths in the Covina youth's car suffered minor injuries. They were treated at the Chino hospital and released.

Officers said they may have escaped more serious injuries by lying down on the floorboard and seat before the impact.

New Watergate subpoena goes to White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the second time in a month, a subpoena has been served on the White House ordering President Nixon to surrender key Watergate evidence sought by Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

The latest summons —for tapes and documents involving more than five dozen presidential conversations with top aides —was issued late Thursday on the orders of U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

The subpoena was served little more than an hour later by George K. McKinney, chief U.S. marshal for the District of Columbia, on James D. St. Clair, Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, at the Executive Office Building next door to the White House.

Sirica ordered issuance of the subpoena at Jaworski's request and directed that Nixon comply with it by delivering the materiel to the court no later than 10 a.m. EDT on May 2. The White House had no comment other than that Nixon's legal team would study it.

Over harassment, lack of support

JDL's West Coast region will disband

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The West Coast Region of the militant Jewish Defense League announced Thursday it was disbanding due to lack of support from the Jewish community, federal police harassment and the withdrawal of the league's cofounder, Rabbi Meir Kahane.

Other JDL regions throughout the country were considering the same action, said Irv Ruben, West Coast regional director. He said he spoke for JDL chapters in Southern California, Arizona, Nevada and New Mexico.

The disbandment came one day after the league's national headquarters in New York announced that the controversial Kahane, now in Jerusalem, had resigned as head of the league.

Kahane helped found the JDL in New York in 1968, urging Jews to resist, with force if necessary, anti-Semitic actions. The group adopted the slogan "Never Again," referring to the massacre of European Jews by the Nazis.

"We're under unbearable pressure from the federal authorities, who think we do awful things," Ruben said. "The federal agents terrorize our people. They're here all the time trying to force us to admit to bombings and things, threatening to reopen old cases where the charges were dropped.

"Anyone can get on the telephone and say 'Never Again' after a bombing or something. That doesn't prove we had anything to do with it," he said.

Kahane, in announcing his resignation, said the league could not succeed because it had frightened the Jewish people by acting boldly.

"Apparently our goals were too immense for the Jewish community leaders to understand—the same kind of leaders who stood by 35 years ago and let our people die," Ruben said.

"We believe that many Jews have been allowed to leave Russia, and the state of Israel was created, as a result of militant actions by Jews here in the United States."

Higher prices riding back of worst inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of living rose 1.1 per cent in March, the third highest monthly increase in 27 years. Higher prices for food and gasoline accounted for nearly half of the increase.

The report today on the Consumer Price Index (CPI) came as the second piece of bad news for the U.S. economy in two days. The Commerce Department reported Thursday the nation's economic growth rate fell by the biggest rate in 16 years and inflation was at a 23-year high.

The 1.1 jump in the CPI last month is been exceeded only twice since '47 —a 1.3 advance in February this ear and a 1.8 per cent increase last ugust, the Labor Department's reau of Labor Statistics said.

In the first three months of the year the CPI has increased at an annual rate of 14.5 per cent, greatest three-month increase since consumer prices went up at an an annual rate of 15.2 per cent in the first quarter of 1951.

In spite of the dark news on two consecutive days, Gary Seevers, acting chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, expressed some cautious optimism about future economic trends. He said prospects appeared favorable for a leveling-off in the key categories that showed big rises last month.

"We believe we are now in a period when the sharp rise in food prices is moderating," Seevers said, and on fuel prices, he said it appeared that "most of the expected bulge ... is behind us."

The CPI rose in March to 143.1. This meant that goods and services which cost $100 in 1967 base period cost $143.10 last month — an increase of 43 per cent in the past seven years.

Consumer prices in March were 10.2 per cent higher than a year earlier, the biggest 12-month increase since the year ending in October 1947. The BLS said these were some of the items that accounted for the big March increase:

—Gasoline and motor oil accounted for about a fourth of the rise, going up 7 per cent to a level 39.3 per cent above a year ago.

—Food accounted for another quarter of the jump, although the price increase of 1 per cent was lower than the 2.5 per cent rise in February and a 1.6 increase in January.

—Nonfood commodities went up 1.5 per cent, largest monthly increase since statistics were started in 1956. The previous high of 1 per cent was set in February.

—Postal charges were up 20 per cent in March as the price for mailing a letter was raised 2 cents to a dime, and doctor's fees increased 1.7 per cent.

The Commerce Department said Thursday that economic growth, as judged by the Gross National Product (GNP), fell at an annual rate of 5.8 per cent in the first quarter while inflation was going up at a 10.8 per cent annual rate.

The GNP index measures inflation nationwide in wholesale and retail prices, while the CPI gauges prices including changes resulting from inflation and "real" growth in selected urban areas.

THE GNP index of 10.8 per cent reflected effects of price increases on the economy as a whole, while the CPI is a more accurate reflection of the effect on the average consumer.

The higher prices in March took another bite out of the purchasing power of the average worker despite bigger pay checks. This power declined 0.8 per cent in March because price increases outstripped a 0.2 per cent increase in average weekly earnings.

The bad news Thursday on GNP and inflation was attributed largely to the energy shortage and had been anticipated.

Few economists expect the slump to last long, but unless a marked upswing occurs in the current April-June quarter, the nation could be faced with six months of negative economic growth —the technical definition of a recession.

President Nixon has promised on several occasions to take whatever steps he deems necessary to avoid this condition.

The latest figures could also accelerate calls in Congress for a tax cut as a means of putting more money in the pockets of Americans and thus stimulating the economy. Administration officials have argued that such a move would only compound the present inflationary dilemma.

KNIFE AT THROAT OF HOSTAGE

Reagan unveils plan for election campaign reform

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, declaring that Watergate has spawned an "ugly" erosion of public confidence in government, today proposed remedial "surgery" on the body politic.

—A virtual ban on political activity by business and labor, including barring them or their committees from making contributions to candidates or ballot measures.

—A prohibition on campaign donations by lobbyists.

—And an end to "on-the-job" political activity by public employes.

In remarks prepared for delivery to the Better Business Bureau, Reagan said:

"Aside from inflation, the present widespread lack of confidence in government and in the election process is America's most compelling problem.

"This cynicism is a cancer, an ugly growth eroding the public's belief in the honesty and integrity of our very form of government.

"Surgery is required," declared Reagan, who has defended President Nixon in the wake of the Watergate scandal.

Reagan said Watergate had "caused America to take a searching look" at campaign reform.

The governor's sweeping proposals were his apparent answer to Prop. 9—a political reform initiative supported by Common Cause, the People's Lobby and Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., a Democratic candidate for governor.

In some cases, Reagan's proposal, such as the ban on campaign contributions by business and labor, went beyond those in the June ballot measure.

The governor's package, which his office said would be introduced "soon" in the legislature, also included:

—Changing the date of the primary election from June to the first Tuesday in September to shorten campaigns and therefore reduce their costs.

—Allowing campaign contributions only from individuals and banning those by professional associations in addition to business and labor.

—Creating a fair campaign practices commission.

—Making the office of secretary of state nonpartisan. Reagan said it was not possible for a partisan secretary of state to carry out his election law responsibilities without "someone raising the possibility of personal or partisan conflict-of-interest."

—Banning campaign contributions by judges so the public can be assured they are exercising their power "impartially."

Two of the suggestions were aimed at Secretary of State Brown and state Supreme Court Justice Stanley Mosk, a former Democratic state attorney general.

Reagan said both men had behaved improperly while holding their current offices:

The governor first advocated making Brown's office nonpartisan in January. Today he noted some thought the suggestion was "facetious" although he was "dead serious."

The proposal regarding judges was triggered by the disclosure last month that Mosk maintained a political campaign fund during his 10 years on the high court, occasionally dispensing funds to candidates.

The lobbyist restrictions, fair campaign practices commission and simplified ballot analysis were basically similar to proposals in Prop. 9. Reagan's other suggestions, however, were not contained in ballot measure, which additionally limited the amount of campaign spending.

In proposing the ban on business and labor contributions, Reagan said, "The greatest potential for abuse is in the massive collective financial contributions of special interest groups."

The governor proposed barring "any corporate, labor organization or public employe organization" from soliciting, receiving or making political campaign contributions.

He would also ban them from forming a group to make contributions or "otherwise" support or oppose candidates or ballot measures.

'We don't know where Hearst girl is'--Kelley

ATLANTA (UPI) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley told newspaper editors Thursday he believes his agents will locate Patricia Hearst "in a minimum of time," but as for now, "we don't know where she is."

Kelley said the FBI had made an extensive search for Miss Hearst, who was kidnaped in Berkeley, Calif., Feb. 4, and that his men had "just about turned that area upside down.

"I'm going to make an admission that hurts. We don't know where she is."

Kelley, at a meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, answered questions during a session with Atlanta Constitution editor Reg Murphy, a recent kidnap victim, and Thomas Eastham, an editor of the San Francisco Examiner. Miss Hearst's father Randolph A. Hearst is editor and president of the Examiner.

Miss Hearst was identified as a participant in a San Francisco bank holdup on Monday, and Kelley said, "We feel we have a better opportunity (of locating her) since they have come out in the open."

Kelley avoided direct comment on Attorney General William Saxbe's description of the newspaper heiress as a "common criminal."

He said, "We choose to take the lesser of the evaluations that she is a material witness and could have been coerced. We will be guided by the facts and not by any opinion."

Kelley said the possibility the case might be a hoax was "part of our investigation" and if it is determined Miss Hearst took part in the bank robbery, "the U.S. attorney has said she will be charged. At this point, we just don't know."

Among lowest paid

'Liberated' women not so liberal with household help

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Today's "liberated" woman often depends on another group of women —the domestic employes who free her of the need to stay home to clean the house, cook and care for the children, says a researcher at the University of Michigan.

"More often than not, professional women deny their household employes benefits that they themselves expect — indeed, take for granted —in their own work," said Dr. Doris B. McLaughlin, assistant research scientist in the Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations at Ann Arbor and Wayne State University in Detroit.

Dr. McLaughlin said household employes are among the lowest paid and least protected workers in the labor force. She reported that in 1972, before the $2 statutory minimum wage, about half of the household workers earned less than $1.40 an hour, and 82 per cent had an annual income under $2,000.

She said career women "espouse the principle of women's liberation because they covet a better society and working conditions for themselves. They generally have no real interest in providing such opportunities for the women who work in their homes."

People in today's news

6-15-year term

BOSTON (UPI) — Mark Frechette, 25, who starred in the film "Zabriskie Point," and Sheldon T. Bernhard, were sentenced to six to 15 years in prison for robbing a branch of the New England Merchants National Bank last August.

Frechette and Bernard, 31, both lived in a Fort Hill commune. They were sentenced after pleading guilty earlier this month to charges of armed robbery.

They were arrested inside the Brigham Circle branch of the bank in Roxbury on Aug. 30, shortly after police shot and killed a third member of the holdup gang, Christopher Thien, 25.

'You're evil, Janie'

LONDON (UPI) — When 16-year-old Janie Jones ran away from her home in an English coalmining town to find her fortune in London, she boasted to friends that one day she would be famous.

"I shall hit the headlines one day," she told one friend.

Miss Jones, now 37, did just that today.

"Evil Janie jailed for seven years," "You're evil, judge tells jailed Janie," "Seven years in jail for most evil Janie Jones," the headlines blared.

It was Judge Alan King Hamilton who at the close of the Jones trial Thursday called the alleged madam in a sex-and-money scandal one of only two truly evil women he had ever come across in a courtroom.

"And beside you, she (the first woman) was comparatively harmless," he told Miss Jones.

King-Hamilton sentenced her to seven years in prison and ordered her to pay $38,400 in court costs on charges that she controlled prostitutes and perverted the course of justice.

Cronkite subpoena

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Television newsman Walter Cronkite will be subpoenaed to testify at a hearing to determine whether reporter William Farr can be sent back to jail for refusing to reveal a news source, according to Farr's lawyer.

Farr has already spent 46 days in jail for his refusal to name a source for a story on the Manson family trial. A new hearing has been set for April 25 to determine whether further jail time would be penal or coercive.

Farr and his attorney, Marc Hurwitz, said they will use the time before the hearing to contact out-of-state witnesses. Cronkite was expected to testify on a newsman's right to protect his sources.

Farr has steadfastly refused to reveal his source since writing the story in 1970 while he was covering the Manson trial for the Los Angeles Herald Examiner. He now is a reporter for the Los Angeles Times.

Can do no more

ALTOONA, Pa. (UPI) — John B. Connally, former U.S. Treasury Secretary, says the Nixon Administration has done everything it can to halt inflation.

"I don't know what else the administration can do to stop galloping inflation," Connally said. "If I did, I would certainly advise them of it. I think everyone in Washington from the President down is concerned about inflation."

Connally also said he does not anticipate a recession and expected 1974 to be a good year.

"A great many economists a few months ago were predicting a recession," he said. "I think they have been proven wrong. I think we can look forward to a very good year in 1974."

Demo package stiffens curbs on health plans

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A package of consumer legislation to impose stiffer regulation of prepaid health plans affecting 5 million Californians was unveiled today by prominent Democratic lawmakers.

The measures were disclosed at the same time a new study cited the potential danger of the current lack of state regulation that easily could lead to fraud in the health care field.

The report by the Senate subcommittee on health needs said the state had far less power to oversee prepaid health plans than it does to regulate other types of health insurance. Meantime, Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, unveiled a bill (AB3885) designed to cure many of the ills outlined in the Senate study. He said the bill was a good consumer protection bill but noted every prepaid health plan now opposed it.

The measure, the keystone of a package of bills, would require state licensing of prepaid health plan salesmen, provide for auditing and evaluation of the plans and create a new state agency to oversee the plans. It will be coauthored by Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego.

Riles' priorities for schools in state

Flexibility . . . financing . . . crime

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — Restructuring of secondary school programs, followed closely by equality in financing and curbing of violence, are top priority issues in public education in California, according to State Schools Supt. Wilson Riles.

Riles addressed a capacity audience Thursday afternoon in La Fetra Hall at La Verne College.

"We must focus on individual needs at the secondary level and provide learning alternatives to match individual capabilities," said Wilson.

"Students tell me they have been kept and treated as children too long, that they need the responsibility of the real world."

Riles said that even with our crises, "we're not going to move backward into manual labor. We're moving toward a more sophisticated way of doing the world's work. We can't prophesy tomorrow's needs, yet we have to ask ourselves, will today's students be ready for tomorrow?

"That is the challenge in public education."

Recalling that the state Supreme Court has declared unconstitutional present means of public school financing, Riles said, "I don't propose to talke anything away from the high-wealth districts. You can equalize by bringing down. I'm not interested in that. I don't want everyone poor.

"I want all the school children in California to have the same educational opportunities as those in Beverly Hills, and I'm not going to pussy-foot around in saying it.

"What is more important than preparing our young people to run this state and this nation?

"I'll be satisfied when the schools have all the money they need and the Pentagon has to conduct bake sales to buy Marine uniforms."

Riles said he did not anticipate any new legislation this season because of elections, but did expect by next January to see new laws controlling school financing in California.

Riles said that the disruption of conflict and violence in the schools cuts across all boundaries.

"We must come together with a strategy to solve this vexing problem," he said. "Schools should be places where no children or parent cannot come and function without fear."

The problem of crime in schools is being studied in Sacramento, Riles said. "We find that what occurs in our schools is a slop-over from what is happening in society," he explained. "This is no time to point fingers. This is a time to come together and solve the problem." He said people with "creative instinct" in the schools tend to eliminate disruption.

Since taking office in 1970, Riles said he had "set in motion major reform in elementary education" which he pinpointed as his Early Childhood Education program. This program provides individual instruction for children through the third grade.

He feels strongly 4-year-olds should be included. "Those on welfare have Head Start. The affluent have private nursery schools. The only ones left out are those in the middle, those too rich for welfare and too poor to send their children to nursery school," he explained.

"Children come into the world eager to learn. They will learn in spite of us if we just open the door."

Cal Poly prof given foreign program role

POMONA — Dr. Esther B. Leffler, acting chemistry department chairman at Cal Poly, has been selected as one of the resident directors of the international programs of the state university and colleges system.

Dr. Leffler will head the program in the United Kingdom for the 1974-75 academic year. She is the first Cal Poly faculty member to receive such an appointment in the 10 years of the program's operation.

DR. ESTHER B. LEFFLER

As director, she will supervise the academic, fiscal and administrative aspects of the program involving 50 students from among the 19 state campuses who will be enrolled in programs at Oxford, Leicester, Sheffield or Dundee universities.

$2 million bid approved for new Vina Danks school

By JEANNE HEMENOVER
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — After months of planning, discussion and waiting, at 2 million bid for the construction of a new Vina Danks Junior High School has been approved by the Ontario-Montclair school board.

Bids were first opened in Novemeber, but all those submitted were more than the budgeted $2,046,235 and were rejected. At that time plans for the school were returned to the architect, Harnish, Morgan and Causey, for revision.

After the plans had been modified to reduce the cost of construction, bids were reopened on Wednesday. A $2,036,438 bid from K and F construction of Long Beach was accepted by the board Thursday, subject to the approval of the State Department of General Services, Office of Local Assistance, and the architect.

The K and F bid was one of four submitted. Other companies making bids were Berry Construction, Inc., $2,058,808; Powers Construction Co., Inc., $2,135,000; and Peter Kiewit Sons Co., $2,130,000.

Vina Danks School is being rebuilt to meet earthquake safety standards established in the Field Act. Students are now attending classes in relocatable classrooms.

To fulfill a need for improved telephone service in the district, board members voted to award a contract to Master Communications, Inc. for a telecommunications system at a five-year lease-purchase cost of $85,839, or $1,430.65 per month.

The system will include an intra-district set-up exclusive of the public line and is expected to increase efficiency by as much as 35 per cent. A new automatic switchboard and one new instrument per school will be added with the new system.

Trustees also accepted a bid of $21,566.69 from United Bus Sales of Bell Gardens for the purhase of two new school buses. Four bids were received with United Bus Sales making the lowest offer within the $22,000 amount budgeted by the district.

Both new buses will be delivered to the district after July 1.

Authorization to open bids for sprinkler system supplies was given by the board. Board members recognized the need to commit a company to a contract for the work immediately since prices continue to rise and are not expected to go down. A sum of $20,000 was previously authorized in the budget for the installation of playground sprinkler systems and the planting of lawns at several schools with inadequate turf areas.

Crash hurts 2 Ontarians

UPLAND — Two men were injured early this morning when two cars collided on Foothill Boulevard just west of Euclid Avenue.

Robert Bryan Labreche, 20, of 1428 W. B St., Ontario, suffered back injuries and was admitted to San Antonio Community Hospital where he is listed in fair condition. Kirkland Lee Hale, 22, of 1404 W. B St., Ontario, a passenger in Labreche's car, was also injured slightly. Hale was given medical treatment at the Upland hospital and later released.

Police said the Labreche car collided broadside with another car making a turn onto Euclid Avenue about 1:49 a.m. The driver of the second car was identified as Harold James Hindle, 55, of Oxnard. He was not injured.

Tax hike for schools seen by Flournoy

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Controller Houston Flournoy, a candidate for governor, said Thursday the state will have to increase personal and corporate income taxes, liquor and cigarette taxes and impose a state property tax to meet a judicial ruling requiring more money for schools in poor neighborhoods.

If the legislature approves a state property tax, the increases in other taxes will not have to be large, Flournoy told a news conference.

If such a tax is rejected, he said, the state will have to make it up with much larger tax increases in other areas.

The higher taxes are needed to cope with the ruling by Superior Court Judge Bernard S. Jefferson in Los Angeles last week, holding that the state's method of school financing violates the state constitution.

Even with $332 million in state funds pumped into the school system to provide a basic minimum, the disparity is too great between the money spent on children in poor districts and those in middle class and wealthy neighborhoods, the judge ruled.

Source of grocer

The Middle English term for a merchant who sold spices, dried fruits, tea and coffee, was spicer. The wholesale dealer in these articles was a spicer "en gross" — or a grosser — as he sold the goods by the gross, or in bulk; hence our word "grocer."

More stations staying open this weekend

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Auto Club of Southern California said Thursday more stations were resuming weekend operations and increasing pumping hours, making it easier for motorists to find gasoline this weekend than during any other weekend since November.

The weekend also is the first since the end of the odd-even gasoline distribution plan in nine counties, set up last month.

The club's weekly Fuel Gauge survey showed that 33 per cent of stations in metropolitan areas plan to be open Sunday and 48 per cent in outlying areas along major highways.

About 90 per cent of the stations surveyed said they will be open Saturday.

High blood pressure

The poor also afflicted

BOSTON (UPI) — High blood pressure afflicts the poor as much as the rich, a panel of medical experts have said.

Furthermore, they said, an estimated 25 million Americans suffer from high blood pressure and at least half of them are unaware of the threat to their lives.

More than 200 health professionals, community leaders and health care consumers attended the New England conference on "community action against high blood pressure." The meeting was held at the Museum of Science.

Dr. Adrian Ostfeld was among those who said too much emphasis was placed on salt as a factor in hypertension. He also emphasized, as did others attending the meeting, that high blood pressure affected the poor as much, or more, than the affluent.

"It is a disease of people who cannot make ends meet," he said.

Members of the panel also said the rate of high blood pressure was high among blacks and other minority groups.

Dr. Gertrude T. Hunter, federal regional health administrator for New England, said hypertension and high blood pressure were not exclusively medical problems and involved social and economic factors as well as obesity and other physiological factors.

Dr. Gerald H. Payne, chairman of the program evaluation committee of the National High Blood Pressure Education Program, and Dr. William Kannell, medical director, Framingham Study of the National Heart and Lung Institute, said there was a need to inform the public of the hazards of high blood pressure.

Payne noted that it was almost two years ago that Elliot Richardson, then secretary of Health Education and Welfare, began a national education program to make Americans aware of the problems of high blood pressure.

The "operational objective of the program is to disseminate effectively the knowledge and understanding that high blood pressure is a serious health problem..." and that "available treatment can control most cases of high blood pressure," Payne said.

About 80 per cent of those with high blood pressure can respond to medical treatment, doctors said, with a good chance of averting either heart attacks or strokes.

Simon says as Simon does? some say not

By ROBERT F. BUCKHORN
United Press International

William E. Simon, President Nixon's choice for treasury secretary, is a man addicted to action.

"He's a go, go, guy," says an aide. "His idea of a uniform for the work day is shirtsleeves, two packs of cigarettes and a telephone stuck in his ear."

Most observers agree that Simon, 46, is the closest thing to a perpetual motion machine in the Nixon administration. But they disagree on whether the motion produces all that many results.

His supporters cite the job he did in the energy crisis. He created the Federal Energy Office, set up a mandatory fuel allocation system, made Americans conscious of energy conservation and kept homes heated during the fuel short winter of 1973-74.

His detractors claim he was more talk than results. They claim he bungled the fuel allocation program and that this resulted in long lines at local gasoline stations.

Equally as bad, they claim, was his economic policy during the energy crisis: Allow the price of oil to rise to a point where the oil industry will make large enough profits to finance exploration for new sources of oil, which will then increase the supply and cause the price of oil to drop.

Simon brushes off critics as "doom-sayers". When the energy crisis began to grow, these same critics were predicting that homes would be cold, cities would suffer brownouts and unemployment would jump to staggering highs when industry was forced to lay off workers due to fuel cutbacks.

None of these things happened, Simon says, because the FEO program successfully prevented them.

Simon is a former investment banker—a partner in the prestigious Wall Street firm of Salomon Brothers. A success almost since he left college, Simon had collected a multimillion dollar-a-year income, seven children, and a reputation as a tough task master when he became George Shultz's deputy secretary at the Treasury in January, 1973.

As treasury secretary, Simon apparently is not going to have the power that his mentor Shultz had.

According to White House spokesman Gerald Warren, the White House intends to play an increasing role in formulation of economic policy.

But, said one longtime Simon-watcher: "Bill Simon is not the kind of guy who sits around and watches other people play increasing and expanding roles —he's pretty good at that himself."

Ages-old flywheel is energy boon

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — Stanford University scientists are considering as a proposed solution to the energy shortage —the flywheel, an invention thousands of years old.

The versatile flywheel design presented to the Stanford Energy Seminar was introduced by Dr. Richard F. Post a professor at the University of California-Davis, and his son Stephen.

The Posts said large flywheels similar to the one they designed could be used to store power in electrically run cars and trucks. Larger flywheels, they said, could possibly be used to store large amounts of energy produced by electric utilities, helping them to meet peak hour loads.

Tax reform

By JAMES S. BYRNE
Tax Analysts and Advocates
(Last in a Series)

For a number of reasons, this is a good year for tax reform. If Congress decides it is good politics to examine taxes in terms of what really benefits the public, here are some reforms it might consider.

The most popular way many rich individuals avoid paying much income tax is by capital gains. If an asset is held for six months and then sold, only half the profit is taxes.

The most important problem with capital gains is that if a rich family has stocks or real estate which rise in value, this appreciation builds the value of the estate that will be willed to heirs. If the family has enough income from other sources, these assets do not have to be sold and, thus, no income tax will be paid on the appreciated value. Probably half the increased value of private property that increases in value capes tax in this way.

Avoids income tax

When this wealth is transferred to the heirs, an estate tax is paid on the appreciated value. But estate taxes also are paid on wealth accumulated out of dividends, salaries, savings and business profits—all of which have been subject to income taxes during lifetime. Wealth accumulation in the form of property that increaes in value avoids the income tax.

Congress is aware that appreciation at death is a big issue in tax reform. President Kennedy had to go at this in 1963 and there was more discussion of it in 1969. This basic tax reform is now closer to enactment than at any time before but it will probably take a president who is willing to recommend it. Mr. Nixon has not been willing.

There are conspicuous tax preferences other than capital gains which basically do not benefit the public. One example is the availability of fast depreciation, especially for buildings, which generates large tax deductions for investors.

Another device which benefits money holders rather than the public is the tax shelter, an outgrowth of the tax-incentive program that was designed to offset tough corporate taxes. It has led to a complicated game in which tax-wise investors set up business organizations that work like corporations but without paying the corporate tax. The shelters can then shovel out to investors tax savings from real estate, cattle feeding and the like.

May fiddle around

Instead of digging into the hard problems of tax reform, Congress may fiddle around with the minimum income tax. The minimum tax was invented in 1969. Its supporters said that while tax incentives serve a useful purpose, they were not intended to create a class of nontaxpayers.

There have been many attempts in the current Congress to increase its bite but the beneficiaries of the tax benefits fight such increases in the minimum tax just as hard as proposals for fundamental reform.

Basically, the minimum tax is levied at 10 per cent on income that would otherwise be sheltered from tax by the use of certain allowances. In a sense, the minimum tax is the opiate of tax reformers. Putting a light burden on people or companies who enjoy substantial tax preferences blunts the emotional force of arguments about the wealthy paying no taxes.

At root, the minimum tax strategy is a way to deal with the politics of tax reform. If the minimum tax rate can be increased to the point that it becomes a severe burden, there will be increasing pressures for groups enjoying special preferences to give them up in exchange for the lifting of the minimum tax load. But this seems hardly likely.

Unfortunately, the minimum tax seems in many ways like a big game. The technical problems are very tough, almost too tough for a congressman to grapple with at the same time he is trying to keep in touch with constituents and maintain his inside track for re-election.

Political pay off

The political payoff for doing hard work like studying tax incentives to find out whether the public is getting its money's worth is very modest.

All this means that while 1974-75 seems like a good year for tax reform, the reforms might be very shallow one (e.g, the minimum tax).

MEDFORD, Ore. (UPI) — A World War II B25 bomber crew decorated for the sinking of a Japanese submarine off the Oregon coast probably sank an oil slick instead, a research journalist has concluded.

The "sinking" off the mouth of the Columbia River Christmas morning, 1941, has been the subject of a debate for three decades.

Three Army Air Corps officers were credited with the alleged feat. Their aircraft later flew in the Tokyo raid led by Gen. James Doolittle.

Journalist Bert Webber of Medford, Ore., concluded Wednesday, after a research project, that the supposed "sunken" submarine returned in early 1942 to sink several more ships. It also shelled Ft. Stevens near Astoria, Ore., he reported.

"The B25 surely did bomb something but it was not any Japanese submarine," Webber said. "The target of the B25's bombs early that Christmas morning probably was an oil slick."

Webber explained that the former executive officer of the "I-25" Japanese submarine wrote him that the vessel's bilge had been pumped before its departure from the Columbia River area five days before the alleged bombing.

Oregon State University commissioned the research, which Webber is making into a book. He received personal mail from nearly all survivors of the submarine, which finally was sunk in the South Seas in 1943.

Webber said the sub found a notch in military history, however, with its launching of aircraft in two raids over southern Oregon. One such sub-borne plane dropped bombs and started a forest fire.

Audit of IRS called for by protest chief

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — According to his eulogy, "Jonathon Q." led a pretty rotten life, in slavery and torment. Monday being tax day, there must have been thousands who would cast themselves in the title role.

The IRS, the eulogy said, "bugged his phone, read his mail, seized his small pretzel business, and ran off with his life savings from his safety deposit box —all this without due process of law."

The group, from the Church of Scientology, said the IRS constantly violates constitutional rights in its efforts to collect all the money it can get — "searches without warrants, seizures without warrants, electronic surveillance, things like that have been going on for years," said the group's leader, Heber Jentzsch.

When miners panned gold

When a lookout aboard an oldtime whaler first spotted a whale, he yelled, "Thar she blows!" When a faller among the lumberjacks made his last cut through a tree, he yelled, "Timber!" Client cites the foregoing, and asks? "What did the prospector of old traditionally yell, if anything, when he discovered gold?" Research reveals it was: "Color in my pan!"

Maybe you didn't know there's a snowless valley right in the middle of Antarctica. About 4,000 square miles of it. Lake Vanda sits in the center. The lake's covered with ice, all right. But the water temperature down at the bottom is in the high 70 degrees F.

Q. "How long should a good sherry age?"

A. Trick query, that. Sherry is made in a solera. That's a bank of connected barrels one atop the other. The vintner adds new wine to the top, bottles from the bottom. The sherries in all those casks tend to marry therefore. Some of that sherry in the bottle on your table, if such there be, may be fairly new, some may be decades old. Did I tell you the word sherry comes from a warped pronunciation of the name of tha Spanish port called Jerez?

$2 million winner in Brazil lottery

SALVADOR, Brazil (UPI) — A few days ago, Francisco Couto Portela, 25, was earning less than $200 a month working as an accountant's assistant in Salvador, capital city of Bahia state.

Now he is worth more than $2 million.

Portela was the only person in Brazil who chose correctly the results of 13 soccer games played throughout the country last weekend. It got him the world's largest lottery prize — $2,291,000. He managed it by betting 60 cents.

After two days of hiding out, Portela accompanied by officials of the Finance Ministry told newsmen at a news conference Wednesday that the first thing he intends to do with the money is pay off some debts.

"I bet illogically, not really believing I had the slightest chance at winning. I bet in favor of three "zebras" —the term for weak teams that usually lose.

How GOP, Demo spokesman view the party chances

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George Bush and Robert Strauss are sharing a common inhibition —both are trying to keep from saying what comes naturally.

Bush, the Republica National Committee chairman, is bravely fighting off despair and panic following four GOP congressional election disasters since February.

Strauss, his Democratic counterpart, is trying to squelch overconfidence, complacency and the impulse to claim victory in April for elections that won't be held until November.

But the plain fact that neither chairman will publicly concede or claim is that the GOP appears to be in deep trouble and the Democrats seem to have the tide with them as the 1974 congressional and state elections approach.

The most recent Democratic victory, in Michigan's 8th District just north of Detroit, would be no sweeter to Strauss nor more bitter to Bush than the previous three except for the extra added attraction of last Wednesday — the personal intervention, in the form of a full day of campaigning, by President Nixon. The President toured a series of rural towns in the Michigan "Thumb" and got what was generally agreed to be a warm reception.

Bush and Dean Burch, the manager of Sen. Barry Goldwater's 1964 presidential campaign who is now a Nixon aide, attached some significance Wednesday to the fact that the Republican candidate in Michigan, James Sparling, was 9 per cent behind Democrat Robert Traxler before Nixon appeared, but lost by only 3 per cent. Strauss, when asked about this, responded that it called to mind super-Texans of his acquaintance who liked to recall that "we lost only 128 men at the Alamo, while the other side lost thousands."

Bush's post-electio prescription for the GOP was "work harder" to get out the Republican vote and articulate the party's principles. But he said the November campaigns for 34 Senate seats, the entire 435-member House and 35 governorships would be "a new ball game" because it would be Democratic incumbents, not newcomers, running and "you're going to have changed conditions on employment, on Watergate (and) on energy."

Strauss, who has done everything to dampen Democratic euphoria short of denying that Watergate occurred, stuck to his season-long position that Nixon leadership, not the 1972 scan dals, was the controlling issue of the special elections. And he refused to show concern that an improving employment and energy picture might hurt his party's chances. He airily predicted that it would be the Democrats who control Congress who would gain from any such developments.

Strauss also put his finger on a factor in the Michigan special election campaign that was little noted at the time of Nixon's whirlwind stumping tour. Nixon did all of his campaigning in the predominantly rural area of the 8th District, and while Sparling carried them, he was stomped in the more populous urban areas such as Saginaw and Bay City, where unemployment is high. Strauss said Nixon's impact on the outcome was "negligible" because he ignored the cities, where both the problems and the votes exist.

The Michigan result also opened two other lines of campaign debate. Both Bush and Vice President Gerald R. Ford spoke in ominous tones of a possible overwhelming Democratic victory, producing "a veto proof" Congress that would be bad for the country, and there was a renewal of Republican complaints that labor unions had tipped the balance with massive outlays of money and organizing effort.

Strauss responded to these by suggesting that it ill-behooved Republicans to complain about "do-nothing" Democratic congresses on one hand and warn about dominant control on the other.

On the complaint about unions, Strauss finessed, saying the Democrats had indeed been successful among "working people—expecially the 10 per cent in that Michigan district who are unemployed."

2 suspects in slaying freed

EL MONTE (UPI) — Two men, arrested in connection with the shooting deaths of two teen-agers at a trailer court four days ago, were released recently for lack of evidence.

Released were Faris Zeferino Ramirez, 35, and Richard Zardenta Telles, 18. Police said they believe a third man, not identified, was responsible for the shooting of Rudy Guzman, 17, and Robert Arizmendi, 19, who were gunned down Sunday while standing in front of the trailer court.

Martha Mitchell: a very unhappy woman

By VERNON SCOTT

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Martha Mitchell said Wednesday night she is a very "unhappy woman," who has been "restrained physically" from seeing her daughter and no longer recognizes her husband.

The estranged wife of former Attorney General John Mitchell appeared on the "Tomorrow Show" to say that she favored impeachment of President Nixon as a means "of bringing everything out into the open."

Mrs. Mitchell came here from New York to appear on the interview show, to be broadcast by NBC-TV May 1.

By turns reflective and gay, Mrs. Mitchell blamed Nixon for her own personal problems as well as the national political malaise of the administration.

She also denied being crazy or alcoholic, saying, "I've been accused of being both in part of a campaign by certain people in Washington."

"John Mitchell left me with $945 in the bank," she said. "He puts money in the bank, but it's not a regular thing. It's difficult for me to pay my bills. I even have trouble trying to get an attorney. I don't have one now."

Regarding Nixon's knowledge of Watergate and the subsequent coverup, Mrs. Mitchell said, "My husband always said there was nothing in the government that Richard Nixon didn't know about.

"Nixon knew everything that was going on in Washington," she said. "Is there any way he could not have known when he saw John twice a day and talked to him three times a day on the telephone?"

She said the White House tormented her constantly.

"In Mississippi last year, the Secret Service was following me," she said. "I fear for my safety from time to time. I don't know if I am being followed.

"The John Mitchell and Richard Nixon I knew aren't alive any more, they are dead. They killed themselves. John Mitchell is not near the man I knew. But he started out with good intentions."

Asked if she would weep if her estranged husband were convicted and imprisoned, she said, "I don't think I'd cry any more if he was sent to jail. I've been through all that."

Mrs. Mitchell was near tears when she said she had not seen her daughter Marty, 12, for many months.

Kidnap victim's screams spur convict's recapture

MERCED (UPI) — An escaped convict who kidnaped a Marin County couple was recaptured Monday because one victim started screaming at a gasoline station.

Mrs. Victoria DuBois, 19, locked the convict out of the couple's car when he left it to fill the gasoline tank at a self-service station.

Her screams attracted station attendants and led to Robert R. Hohenberger, 31, fleeing on foot —only to be caught by a posse directed by the Mercent County sheriff's office.

Hohenberger, serving time for assault with a deadly weapon, escaped from a minimum security area at San Quentin Prison on Friday and kidnaped the hiking San Rafael couple Sunday on Mount Tamalpais, using a knife.

He is to be charged with escape, kidnaping and assault with a deadly weapon.

Today is Friday, April 19, the 109th day of 1974 with 256 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries.

American nuclear scientist Glenn Seaborg was born April 19, 1912.

On this day in history:

In 1775, the American Revolutionary War began.

In 1933, the United States went off the gold standard.

In 1972, U.S. warships in the Gulf of Tonkin were attacked by Communist MIGs and patrol boats.

A thought for the day: American poet James Russell Lowell said, "Who speaks the truth stabs falsehood in the heart."

Rattles & straws

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Poets, we are told (by poets) reveal Truth to us.

As a rule of thumb, or pen, I think the statement is valid. However, occasionally a poet goofs, or more poetically, errs. One of the more majestic booboos in the annals of onomatopoeia is found in Longfellow's lines about the children's hour:

Between the dark and the daylight,
When the night is beginning to lower,
Comes a pause in the day's occupations,
That is known as the Children's Hour."

Now I submit that for the harried mother and the workworn father, nothing called the Children's Hour represents any pause in the day's occupations. Au, as the French say, Contraire.

For one thing, that period "between the dark and the daylight" is not the children's hour at all; it is the cocktail hour, that brief respite in the long day when a man wants to — nay, must — relax for a moment over a chilled martini to recharge his battery.

Longfellow's poem describes in rather sickening phrases three lovely little girls who leave Nanny in the nursery and creep downstairs to pounce on the dear, sentimental poet — the old fool.

In today's typical family, Children's Hour finds the television set and radio blaring, teen-age daughter on the telephone, teen-age son batting his siblings about.

Various children, depending on their age, build booby traps in the hall, throw baseballs through the window, and crawl about tipping over wastebaskets and breaking ahstrays.

Children's Hour: You separate the brawlers, wipe a bloody nose, pick up the broken glass, sweep out the trash. At this point all of the kids are acting like your wife's children.

If you are a good father (and have had the day off) you may do something constructive with one or more of the little whelps. You toss the ball around with your oldest son, and he soon has you panting, perspiring and falling into the rose bushes.

Maybe you help another with his Cub Scout project. ("Make a chestful of toys and games to entertain the whole family.") The minute I pick up hammer and saw, I entertain the whole family. They stand around holding the first aid kit and having hysterics.

Children's Hour may entail helping your daughter with her homework. ("If two boys sell five apples and one-third of a mellon, and each boy has $1.26, how many mellons would . . . " Or, "Underline the gerundive participles and dangling infinitives, showing the indefinite relationships between . . . ") Oh boy!

And this "pause in the day's occupation" may be otherwise filled with discussion of report cards, fights at school, allowances, dented fenders, outcurves, playing with matches, and other topics of general interest.

For my money, the Children's Hour is when they are all in bed and asleep.

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I get a terrific shock every time I touch something metal at home, work, shopping, getting out of a car, etc. I have even shocked other people.

It's a crazy situation, and it's beginning to get me down. Can anything be done about it?

DEAR READER — This is more common than you apparently realize. In modern operating rooms, the personnel must all wear grounded shoes, or shoe coverings. A wire conductor connection is placed inside the sock to connect the body to the grounded footwear. This is done because everyone has some degree of the problem you describe.

You are storing static electricity. It is capable of giving of a spark. Since there are explosive gases used in the operating rooms, it is very important that no spark occur, hence the grounded footwear.

You might check with some of the medical supply houses in your city and see if they can offer you any footwear that would do the trick.

As you know, after you have discharged the static electricity from touching something metal or a person you will not have another immediate discharge shock until you have built up electricity again. If you continually discharge electricity you won't build up a static charge. I suppose if it is really a problem you could have a piece of metal in the heel of your shoe that touches the surface of the floor and connects to a piece of metal that has contact with your bare heel. This would serve as a constant ground wire and prevent accumulation of static electricity.

Rugs are a common cause of the problem. The friction between the filament and the movement of your feet builds up static electricity. The coverings without filaments are better in this sense, such as tile, wood, or even the flatter indoor-outdoor carpeting (but that too can still be a problem).

I can't resist the temptation to suggest that if all else fails you could always wear a chain and drag it along as gasoline trucks do to prevent static electricity and the possibility of an explosion. It would be a real conversation piece.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been told by friends that two foods, almonds and saccharin, can cause cancer. One person told me that if you eat two almonds a day you will inevitably get cancer. This sounds ridiculous. How reliable are these rumors?

DEAR READER — As far as almonds go, the statement is completely wild. There is no truth in it at all.

Saccharin is another story. There is some evidence that large amounts of saccharin may cause bladder tumors. In fact, it may have been the saccharin and not the cyclamates that caused the problems in rats that led to the banning of cyclamates in the country. I suspect the saccharin has been left on the market because the government didn't want to rush headlong into another decision without all the facts, as occured with the cyclamate mess.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb in care of The Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on ulcers, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Ulcers" booklet.

Kidnap or execution victims

SLA had target list of 14

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) —The names of 14 San Francisco area business executives appear on lists of potential kidnap or execution targets of the Symbionese Liberation Army, police sources said Thursday.

The names were included in SLA documents seized in January in homes of suspected SLA members.

Two of hte names were found in a Concord, Calif., bungalow which was set afire a few hours after the arrests in the area of Joseph Remiro and Russell Little, SLA "soldiers" later indicted for the assassination of Oakland school superintendent Marcus Foster.

The other names were discovered in the Oakland apartment of William and Emily Harris, an Oakland couple who vanished the morning of the Concord fire leaving their belongings behind. Warrants for the Harrises were issued Wednesday, accusing them of perjury on drivers license applications.

Persons on the list generally were wealthy business executives but most were not publicly prominent. Two documents contained this paragraph:

"This attack is to serve notice on this corporation and its divisions, its subsidiaries and its executives that they have been found guilty of supporting the murder, oppression and robbery of the people of the world."

Most of the targets were not warned by police until after the Feb. 4 kidnaping of Patricia Hearst when, some of the potential victims said, police began taking the SLA "seriously."

Among others listed were a distribution executive of Colgate-Palmolive, a Standard Oil director, a University of California regent, the board chairman of Safeway Stores, a Bank of America executive, two men connected with ITT and at least two men now retired.

Virgil Waters, executive director of the Industry manufacturers Council, was master of ceremonies.

Minority aides to address counseling unit

WEST COVINA — Representatives from black and Mexican-American ethnic groups will speak at a meeting of the San Gabriel Valley Chapter of the California Association of Marriage and Family Counselors Sunday.

The meeting will be held in the Community Room of the Home Federal Savings and Loan Building, 1400 W. Service Ave. from 2 to 4 p.m.

The speakers will be Jewel Otis, executive director of Job Resources and Educational Center, Inc., Monrovia, and Christine Flores, a counselor with Community Concern Corp., Los Angeles.

Arline Steiner, a retired Pomona school teacher, is chapter president. Chapter members meet the third Sunday of each month in the Community Room. They will sponsor a seminar May 18-19 at Cal State Los Angeles on "The Violent and the Victim," and another in September on "Counseling the Handicapped."

Their meetings and seminars are open to the public and to students and interns entering the field.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED ABANDONMENT OF A PORTION OF TORITO LANE IN THE VICINITY OF DIAMOND BAR IN THE FIRST SUPERVISORIAL DISTRICT

Notice is hereby given that a Resolution of Intention and Order was adopted by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles on April 9, 1974, declaring its intention to abandon a portion of Torito Lane on the turnaround beginning at a point approximately 510 ft. northwesterly of Golden Springs Road in the vicinity of Diamond Bar, in the First Supervisorial District, as described in Exhibit "A", attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference.

EXHIBIT "A"

That portion of Torito Lane, in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, as shown on map filed in Book 27, page 88, of Parcel Maps, in the office of the Recorder of said County, within the following described boundaries:

Commencing at the southwesterly terminus of that certain course of North 56°40'00" East in the center line of said Torito Lane, as said center line is shown on said map; thence North 56°40'00" East along said certain course 2.50 feet; thence North 33°20'00" West 32.50 feet to a point, said point being a point on a curve concave to the south and having a radius of 32.5 feet, a radial of said curve to said point bears North 33°20'00" West; thence southwesterly and southerly along said curve to a point in the northeasterly prolongation of that certain course of North 56°40'20" East 4.03 feet in the northwesterly boundary of said Torito Lane, said last mentioned point being the true point of beginning; thence northerly, northeasterly, easterly, southeasterly and southerly along said curve to the beginning of a reverse curve concave to the east and having a radius of 34.85 feet, said reverse curve being tangent at the south-easterly terminus thereof to the northwesterly prolongation of that certain course of North 33°20'00" West 188.68 feet in the northeasterly boundary of said Torito Lane; thence southerly along said reverse curve to said northwesterly prolongation; thence southeasterly along said northwesterly prolongation to said northeasterly boundary; thence northwesterly, northerly, westerly, southwesterly and southerly along the northeasterly, easterly, northerly, northwesterly and westerly boundaries of said Torito Lane to the northeasterly terminus of said certain course of North 56°40'20" East 4.03 feet; thence northeasterly along said northeasterly prolongation to said true point of beginning.

A hearing on the proposed abandonment will be held in the Hearing Room of the Board of Supervisors, Room 381 Hall of Administration, 500 West Temple Street, (corner Temple Street and Grand Avenue), Los Angeles, California 90012 on THURSDAY, May 9, 1974, at 9:30 o'clock a.m.

Cultural awareness training slated in school district

POMONA — Teachers and administrators in Pomona public schools are being asked to complete a minimum of 60 hours' inservice training in minority cultural awareness within the next two years to comply with new state legislation.

The legislation requires that certificated personnel in districts where there is more than a 25 per cent minority enrollment complete inservice training in the history, culture and current problems of the minorities.

Pomona has a 25.18 per cent black enrollment at the elementary level, and a 28.76 per cent black enrollment at the secondary level. It has a 22.66 per cent enrollment of Spanish surnamed students at the elementary level and a 19.95 per cent enrollment of Spanish surnamed students at the secondary level, according to statistics presented at the school board meeting Tuesday night.

"It is the professional responsibility of the certificated staff—both teachers and administrators—to participate in the inservice training," said Sidney G. Moses, assistant superintendent of educational services.

Moses said any part of the required training completed by a teacher or administrator within the past four years would be acceptable and counted towards his or her 60 hours.

There are approximately 840 teachers and 65 administrators in Pomona schools.

At Tuesday's meeting, the board unanimously adopted a cultural awareness inservice program written in the district which details courses and programs acceptable.

Listed were after-school sessions during the regular work day, independent study plans which are approved by a school term and the Office of Intergroup Education, college or university courses, community work experience with minority organizations, and after school, evening, Saturday or summer paid inservice, such as that normally scheduled for the Comp Ed school staffs.

Five "philosophical" goals were stated. They were "to achieve the worth and dignity of each individual, to achieve respect for each individual, to achieve freedom for each individual to the extent that it does not deprive another of his freedom or human rights, to achieve an opportunity for equality in education for each individual."

Six additional goals were stated, based on "our changing student enrollment and district programming with a multi-cultural emphasis."

They were to facilitate dynamic, meaningful communication in the district, to improve communication skill, to develop interpersonal and intrapersonal mutual respect of staff, students, and community through communication and personal contact.

Also, to present accurate information regarding the accomplishments of all races, all peoples, all nations; to provide opportunities designed to develop awareness of feelings, attitudes and behaviors concerning groups that have been labeled minorities and to provide opportunities for positive change, as appropriate, in those feelings, attitudes and behaviors.

Also, to facilitate training designed to help people define their real problems and then to work out and facilitate their own plans for solutions.

The program adopted states that all training courses must be equal to 15 hours per credit unit, and while 60 hours is the minimum, there is an option of 30 additional hours.

Each school is to organize an educational team which will work in conjunction with the district's representative to evaluate courses taken.

The teachers and administrators have from July until July of 1976 to complete the training.

MSAC receives salary increase proposals ranging from 12 to 16%

By BOB NAGEY
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — Salary increases ranging from 12 to 16.3 per cent were sought Thursday by employes of the Mt. San Antonio College District.

The requests were taken under study by the college's board of trustees with some counter offer expected next month.

The 16.3 per cent raise was asked by the California School Employes Association, whose chapter president, James Graves, estimated that the cost of living by the end of June would rise that much over the corresponding period of last year.

He said that if the board approves the request, then "we can maintain our present standard of living."

The request was higher than the 12 per cent recommended for the district's classified employes by Eugene Curl, assistant business manager of the district. He said Department of Labor statistics show the cost of living in the metropolitan Los Angeles area rose 10.9 per cent during the past eight months.

Curl also asked for more fringe benefits and a better formula by which to tie the salaries to the cost of living index.

Also seeking 12 per cent raises were the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, the college's office and clerical staff, and the teaching staff.

The instructors, in seeking the pay increases, asked the board to boost minimum salaries from $10,180 to $11,460, and maximum salaries from $19,840 to $22,170 for their 10-month year.

The teachers also asked for comparable increases for evening instructors and the summer school staff.

The SCME, in seeking the 12 per cent raise, asked the board to grant 6 per cent of the total as a lump amount across the board to all employes, and the rest as a percentage increase.

The school employes association, with a membership of 130, is the largest classified group. The SCME has 39 members and the office workers group represents 63 persons.

The certificated employes were represented by the Mt. San Antonio College Faculty Association.

FROG GOES A-WOOING

Giant frog (Mark Klopfenstein) from the Mt. San Antonio College children's theater group, gets a hug from 10-year-old Elsie Doran while 6-year-old Meri Doran offers him a kiss, and Gloria Thomas looks on. The frog will be performing in the second annual Children's Theater Festival to be held on the Cal Poly campus from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Fourteen professional, amateur and college theater companies will present shows at various locations on campus during the festival.

Home-study student is ill so school clears account

I enrolled in a home study course, making a down payment of $40.

Then I had an accident which totaled my car. I developed a nervous condition and can't keep any one thing on my mind for long at a time.

I write to the school telling what happened and asking that my course be canceled as I had completed only one lesson.

The school has billed me for $253.75. I cannot hold a job half the time and live alone with no other support than what I earn.

I don't know what I could possible owe $253.75 for. Please help. — K.P., Pomona.

M. Liegl, student service manager, informed us that you enrolled with International Accountants Society for the home study course on Feb. 17, 1973.

You submitted one assignment, which was returned to you with a grade of 'A".

When you wrote to the society telling of your accident, you were asked to submit a doctor's statement giving full details so that the school could evaluate the amount due upon termination.

You didn't reply, according to Liegl, so International Accountants Society canceled your program and advised you that $293.75 was due according to the terms of your contract. This amount, less your down payment of $40 left a balance of $253.75.

Because you have indicated you are suffering from a nervous condition and acquiring a doctor's statement might cause you additional mental strain, International Accountants Society is waiving the requirement for a doctor's statement and canceling your program with no further obligation. The society said you would be welcomed as a student if you are able to reenroll in the future.

I wonder what can be done to improve the service of the Humane Society by putting on extra men for the hours after the office closes.

As you know, the law clearly states dogs should not run loose but this apparently only applies to the hours 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Our lawns are fouled each night by neighborhood dogs who are allowed to roam.

I would think the fines collected from the people who disregard the law would pay for a night crew to police the city.

Anyway, I'm asking Action Line to see that there is a little less action on my lawn. — A.P., Pomona.

The Humane Society of Pomona Valley, Inc., regularly operates a patrol until 11 p.m., answers emergency complaints during the rest of the night, and has another patrol beginning about 5:30 a.m.

They also patrolled your area during the night and early morning hours through a four-night period, including a patrol around 2:30 a.m.

Officer Dean Balduc reported that in all the times he patrolled your neighborhood, he saw only one dog on the street and it was at the end of a leash and under control of a man.

The trap caught no dogs but it did catch one cat on each of three consecutive nights. Each time the cat was released.

Officers reported many cats roaming the neighborhood. Two were seen pulling trash from the top of a trash can two doors away from your house. The officers think it may responsible for your lawn problem.

Can you please give me the address of Bevis Industries? I want to write to the company about some faulty merchandise. —Mrs. B.B., Pomona.

The Pomona library reference department found a New York address for the company. You told us the object of your do-it-yourself consumer complaint effort is a weighted jump rope. Hop to it, with our blessings.

Model U.N. has 11 from Cal Poly

POMONA — Eleven Cal Poly students are representing the People's Republic of South Yemen in the annual National Model United Nations conference through Sunday in New York City.

While the university has had a model United Nations in past years, this is the first year the contingent is participating in the national meeting.

Students representing the university include Jerry L. Morris of Upland, delegation chairman; Wendy Scott, Diana Curtis, Penny Glasgow, Dave Schnitzer and Jose Marcus, all of Pomona; Thomas Pruitt, Patty McKniff and Eileen Schulte, all of Covina; Donna Stone of Claremont; and George Rodriguez of Walnut.

TV Week features Grand Ole Opry

"County Comes Home," a Friday night NBC special saluting the Grand Ole Opry, is the cover close-up subject of this Sunday's Progress-Bulletin supplement, TV Week. The 10 p.m. musical salute will feature Johnny Cash, Loretta Lynn, Charlie Rich and the Earl Scruggs Revue.

Cal Poly forum will probe solutions to energy crisis

POMONA — A forum discussion stressing the future possibilities and solutions to the energy crisis will be presented Tuesday from 9 a.m to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m. in the Cal Poly theater.

Participants, who will give short presentations, include Barna S. Szabo, chief deputy supervisor, Los Angeles County Fourth District; Dr. W. H. Chillingar, professor of petroleum engineering at USC; Alan Tratner, Citizens' Foundation for Alternate Energy; James Cermak, associate professor of energy and kinetics at UCLA; and Edward A. Myers Jr., vice president of Southern California Edison Co.

The meeting, open to the public at no charge, is sponsored by the Cal Poly chapter of Tau Beta Pi national engineering honor society in cooperation with the Associated Students, Inc.

POMONA — Sacred Heart Athletic Club has been given a one-year extension on its agreement with Pomona school district to use the gym of the old Fremont Junior High School as a meeting place and training headquarters.

Schools Supt. Robert E. Wentz told the school board this week that Mayor Ray Lepire, Councilman Ben Ochoa, City Administrator Gerry Gonce and club officials were in agreement that the club needs a permanent facility.

Wentz said the City Council had agreed to assist the club in applying for a federal or state grant which would allow it to purchase or build a permanent structure suitable for its programs.

The club first occupied the old gym on May 25, 1971, under a year agreement with the school district. In February, district administrators recommended that it be asked to leave, citing district need of warehouse space as the reason.

The school board failed to accept the recommendation and called for meetings with City Council to attempt to find a solution to the problem.

Council proclaims four weeks in one

POMONA — The City Council issued proclamations celebrating four events next week.

The events are Mt. San Antonio College Day on Sunday, Realtor Week, Secretaries Week and Youth Temperance Education Week, all from Sunday through Saturday.

One of the proclamations urged citizens to join with the Pomona-Claremont Woman's Christian Temperance Union in the observance of programs on the harmful effects on the human system caused by alcohol, tobacco, narcotics, hallucinatory and other dangerous drugs.

Parking meters removed from downtown lot

POMONA — A change in the parking limit at the parking lot at the southwest corner of Third and Main streets went into effect today.

The rate there of 25 cents for all-day parking was replaced by free parking with a two hour limit. Removal of parking meter heads and installation of new signs were made by city crewmen Thursday.

The changes were authorized with the approval of the City Council of a resolution of commissioners of Vehicle Parking District No. 3.

The resolution says the changes were necessary because of a parking problem in the general vicinity of Third and Thomas.

In a letter to the council, Richard E. Abblitt, district chairman, said it appeared that a lot just south of Great Western Savings and Loan fills up early in the morning, eliminating adequate parking for customers.

He said the southwest lot was being used only by about three cars a day, bringing in 75 cents in revenue daily for the entire lot.

General Motors show visits Pomona schools

Nine local junior high schools have been getting a peek into the future with Previews of Progress, General Motors national assembly program, appearing at their campuses.

The Programs concluded in this area at Emerson Junior High in Pomona at 1 p.m. and 2 p.m. today.

The noncommercial show is midway through a 35-school appearance schedule in the southland.

The program seeks to inspire more student interest in science, engineering, and related vocational careers. It is presented live and narrated in nontechnical language by a two-man team.

Previews of Progress demonstrations depict work being done today in America's research laboratories and point out contributions of research to modern living. Highlighted in the program are two energy conversion techniques involving fuel cells and solar cells.

Fuel cells convert chemical energy into electical power and solar cells change sunlight into usable energy. Students also were shown recent developments aimed at solving water and air-pollution problems. Another demonstration uses a laser beam to translate sounds into visual patterns of light.

All in all, the students saw nine separate examples of research-in-action.

Imagine Siberia a tourist trap

With little fanfare, the inaugural flight of a new weekly service between Washington, D.C., and Moscow took off the other day from Dulles International Airport.

Aboard the IL-62 turbojet, flagship of Aeroflot, the Soviet airline, were American travel writers, legislators and other VIPS invited to sample the tourist attractions of the Soviet Union and to discover firsthand whether the Russians are serious about this business of "detente" — not just on a government-to-government level but a people-to people one.

They apparently are, judging from statements by Aeroflot, which up to now has been restricted to operating only from New York. An official expressed hope that the new Washington-Moscow service would present the opportunity of discovering the "unknown" Soviet Union to a wider segment of the U.S. travel public.

"There is much more to the Soviet Union that American tourists should be aware of," said an Aeroflot spokesman in good old American public-relationsese. "In addition to the cultural, historic and leisure appeal of our large cities such as Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev, we think Americans will be pleasantly surprised by the subtropical climate and lush, tranquil beauty of our Black Sea Coast."

He went on to describe "fairylike winters with bright sunshine, sparkling snowflakes and dry frost, more bearable than the bone-chilling dampness of winters in the north-eastern U.S." Still waiting to be discovered "are ski and winter resorts, which should have a special appeal to active sports enthusiasts."

If you're enthusiastic enough, you can book a round-trip, first-class seat for $1,117. Economy fares will range from $836 in the fall and winter to $1,034 during the peak spring and summer months.

To make you even more enthusiastic, Paris, the one stop on the flight, is thrown in as a "bonus."

Tourism, like every other aspect of international dealings, is a two-way street, of course. After all, restrictions on travel by Russians in this country have only been in response to similar restrictions on Americans in Russia.

Said the same Aeroflot official: "We hope that the sight of Americans strolling beside the Moscow River eating blini and Russian visitors eating hot dogs along the banks of the Potomac will be commonplace rather than a rarity."

Yet one wonders if they realize what they could be starting. Russians strolling along the Potomac will absorb a lot more of the American way of life than wieners and buns. And American rubber neckers in Moscow or Leningrad or elsewhere, with their free and easy manners, will leave as much an impression on the Russians they meet as they will take away with them.

All eyes have been on the SALT nuclear arms limitations talks in Geneva and the peregrinations of Secretary of State Kissinger and his grave deliberations with Kremlin officials.

The real thing to watch for signs of the future shape of U.S.-Soviet relations may actually be the success of this attempt by the Soviet Union to introduce the hot dog lovers to the blini eaters.

Percy who?

The front running, although officially unannounced, candidates for the Republican presidential nomination in 1976 are, of course, Vice President Gerald Ford, Governor Ronald Reagan and former New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller.

If you ask "Percy who?" you are not alone. Charles Percy, U.S. Senator from Illinois, is not exactly a household name nationwide, even though he out-polled Richard Nixon while winning a second term in the Republican landslide year of 1972.

Percy is personable, if not dynamic. A youngish 54 he is moderately liberal. Although he has been told bluntly by GOP bigwigs that no one really is taking his bid seriously, he hopes that whatever happens to Nixon by 1976 the Republicans—and the country—will want a fresh, untainted new figure in the White House. Another Ike Eisenhower.

Unfortunately for Percy he has no world-endearing war record to open people's hearts as Ike did. Nor, say those who know him does he come over with the Eisenhower or Kennedy charismatic effect.

Politics, however, is among other things the art of the possible. And Senator Percy is seriously, studiously, dedicatedly devoting himself to bucking the presidential nomination odds.

White House pressured Agnew

WASHINGTON — Spiro Agnew grimly told aides after his abdication last October that the White House had brought "terrible" pressures on him to give up the vice presidency.

The White House feared he would lose his fight to stay in office, said Agnew, thereby setting a bad precedent for President Nixon's own struggle against impeachment. Agnew felt compelled to resign in exchange for a deal to keep out of jail.

Only a few hours after the high drama in a Baltimore courtroom, we have now learned, he discussed his action individually with trusted aides.

"There are things you don't know about and pressures that were brought on me that you may never know about," he told one aide, who has now recounted the conversation to us.

To another aide, Agnew described the White House as "ruthless" and the pressure it brought on him as "terrible."

What pressures? For one, the White House staff chief, Alexander Haig, had called Agnew's top aide, Art Sohmer, and had warned brutally that the Vice President could end up behind bars if he continued his fighting tactics.

But the Agnew aides were familiar with this incident; they knew the President was maneuvering to ease their man out. What, then, were the terrible, unknown pressures?

One former aide told us he had learned from Agnew's Secret Service bodyguards that the pressures were "personal." Another former aide said he "understood" that Agnew wanted to protect his family from embarrassing revelations.

They report that "several witnesses had volunteered very damaging information about aspects of Agnew's personal life." These findings, they assert, were "ruled out of bounds" by the prosecutors.

The suppressed statements to the prosecutors, we have learned, dealt with allegations that a Maryland contractor had provided Agnew with a call girl in exchange for government favors.

Agnew told us that the call girl charge was "laughable" and "ridiculous," and played no part in his decision to resign as Vice President. He knew who had told the prosecutors these stories, he said, and the contractor was a "congenital liar . . . , a wild man."

Agnew said he had told his wife all about the sex charges and, therefore, any threat to reveal these charges couldn't possibly have been used as a weapon against him.

Another story linked Agnew with a friend of Blaze Starr, the famed, fiery burlesque queen. She acknowledged to us that Agnew was a "steady customer" at her Baltimore strip joint, the Two O'Clock Club, during his county executive days. But she recalls him as a quiet man who sat in a corner, minding his own business.

FOOTNOTE: We obtained a draft copy of an autobiography Blaze Starr is writing for the Praeger publishing house. She doesn't mention Agnew, but recounts a romantic interlude with Philadelphia's law-and-order Mayor Frank Rizzo.

According to her account, she met Rizzo about 20 years ago when he was a police captain. He arrested her, she related, for her "Panther Woman" strip act in Philadelphia. This led eventually to a rendezvous with Rizzo in the apartment of one of his friends, she wrote. For awhile thereafter, she met him frequently.

Reached at his office in Philadelphia, Mayor Rizzo fumed that the story "absolutely is not true . . .All I ever did to her was arrest her."

The publishers told us that they gave Blaze Starr a lie detector test about the Rizzo revelations before accepting her manuscript. She passed the test completely, they said.

In contrast, the mayor made news recently when he offered to take a lie detector test about an alleged pay-off and then failed the test.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: President Nixon identifies more and more lately with people who fight against the odds. During a recent White House discussion on the Middle East, according to the secret minutes, he suddenly blurted: "I admire those Israelis. They've got guts. How they will fight!" . . . House Speaker Carl Albert advised us privately to disregard speculation about how the House will vote on President Nixon's impeachment. Albert said he was convinced from cloakroom conversations that the majority are waiting for the House Judiciary Committee to lay out the evidence . . .

Sources close to the impeachment inquiry say the grand jury evidence which was delivered to the committee in such great secrecy, contains little new material. But the compilation of all the existing evidence, say our sources, adds up to a "devastating case against the President"

MYSTERY CONGRESSMAN: Attorney General William Saxbe titillated reporters recently by telling them about a mystery congressman who came to him seeking clearance for Jimmy Hoffa to engage in Teamsters Union politics.

We have now been able to identify Hoffa's mysterious errand boy as Rep. Larry Williams, R-Pa. Our sources say Williams not only approached Saxbe but buttonholed President Nixon at a White House party.

The irrepressible Hoffa, whose prison sentence for jury tampering was commuted by the President, is eager to regain his old post as Teamsters chief. The government claims his presidential pardon bars him from involvement in Teamsters politics, but Hoffa insists that it became unconditional after March 10, 1973.

To press Hoffa's case, Williams sought an appointment on Feb. 4 with Saxbe and showed up with a Hoffa ally, Al Cohen. Earlier, Williams twice cornered President Nixon and talked to him about Hoffa at a Christmas party. Sources with direct knowledge of the incident tell us that, the second time, the President told Williams with some irritation: "Larry, I got your message."

Reinecke dealt a body blow

California's gubernatorial contest continues to get curiouser.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke has been indicted on three counts of perjury by a Watergate grand jury in Washington D.C.

Reinecke says:

"I am innocent."

"I will not plead guilty."

"There will be no plea bargaining."

"I intend to fight this action."

The heck of it is that innocent or guilty Reinecke's gubernatorial campaign has been dealt a body blow. In this era of hysteria the "innocent until proven guilty" thesis isn't given much weight and a great number of California voters are going to start looking for someone else to support.

The indictment sword has been hanging over the Lt. Governor's head for quite some time. Before Reinecke filed for the Republican nomination for governor he had travelled to Washington, D.C., in February trying to get "official clearance of my name" from special prosecutor Leon Jaworski. He did not get any answer.

Just a few weeks ago in a further attempt to get the cloud off his head Reinecke, at his own request, was able to get the FBI to give him a two-day lie detector test on the subject matter. He emerged from that session saying that he was innocent of any wrong-doing. Results of the test were not made public by the FBI or Jaworski.

When the indictments were handed down, Reinecke said:

"The special prosecutor's office '. . . have said they have no witnesses, no evidence, no information or material, except that which I myself turned over to them.

"I have given total cooperation on a totally voluntary basis because I have nothing to hide. I have waived my client-attorney privileges. I have answered every question and I have turned over all my files and records.

"I find this decision shocking, incredible and unbelievable in terms of fairness to the special prosecutor's office . . ."

Reinecke concluded, "I am in the gubernatorial race to stay. I will win the June primary, and I will win the November general election."

LETTERS FROM P-B READERS

Guilty?

President Nixon has been accused of so many crimes, we wonder just what specific charges will be made. Possibly, the hearings will be in the nature of a kangaroo court, where the niceties of law are not so important. Presumably, if it can be established he was even aware of skulduggery, it will be sufficient to convict.

Which places us all in jeopardy. We hear of some crime from the media.They have their favorites, whose errancies they love to bring to light. We can hardly be unaware of other crime, popular as it is today. Do we thereby become a party thereof? How can we protect ourselves?

We nailed Christ to the cross. Here, we see the same mob hysteria, where even Nixon's best friends dare not put in a good word for him.

What has happened to law and order? Where is our Christianity?

Crime is too often in the eyes of the beholder. Unions do not feel constrained in buying an election, although they deplore the practice in others. Zealots in the National Council of Churches have been known to divert welfare funds from food for the world's hungry to guns for the African insurgents. — Ray O. Swanson, Pomona.

Pet pup returned

Many thanks to the Progress-Bulletin and the Pomona Humane Society for my not having to run a "found" advertisement over the holiday weekend.

Because of the genuine concern of Florence in the classified advertising department and a kind young lady at the Humane Society, "Chrisma" the Samoyed pup joyfully returned to her owner less than 24 hours after her unscheduled trip across town, and my "Found" ad was cheerfully cancelled.

It is such a pleasure to find people more interested in the welfare of others than in executing red tape and extracting money! — Carolyn J. Therrio, Claremont.

Gossip for today

Today, when a fellow takes his girl for a ride and a few miles down the road insists the gas tank is empty, he is probably telling the truth.

Only 30 years ago (To some of us it seems like only yesterday.) you could mail a letter anywhere in the United States for only 2 cents.

Once, according to a popular song, we fought a war to make sure that someday the lights would go on again all over the world. Today we are still desperately trying to live up to that promise, but a good start has now been made. Once again, on a week end basis, the lights are shining on the Las Vegas Strip.

When our children were babies we could hardly wait until they learned to talk. Now we scream to high heaven because they won't keep their mouths shut.

And just try to tell the politically oriented youth of today that "Poor Richard's Almanac" was written by Benjamin Franklin.

Finally, if the truth must be told, isn't it surprising how eventually we all arrive at that age when we know what to do but don't feel like doing it?

RAY CROMLEY

Does Yugoslavia play both sides?

WASHINGTON — U.S. analysts were amazed at the effectiveness of Soviet weapons tested in last fall's Arab-Israeli war. But what has shocked them more is the discovery that essential components of some of the most advanced Red weapons systems clearly reached Russian designers through a series of U.S. and West European security leaks.

This discovery serves as a most worrisome portent for our future safety. The Russian buildup of recent years makes effective U.S. defense dependent on staying comfortably ahead technologically, a lead which cannot be maintained if the Russians have ready access to our latest discoveries.

Ironically, the leaks were not developed through the ingenuity of Russian agents. Rather, the critical new devices were virtually handed the Russians for free as a result of major mistakes by analysts of East European countries and because of some wishful Washington thinking as to what motivates the leaders of Yugoslavia and other East European nations.

To understand the problem, we must go back roughly two decades to when the Yugoslavs "broke" with the USSR, and the United States thereupon began a daring experiment in foreign aid.

The resulting U.S. support of Yugoslavia has since burgeoned into billions of dollars of direct and indirect assistance. The United States has gone so far as to train Yugoslav pilots and other military officers and technicians. And with the blessings of the State Department and the Pentagon, American companies have delivered the Yugoslavs advanced protytype weapons banned for sale to the Russians and Chinese.

The theory was that nationalism is stronger than communism, and that if it came to a showdown, the Yugosavs would put their own interests before those of Moscow and would resist Russian aggression.

In the shaky world of these past two decades, this seemed a sound investment to both American conservatives and liberals. A conservative hardliner, in fact, conceived the program.

Recently, however, a sense of shock has spread through those Communist watchers who deal with the most sensitive of technical material. Convincing evidence is now at hand that Yugoslavia is serving as a conduit through which Moscow secures Western military secrets. As a result, at least one U.S. firm has recently cancelled a highly profitable deal with the Yugoslavs and another has refused any business with them.

The Yugoslavs have made much of their "defiance" of the Russians and their role as a leader of the "neutralist" nations. After the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia, the Yugoslavs reorganized their forces, set up an area defense system, and ordered local troops to continue fighting as guerrillas if Russia should capture the country and force the central government to declare resistance at an end. Marshall Tito himself told Americans this reorganization was intended to insure Yugoslavia would not suffer the fate of East Germany, Hungary and Czechoslovakia at Russian hands.

The Yugoslavs have been furnished with a variety of weapons of types needed by a small country if it is to effectively resist aggression by a large neighbor. Some of the weapons systems and equipment were so advanced that in the hands of determined men they could make a Soviet invasion exceedingly costly — perhaps prohibitively so.

In all this, it was essential for Yugoslav defense to make certain these weapons and this equipment did not fall into Russian hands.

What has been discovered however, is that before the ink was dry on the contracts, these secret arms and equipment essential, remember, to Yugoslav defense, were in the hands of the Russians. Some of this equipment came from the U.S., some from the Netherlands, Britain and Canada. Because of the circumstances surrounding these deals, it is certain this delivery to the Russians was made by Yugoslavs acting officially; the theft was not by some Soviet agent stealing for pay.

A new assessment of the Yugoslav role in Western defense strategy is now being made.

Walnut teachers top 14.2% pay hike bid with variety of fringe requests

WALNUT — Various fringe benefit improvements—on top of a 14.2 per cent salary increase—have been requested by Walnut teachers, in presentations to school trustees.

In addition to salary boosts which would cost $426,000 for the district's 220 teachers, Certificated Employe Council (CEC) spokesmen have called for these improvements:

—Specifying no dollar amount limit on medical and dental insurance preminums. Presently, there is an $839.50 limit per employe and dependents, and further increases require board approval.

—Teachers assaulted at work should receive indefinite sick leave until recovery. Present policy calls for only a certain number of sick days off, and then pay based on the difference between a teacher and his substitute's salaries.

—A fully-paid income protection plan.

—Reduction of the teacher-student ratio from 28 to 1 to 22 to 1, gradually.

—Reducing the steps on the salary schedule to 10, from the present 12, providing teachers an opportunity to "get to the top" quicker.

—Adding two more steps to the new "condensed" salary schedule, in the most advanced educational column.

—That experience from outside the district be counted towards longevity bonsues granted after 15 years' service.

—One more day off next year, reducing the number of school days to the 175 required by law. It would provide for a holiday the day after Memorial Day.

In other business, trustees received a report on steps being taken to relieve expected pupil housing problems next year at Walnut and Vejar elementary schools.

Supt. David Brown said space will be needed for about 180 to 200 youngsters which presently is not available at the two schools, based on projected enrollment for 1974-75.

Brown proposed that four sixth grade classes continue to be housed at Walnut High School, as they are this year. In addition, three portable classrooms should be rented, and placed at Vejar and Walnut High to provide more space, he said.

The moves, thus, would avoid double sessions at Vejar in fourth to sixth grades, and not place "all the burden" on Walnut High to house the six additional classes, Brown added.

Cost to the district—for renting the portable and administrative costs—would be around $30,000, he stated. No board action was taken, however, and officials indicated it will be considered later.

In other action, trustees approved a milk price increase for seven district schools, amounting to one cent on half-pints (now 8 cents) and a cent on one-third quart cartons (now 9 cents), effective Monday. It was necessary, administrators said, to offset previous losses and "at least break even on milk sales."

Young woman 510th Golden Gate victim

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A young woman became the 510th known suicide from the Golden Gate Bridge Tuesday when she leaped from the span moments after a friend telephoned authorities to warn she was going to kill herself.

The California Highway Patrol said the body of Adrienne L. Brown, 21, of San Anselmo, Calif., washed up on shore. Officers said she did not leave a note.

South's fast one is legit

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There is nothing wrong about swindling your opponents provided you do it honestly. Thus, you are not supposed to hesitate when you have no problem, but there is no stigma attached to fast play, when you do have some sort of problem.

South did have a problem about his six-diamond contract. What was he going to do about the two missing aces?

Opening lead—♥Q

Obviously, they were split, but how could he keep the man who held the ace of trumps from leading a spade?

It looked almost hopeless, but South figured out an honest swindle that just might work if West held the ace of trumps and jack of spades.

He proceeded to discard his six of clubs on one good heart and the queen of clubs on the other one. Then he led a trump.

West won the ace and decided that East was marked with four clubs to the ace. In that case if East also held the spade king, a spade lead would allow South to play dummy's 10 and avoid the loss of a spade trick. So West led a third heart and South was able to discard his three spades on dummy's clubs.

The American consumer is beginning to understand the need for functional cars that are clean, economical, and make environmental sense.

Introducing The Peugeot Diesel.

Introducing
the car that got 37.3 miles per gallon on a coast-to-coast economy run.

Introducing

Introducing
the engine that requires no emissions control devices.

Introducing
the sedan that costs about $2,500 less than the other Diesel.

Introducing The Next Car.

The Peugeot experience with the Diesel stretches all the way back to 1923. We are the largest manufacturer of Diesel passenger cars in the world, building more Diesel automobiles longer than any other company. But up to now, in the United States, people who were advocating Diesels took on the quality of doomsday prophets. Here was a car with an engine that, from the very beginning, offered a solution to problems of energy shortages and air pollution. Problems that until just recently were far off in the future. But the future is now. We are reminded of it daily by experiencing shortages that affect us personally. What we are asking for is an attitude of enlightenment by the American public.

We, at Peugeot, are committed to the idea that expressways are not showplaces for speed and cars are not a form of expensive toys. The time is right for a new set of habits. For looking at the automobile as a preventive measure to deal prudently with the issues of economy, energy and ecology.

Stephen F. Wilder, professional road test driver and automotive writer, reports on a cross-country economy run sponsored by Peugeot, October 1973:

"I drove the Peugeot sedan from Los Angeles to Boston, 3,077 miles through 14 states and averaged 37.3 miles per gallon. Most of the time, we drove at speeds ranging from 40 to 60 miles per hour. We averaged approximately 45 miles per hour." (Distance and fuel consumption documented by the General Environments Corporation of Springfield, Virginia, an independent laboratory specializing in automotive testing for industry and government.)

Road & Track, September 1973:

"The savings here result from the lack of an ignition system. With no spark plugs or points to change and no timing to set, about half the normal tuneup costs can be eliminated."

Popular Science, November 1973:

Motor Trend, September 1972:

Road & Track, September 1973:

"...the Peugeot 504 Diesel is a good Diesel car, rich in transportation value and economy of operation. If you're an environmentalist at heart, you might even find it exciting."

Introducing the only Diesel station wagon in America.

Training will stop rug-chewing habits

By Dr. Frank Miller

DEAR DR. MILLER: Lassie, our Sheltie, is a very smart but very spoiled dog. She has gotten into this destructive habit of chewing up the rug to get even with us when we have to leave her home alone. Then one day my husband forgot to turn the TV off before we left and when we came home, voila! No new holes in the rug! There Lassie was, sitting in the living room watching TV, much too busy and engrossed to bother chewing. Needless to say, since then we leave her alone, we lave the television on for her to watch and it solved the entire problem. The rug has been safe since. Since most dog owners have television sets, too, I'm sure this tip will save a lot of rugs. — B. D.

COMMENT: In the case of some dogs, the TV technique could save furniture or portions of the house itself from the frustration-tantrum chewing syndrome. Other dogs may prefer a good radio program. Unfortunately, however, many frustrated canines aren't turned on by either medium. The other, more time-consuming, techniques of additional exercise and training are more likely to solve their problems.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Max has been our only "child" for seven years now. He was a baby rhesus moneky when we got him. I just read somewhere that humans can give a herpes virus to monkeys. I have never seen Max with anything on his lips but I break out with herpes on my lips quite often. Could he get it from me? — N.M.

Dear N. M.: Possibly he could. Simians are susceptible to many human viruses and vice versa but having had Max for that number of years would produce a reasonable sense of security in this regard. However, macques such as your Max may show lip and oral mucosa ulcers which could be caused by herpes B infection. This particular herpes doesn't usually cause great problems with the siminans, themselves, but it is particularly virulent for humans and can be easily transmitted from macque to man where it may migrate through nervous tissue into the brain with rapidly fatal results.

DEAR DR. MILLER: How soon after being born does a kitten have to nurse? — G. A.

Dear G. A.: Reserves of glycogen within the liver can keep newborn kittens alive for several hours. If they are not fed within 12 hours, however, they suffer fatal hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) and hypothermia (falling temperature).

Giants invade L.A.

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — It's the Dodgers and Giants in the renewal of baseball's biggest rivalry this weekend at Dodger Stadium but something is missing.

It will be the Giants all right in their visiting uniforms tonight but Dodger fans may not recognize some of the young kids in the San Francisco lineup.

Willie Mays has has been gone for some time now. Willie McCovey has already visited Dodger Stadium in a San Diego Padre uniform. Juan Marichal is now in the American League.

Who will Dodger fans boo now that Marichal has departed?

The Dodgers return home to open a 12-game homestand after a successful road trip. L.A. has jumped to a 2½ game lead in the National League West with an impressive 9-3 record climaxed by a two-game sweep in Cincinnati.

Don Sutton, who is already 3-0 this young season, will open the weekend series against Mike Caldwell (2-1), the young southpaw acquired from San Diego in the McCovey trade.

The Saturday and Sunday games will be under the sunshine at 1:15 p.m. Tommy John, also 3-0, will face Jim Willoughby on Saturday with Andy Messersmith (1-0) slated to go Sunday against rookie John D'Acquisto.

The Dodgers are hitting .301 as a team with third baseman Ron Cey leading the regulars with a .409 mark. Jim Wynn has supplied the power in taking the early lead in the National League with six home runs and 17 runs batted in. Steve Garvey has belted four homers while Cey has driven in 13 runs.

After a hot start at friendly Candlestick Park, the Giants have cooled down on the road. After losing two out of three at San Diego, the Giants dropped their first three at the Astrodome this week before snapping the streak with a 5-2 win Thursday night.

Manager Charlie Fox has a talented offensive team led by Bobby Bonds. But most baseball experts question whether the Giants have enough pitching to be a top contender in the West.

DODGER DATA — The Phillies, Expos and Mets will follow the Giants into Dodger Stadium in the next two weeks . . .

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Chicago Bulls rally that fell short left the Milwaukee Bucks "happy with two wins going back to Milwaukee" today for the third game of their National Basketball Association playoff series.

The Bucks had a 20-point lead in the third period and finally won 113-111 to take a 2-0 lead in games in their best-of-seven series. But the two-point difference in the final score didn't truly represent the difference between the teams as the Bulls scored four points in the final seven seconds to narrow the final gap.

"We couldn't put the ball in the ocean," Bucks Coach Larry Costello said, "and we gave them momentum. It's amazing how momentum can change. Almost unbelievable.

"They didn't give up. I don't know if Chicago can play any better than they played. But I'm happy with two wins going back to Milwaukee. I feel that pressure is really on them now because we play good at home and we feel we can win at home.

Bucks' superstar Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was the major cog in helping the Bucks seize their 20-point lead. He had 42 points for three quarters but in the fourth quarter, when the Bucks shooting turned cold, he netted only two points to wind up with 44, two below his personal record for a playoff game.

Jabbar netted 20 field goals in 29 tries and he pulled in 21 rebounds to keep the Bucks in control almost all the way.

He didn't get many chances in the last period because, Costello said, "We had other guys open for good shots and we just missed the open shots. Kareem played well, and it didn't seem like he had all those points."

Bulls Coach Dick Motta declared his team was "up against it now," because it must go to Milwaukee and play some basketball.

"We've got to click on all cylinders," he said. "Each of us has got to do a little more than we've been doing during the season. We've got to shoot better than our average and we've got to play a little better defense."

Motta said he believed his team was going to win the game when it pulled within three points of the Bucks in the last period, but he said, "I compliment them for holding their poise.

"We can't play much better than we did, but if we play that well in Milwaukee we'll win a game."

The third game of the series will be played Saturday afternoon on national television.

Singer faces A's tonight

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — The Angels, with a 6-4 record on their first homestand behind them, send Diamond Bar's Bill Singer (2-0) against Catfish Hunter of the World Champion Oakland Athletics tonight in the Alameda County Coliseum.

Right up to the end Thursday afternoon at Anaheim Stadium, the Angels thought they could come back and beat Minnesota.

But for the second time in three days they ran into Bill Campbell in a relief roll. The former Ganesha and Mt. San Antonio College player just about stopped the Halos cold in the last three innings to pick up his fourth save.

"Bleep," bleeped manager Bobby Winkles in the Angel clubhouse. "We really wanted that bleep of a bleep. We could go on the road in real good shape.

"We're still in good shape," he added. "but (at home) 6-4 isn't as good as 7-3. You know, in the ninth inning, we still had the feeling we were going to win. That Campbell is a good-looking pitcher. He was just wild enough today to be tough."

Called in with runners on first and second with nobody out in the seventh, Campbell gave up a single to Bob Oliver that brought in a run.

Oliver actually was fooled on the pitch, looking for a fastball and getting a slider instead. But the big third-baseman managed to get his bat on the ball anyway and pushed a short single scoring Bobby Valentine who had opened the inning with a double and moved to third on a wild pitch by former Angel Tom Burgmeier.

Campbell got Tom McCraw to ground to second baseman Rod Carew who threw to shortstop Sergio Ferrer at second to force Oliver. On the play, Frank Robinson, who had walked, took third.

Smart base running by McCraw got the Halos their second run. Lee Stanton grounded sharply to Carew but McCraw held up halfway between first and second forcing Carew to throw to first to nip the speedy Stanton.

Meanwhile Robinson had broken for the plate and was obviously going to beat any throw. First baseman Joe Lis had to fire the ball to second to try and get McCraw who was racing for the bag there.

Robby crossed the plate before McCraw was tagged out at second and the run counted. Although he had hit into a double play, Stanton was credited with a run batted in because of McCraw's fast thinking on the basepaths.

Over in the Twins' clubhouse Campbell came out of the shower and began to dress. "I was a starter in the minors," he said, "but I kind of like relieving now."

The slender (6-3, 185) righthander said he had three pitches, the fastball, slider and screwball. "I started throwing the screwball with Charlotte (N.C.) in 1972," he said."I only use it once in a while to throw hitters off stride."

Reminded that two of the game's premier relief pitchers, Mike Marshall and Jim Brewer of the Dodgers, rely on the scroogie, Campbell commented, "That Marshall is something else, his screwball is super. I'd give anything for one like that."

What he has must be pretty good. In 12 innings, Campbell has not allowed an earned run. He has struck out seven while walking three.

"For a young guy, Billy has a good disposition and a fine array of pitches," commented Twins' manager Frank Quillici. "He throws the ball from different angles and shows very little emotion."

How did the Twins come to settle on Campbell, a starting pitcher, as their top reliever? "We fell out of contention last August and went through the whole staff looking for a reliever," said Quilici. "We had a chance to bring Billy up. He was a little nervous as a starter and we tried him in relief."

The way things are going,Campbell may never get another chance to start, especially with good relievers at a premium.

ANGEL ANGLES — Frank Tanana (2-1) was not as sharp Thursday. Tanana labored from the beginning, but the game was scoreless until the young lefthander got a fastball high to number nine hitter Steve Brye in the sixth. The result was a three-run homer.

Bobby Valentine played second base in the ninth inning. It marked his first infield appearance in the regular season since May 12, last year. He made an error that day which he blames for all his problems. In a batting slump (0-for-15 and 1-for-24) Valentine was moved to the outfield where he broke his leg.

Attendance Thursday was 7,383 which was more than the Halos drew Wednesday night. The game was the first mid-week daytime contest since Sept. 11, 1969 when the Angels and Kansas City drew only 4,970.

In Women's sports programs

Turning point is reached

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — After a century of being "separate and clearly unequal," women in the University of California reached the "turning point "this year in intercollegiate athletics, a university report says.

The volumnious study of athletic programs throughout the multi-campus system, released Thursday, said that money, participation and opportunity all were increasing for sports-minded women.

However, the report said, "The separation between men's and women's athletics has remained. And most athletes, both men and women seem to want it that way."

Participation in intercollegiate athletics by women increased an average of 33 per cent this year at seven of the university's primary campuses, while the number of men increased an average of 7 per cent. Even stronger gains were listed for women in intramural sports and recreation club sports. And the number of women in physical activities classes surpassed enrollment by males.

Most of the increases were in female-only or coed sports. Rarely have women cracked normally all-male events or teams.

Sports budgets also reflected increasing attention towards women, the report said, with intercollegiate athletic spending for women up 78 per cent, compared to a 3 per cent drop in support for men's programs.

But in sheer numbers women lagged far behind men in virtually every area. Women accounted for only 1,054 of the 4,564 students in intercollegiate athletic programs. Identifiable expenditures for women totalled a mere $138,824 out of an intercollegiate athletic budget this year of $6.1 million.

The Berkeley campus, as one example, showed a dramatic 770 per increase in financing for women's intercollegiate programs, from $5,000 last year to $42,500. Men, on the other hand, were budgeted $2.1 million.

"This year, however, appears to be the turning point for women's intercollegiate programs," said the report.

"Recently the growth of the women's movement and the emergence of nationally prominent women athletes have focused national attention on women's sports."

Noting that "the 100-year history of intercollegiate athletics for men and women can best be described, at this point, as separate and clearly unequal," the report claimed several "obstacles" stood in the way of equalizing sports programs between sexes.

It said there were inadequate facilities for women, that women's sports bring in no income to support programs and that one of the biggest athletic expenses is the high cost of male-oriented football.

It also said there was a fundamental hesitation by many women to try out for sports because of "traditional male-female roles, lack of athletic training and unequal skills."

Bill Shoemaker gets suspended

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Jockey Bill Shoemaker, the alltime leading rider with 6,633 triumphs, was handed a five-day suspension Thursday for careless riding by the Hollywood Park Board of Stewards.

Shoemaker's suspension begins Sunday and runs through April 26.

He was cited for failure to make the proper effort to maintain a straight course, causing interference through the stretch while aboard Mirlivam in the ninth race at Hollywood Wednesday.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Betsy Cullen's best finishes thus far in 1974 are a pair of thirds but with the biggest purse in women's golf history on the line in the $200,000 Dinah Shore-Colgate Winners Circle tourney she leads the field entering today's second round.

Psyched up by the heavy prize money, the 35-year-old University of Oklahoma graduate from Tulsa outbattled winds gusting to 25 miles-per-hour Thursday to card a two-under-par 70 for the first round lead.

"This tournament means a lot to us," said Miss Cullen, her eyes red from the wind and blowing desert sand. "This is a lot of money we're playing for."

The first prize in the 72-hole tournament scheduled to end Sunday is $32,000 and a 1974 automobile.

Miss Cullen, whose best finishes in two previous Dinah Shore tournaments, viewed as the Master of the Ladies Pro Golfers Association tour, are 11th (in 1972) and 17th last year, said she viewed as the Master of the Ladies wasn't bothered by the wind.

The shortest of her four birdies—she also had two bogeys-was a one-inch tap in at the 10th hole.

"I can handle those," she quipped. All alone in second place with a one-under-par 71, the only other sub-par round of the opening day's play, was Jo Ann Prentice,o f Miami, Fla.

Miss Prentice believes a four-under-par 284 total will be enough to win if the wind continues.

"It was terrible out there," she said. "I blew over a couple of times but I picked myself up and went on. If the wind keeps blowing, I'll take some more of those 71's."

The only other player to equal or better par Thursday was Sandra Haynie, of Fort Worth, Tex., who managed a par 72.

Six players were bunched at 73, Jocelyne Bourassa, Beth Stone, Judy Rankin, Kathy Cornelius, Jane Blalock and Mary Mills.

Knotted at 74, two over par, were 18-year-old Laura Baugh, Sandra Spuzich and Marlene Hagge.

The pre-tourney co-favorites, Kathy Whitworth and 6-foot-3 Carol Mann, a two-time winner on the LPGA tour this year, were well down the list of 51 golfers with rounds of 80 and 82, respectively.

WFL hit by judge's ruling

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Federal Judge David Porter ruled today that Bill Bergey was "undermining" his obligations to the Bengals when he signed with the World Football League, and ordered the new league to keep its hands off Cincinnati's players.

Porter ruled in a suit brought by the NFL's Bengals this morning which had asked for a restraining order to stop Bergey, a star linebacker, from playing with the Virginia Ambassadors of the WFL.

Bergey still has a year to go on his contract with the Bengals. He said he would play out his option year in 1975 and then go with the Virginia team.

The Bengals contended Bergey's signing with the Ambassadors constituted a breach of contract with the Cincinnati team and would have the effect of "undermining Bergey's obligations to the Cincinnati team."

NHL playoffs no longer dull, conventional

By United Press International

After a dull, conventional start, a few upsets are beginning to add spice to the Stanley Cup playoffs.

When Boston and Philadelphia won their quarterfinal series in the minimum four games and Chicago needed only five, there wasn't too much for hockey fans to get excited about. But the situation changed drastically Thursday night.

The New York Rangers, after falling behind two games to one against Montreal, knocked the defending Stanley Cup champion out of the playoffs with a comeback 5-2 victory and the Black Hawks scored an upset 42 triumph over the Bruins in the opening game of their semifinal set.

In overcoming an early deficit for the third consecutive game, New York advanced to the semifinals against the Flyers. This series will open Saturday night at Philadelphia. The Rangers' victory also marked the third consecutive season they had eliminated the previous year's Stanley Cup winner from the playoffs.

"I don't know if this is some kind of omen, but I think it's about time we got it ourselves now," New York Coach Emile Francis said in reference to the Stanley Cup, a prize the Rangers haven't won since 1940. "Anytime you can come from behind three consecutive times against a club like Montreal you've certainly got to have something going for you."

After falling behind 2-0 on Montreal goals by Henri Richard and Steve Shutt, the Rangers drew even midway through the second period on their home ice when Bruce MacGregor and Bill Fairbairn scored 46 seconds apart.

Jean Ratelle, held to only one goal in the previous five games, then provided the winner at 11:04 of the final period when he converted a pass from Rod Gilbert. Pete Stemkowski padded the score with a pair of empty net goals in the final minute of play.

"Beating Montreal after the string of defeats we had against them the last couple of years really means a lot to us," said Gilbert, a Montreal native. "If there was any team we wanted to beat, it was Montreal. They've really humiliated us in the Forum (in Montreal), and it caused us to have a shadow in our mind about them. We were starting to think that Montreal had a super club."

In Boston, it was brother against brother, and Chicago goaltender Tony Esposito, with 46 saves, came out on top although his brother Phil scored the first Bruin goal to give them a 1-0 lead. The Hawks, outshot 21-10 in the second period, nevertheless got goals from Stan Mikita and Randy Rota to go ahead 2-1.

Darryl Edestrand earned a tie for Boston at 9:08 of the final period only to have John Marks score the winner with just 3:04 left to play. Dennis Hull then fired into an empty net with 21 seconds remaining for the insurance goal.

"(Tony) Esposito was tremendous but he's been tremendous for us all season," Chicago Coach Billy Reay said. "I can't give him enough credit. He wants to play in every game and there aren't too many goaltenders like that anymore. He deserves all the accolades he'll get tonight."

The second game of the series will be played at Boston Sunday afternoon.

Lynn Swann decides on Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Spurning the fledgling World Football League, All-America wide receiver Lynn Swann of Southern California signed a multi-year contract Thursday with the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League because he wanted to play for a "winning team."

"The team I played on in high school had a record of 263," said Swann, the Steelers' No. 1 draft pick. "At USC, we always played top competition. I didn't want to wait around for a league (the WFL) to build up to a competitive situation. Pittsburgh is a winning team."

Swann, 22, the Trojan's all-time leading receiver, also was the first-round draft choice of Memphis, whose WFL franchise later was moved to Houston. And his attorney, Howard Slusher of Newport Beach, Calif., said the WFL had indicated Swann might have had his pick of its franchises.

"But I had only two or three telephone conversations with the WFL, call them courtesy calls," said Slusher. "But it was decided beforehand that if he received a draft that was desirable in the NFL, we would make it known that Lynn wanted to play in the NFL."

"Only as a last resort—if, for some reason, we couldn't sign with Pittsburgh — would we have had discussions with the WFL," he said.

"What we've tried to do here is put together a football team that can win," Rooney said. "Anything that might prevert that is disruptive."

Swann was the 20th player and the first wide receiver chosen in the NFL college draft last January. He was the 10th Steeler draftee to sign a 1974 contract.

Lucas plans retirement

Owls, Chaffey fall in Mission games

Citrus and Chaffey colleges both suffered losses in Mission Conference baseball action Thursday.

Citrus dropped a 3-1 decision at Palomar while Chaffey traveled to San Bernardino only to absorb a 10-6 defeat at the hands of SBVC.

Palomar's Don Johnson hurled the win, allowing only eight Citrus hits and one run. It was the second time this season that the Comet southpaw has beaten the Owls.

Citrus lost a run in the second when John Freedman's long drive bounced over the leftfield fence and Dave Cates, who was running on the pitch, had to return to third on the ground-rule double.

Palomar came right back to score twice in the bottom of the inning off of Eric Mustad. A walk, Bill Lackey's single, and an error loaded the sacks with Comets with two away, and Mustad proceeded to toss two straight wild pitches to put Palomar on top 2-0.

Citrus came back to make it 2-1 in the fourth. Phil Doktor, Gary Weincek and Randy Nall all singled to load the bases with no outs. Freedman got one run in with a sacrifice fly, but that was all the Owls could come up with against Johnson.

Chaffey fell behind 7-0 to San Bernardino after five innings and, despite a six-run sixth, the Panthers could never catch the Indians.

Steve Gibson started on the hill for the Panthers but was routed during a four-run Indian uprising in the third. Four more Chaffey hurlers had little success in cooling the hot San Bernardino bats.

Muniz upset by Gerardo

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mexico's Marco Gerardo, enjoying a five inch height advantage, held on for an upset 10-round split decision over ninth-ranked welterweight Armando Muniz of Los Angeles Thursday night at the Olympic Aditorium.

The judges awarded the 8-1 underdog Gerardo the decision by scores of 5-2 and 5-4, while the referee saw the bout as even, 5-5.

Muniz, who had been looking forward to fighting the winner of the No. 4 rated Zovek Barajas-Billy Lloyd bout at the Olympic next week, said he wanted a rematch with Gerardo.

There were no knockdowns although Muniz appeared to be in trouble in the sixth round and Gerardo was on the verge of going down in the seventh.

APC notches 20th victory

Jim Donker, with 11 strikeouts in eight innings, picked up the mound win for the Cougars. Craig Lynch hurled a scoreless ninth to preserve the shutout.

APC's Ted Dominguez had four of the 17 Cougar hits on the afternoon, to go along with his four RBIs.

Azusa Pacific, now 20-11 on the year, will play a doubleheader Saturday at Westmont.

Claremont girl spikers win track meet at Eisenhower

CLAREMONT — Claremont High's girls track team boosted its season record to 5-1 Thursday by defeating a visiting Eisenhower team, 56-35.

Some of the top performances for Claremont were turned in by Muriel Brownell, Sonia Bowe, Beth Fossum and Jennie Stary.

Miss Brownell won the 220 in 27.7 seconds, finished second in the 100 with a time of 11.7 seconds, and also ran on both relay teams.

Miss Bowe won the 100 in 11.6, placed second in the 220 in 27.7 and anchored Claremont's winning 440 relay team.

Miss Fossum won the 440 in 62.5 seconds, tied for first in the high jump at 4-6, and anchored the winning mile relay team.

Miss Stary tied with Miss Fossum in the high jump, won the long jump at 15-9¼, placed second in the 80 yard hurdles and ran on the mile relay team.

Claremont will now host Ontario Christian next Thursday in the season finale.

The Wolfpack's junior varsity team finished its season unbeaten by knocking Eisenhower, 56-35.

Ski award to Claremont lass

San Dimas track champs again

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

SAN DIMAS — Chalk up another Hacienda League championship for San Dimas High's track team.

The Saints claimed their second consecutive league title Thursday afternoon by whipping a visiting Gladstone team, 91-27. But the fact that it was San Dimas' second straight title isn't the incredible part about it.

The Saints entered Hacienda action for the first time last year and ran off with the track championship in their debut. Entering Hacienda competition, coach Jim George's troops had won eight consecutive dual meets while competing in the Arrowhead League.

Last year the Saints went unbeaten in dual meet action, and have done it again this season. The unbeaten string is now at 24, and it doesn't look like there will be an end to it in the near future.

This year, the track championship came a little earlier than expected. Ontario upset second-place Royal Oak Thursday, 68-50, to give San Dimas a two-meet edge in the standings with only one week of competition to go.

San Dimas did better Thursday than coach George had expected. "I thought Gladstone would be a little tougher," stated the San Dimas skipper. "I had doped out a score of 78-40."

George had special praise for his sprinter Tim Shepherd, who claimed a triple win against Galdstone. "Shepherd did an exceptional job for us today."

The flashy San Dimas senior won the 100 in 10.3, the 220 in 23.4 and the long jump at 20.3.

Another top performer for the Saints was distance man Kevin Kellogg, who won the mile with a time of 4:44.6 and then captured the two mile in 10:15.9.

A cold wind cut into some of the performances Thursday, but George was still pleased. "Considering the weather, I was happy with the way our guys performed today. We were kind of lethargic at the beginning of the meet, but our captains (Dan Hitchens, Frank Diaz and Perez Shoemaker) got the guys going again.

The tri-captains also played a key role in leading the Saints to the romp. Hitchens won the 440 in a blazing time of 50.2 second, which is the quickest in the league this season, and also ran the anchor legs on the Saints' two winning relay teams.

Diaz finished only a stride behind teammate Jim Ratcliff in the 880, and then also ran a leg on the mile relay team.

Shoemaker ran legs on both relay teams and finished second behind Shepherd in the long jump.

San Dimas got off to a slow start against the Gladiators, trailing after the first event (120 high hurdles), 5-4.

But after winning the 440 relay, the Saints began to romp all over their Thursday afternoon visitors.

In other Hacienda League action Thursday, Alta Loma upset Walnut by an 80-37 margin and Sierra Vista defeated Bonita in a battle of the cellar-dwellers by a 67-51 count.

Over in the San Antonio League, Chino took over sole possession of third place with a 67-51 win over Upland and Montclair rolled over last-place Garey, 83-35.

The top performance for Chino was turned in by sprinter Jayson Law, who won the 100 in 10.1, the 220 in 23.0 and ran the anchor leg on the winning 440 relay team.

Upland had a double winner in hurdler Jim Loney, who won the 120 highs in 16.1 and the 180 lows in 21.5.

Sprinter Jerrard Bryant and distance man John Roza posted double wins in Montclair's win over Garey. Bryant won the 100 in 10.0 and the 220 in 23.2, while Roza captured the mile in 4:45.4 and the two mile in 10:22.7.

Virginia Slims event set for Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Los Angeles has been selected as the site of the $100,000 Virginia Slims women's tennis championship tournament Oct. 14-19, it was announced Thursday by tournament manager Jerry Diamond.

The top 16 women professional tennis players as determined by their standing in the 18-tournament Virginia Slims circuit will be selected to play in the grand finale at the Sports Arena.

The winner's purse of $32,000 is the highest in the history of women's tennis. A total of $90,000 will be shared by the 16 participants in singles play. Another $10,000 in prize money will be awarded the four team finalists in doubles play.

Expected to qualify are such stars as Billie Jean King, Evonne Goolagong, Rosemary Casals and Chris Evert. This would mark the first appearance of Miss Goolagong, the Australian sensation, on the West Coast.

"His attorney and my attorney are still negotiating," she said. "I would only be playing for money, not prestige. He needs the match, I don't.

"He (Riggs) has done a fantastic job for women's tennis. People who had not watched tennis before saw him lose to Billie Jean King on television in the so-called Battle of the Sexes. That created a lot of interest in women's tennis."

PASSENGER CAR TIRE GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees each of its passenger car tires for a specified number of miles when used on passenger cars or station wagons, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of:
• defects in material or workmanship,
• normal road hazard failure,
• premature tread wearout (2/32 inches or less remaining),
Montgomery Ward will:
1. During the first 10% of guaranteed mileage, replace the tire free.
2. During the remaining guaranteed mileage, replace it for a prorata charge based on mileage used.
Nail punctures repaired free during the entire guaranteed mileage.
Charge after first 10% of guaranteed mileage based on selling price in effect at the time of return at branch to which returned, including federal excise tax.
Passenger tires used on taxicabs, and motor vehicles other than passenger cars are guaranteed on the same basis against defects in materials and workmanship only.

We Can Save You Money!

When it comes to solid value in stereo equipment, these people really know what they're talking about. They're managers and salespeople from Pacific Stereo stores, and they help make sure our everyday prices on hundreds of components and accessories are the best you'll find anywhere. They're in a position to know what customers ask for most, and they also keep track of which products give the most satisfaction after purchase. This week they've picked some of their personal favorites, and we're passing along their recommendations with prices that are even lower than usual. That means you can choose from some of our biggest bargains ever, and you'll find them all in each of our 22 Southern California stores. These special prices are good for only a week though, so be sure to stop by as soon as you can. Get to know the people at Pacific Stereo, and see what they can do for you.

How About TEAC's 355 for $80 Off?

It's been one of the best selling cassette decks in our North Hollywood store, where Paula Lewis thinks its reliability and long list of features more than justify TEAC's regular price of $329.50. The Dolby noise reduction system gives you clear, high quality recordings, and there are sliding level controls for both recording and playback. Now that we've reduced the 355's price by a full $80 during our factory authorized sale, Paula thinks she'll be selling a whole lot more.

$249.50

Or TDK Cassettes at a Double Discount?

Shell Fowler uses TDK tape to demonstrate cassette recorders in our Canoga Park store, and he thinks you'll be pretty impressed when you try them on your own machine. At our regular prices, you'd save as much as $1 on each TDK low noise cassette, but right now we're out to make them downright irresistible.

C-60, regularly $2 $1.49
C-90, regularly $3 $1.99
C-120, regularly $4 $2.49

For Example, Over $141 on this Complete Pioneer System

George Roberts meets a lot of customers in Long Beach who like their music loud and loaded with bass. He's tried several combinations for these listeners, and this system's the most successful of the lot. The PIONEER SX-525 AM/FM stereo receiver delivers 34 watts (RMS at 1 kHz) of distortion-free power, handles two sets of speakers, and offers click-stop bass and treble controls for precise tonal adjustments.

George picked TRANSAUDIO 1012 speakers because they have twelve-inch acoustic suspension bass drivers that can really punch out low notes, and with separate midrange and treble speakers inside, 1012's give you crisp, clean sound no matter how loud you listen. The GARRARD 62 automatic record player offers the kind of performance you used to find only in more expensive models, and as part of Garrard's latest series, sports some attractive new styling as well. The regular total for all this gear would be $529.80, but at $388 George thinks this system defies comparison.

Price includes our written 5-Year Service Agreement.
Purchased separately, these components would cost you:
Pioneer SX-525, walnut case (fair traded) . $259.95
Garrard 62, base, Empire 999XE/X cartridge . 69.95
TransAudio 1012 (pair) 199.90
TOTAL $529.80

A Written 5-Year Service Agreement

Our Regional Manager, Bernie Stevens, feels that Pacific Stereo's obligation doesn't end with the sale. Hence our really comprehensive Service Agreement: You get free parts for 5 years and free labor for 3 years on just about any system we advertise. Since we have fully equipped service departments, we can get started on any necessary repairs almost immediately. You get a loaner while your component is incapacitated, and instead of just tending to the specific complaint, we'll return your gear performing at its best in all respects. Our only exclusion is the needle on the record player.

Purchased separately, these components would cost you:
Sherwood S7050 with walnut case $179.95
BSR 260A, base, Shure M81 cartridge (diamond stylus) 49.50
Fisher XP-44S (pair) 90.00
TOTAL $319.45

Save $94.45

We Recommend...

Murray Kerdman's our new assistant manager in Pomona; he's a firm believer that components are a much better buy than any compact or console, and that they save you more money too. To prove his point, he's put together this complete stereo system, including a popular SHERWOOD receiver, for just $225. The S7050 has 20 honest watts of power (RMS at 1 kHz), a clean-sounding AM/FM tuner section, and convenience features you can really use.

Murray's matched the S7050 with FISHER XP-44S speakers because their acoustic suspension design delivers firm lows from cabinets that don't fill up half your room. And to take good care of your records, he's included a BSR 260A automatic record player with a cueing lever to gently lower and raise the tonearm. For $225, you can't find a more pleasant-sounding or dependable music system anywhere; not only do you get Murray's word for it, but our written 5-Year Service Agreement as well.

This Week It's Half Price

If you need to replace a worn-out record player or want to upgrade that part of your component system, Bryce Baldwin at our Costa Mesa store recommends GARRARD's precision SL72B; it's just $55 this week (half the nationally advertised price of $109.95) when you buy a base and cartridge at our regular low prices. There's really nothing in its league for the money.

With the purchase of base and cartridge

At $29 Each, Nothing Comes Close to KLH

We've sold hundreds of KLH 32's at our Downey store, and manager Jack Libbea thinks they're incredibly good speakers for their regular price of only $57.50 each. These two-way, eight-inch systems use the acoustic suspension principle to get strong bass notes out of a compact walnut cabinet. Jack suggested that we drop our price to just $29 per speaker this week so you could enjoy the great KLH sound anywhere in your home.

Alice Shapiro to perform at Scripps

CLAREMONT — Concert pianist Alice Shapiro, a member of the Scripps College faculty will present a scholarship benefit recital for Claremont Collegiate School in Balch Auditorium, Scripps College, at 3 p.m. May 12.

Miss Shapiro will play Brahms Waltzes, Beethoven's Sonata Op. 81a, Prokofieff's Sonata Op. 28 and Symphonic Etudes by Schumann. Ticket information can be obtained at 624-1634.

Miss Shapiro is a graduate of Hunter College, Columbia University, and the Juilliard School of Music, where she studied with Mme. Rosina Lhevinne. She has made concert tours of the United States, Canada and Europe.

The London Times called her "a pianist with strikingly dramatic temperament" and described her playing as "vivid and powerful, urged on with immense energy and complete control over the instrument's potentialities." The New York Times said "A special pleasure was the rhythmic precision and meticulous attention to detail. She provides a warm, singing tone."

Claremont Collegiate School, sponsoring the recital, was founded as Girl's Collegiate in 1892, the third oldest girls' college prepatory school in California. It became coeducational in 1971.

PIANO VIRTUOSO — Alice Shapiro, concert pianist and professor of music at Scripps College, goes over the program for her recital in Balch Auditorium at Scripps at 3 p.m. May 12. The recital will benefit the scholarship fund at Claremont Collegiate School.

Drama class

The classes are taught by Mark Shipley, former professional actor and director of the theater. Instruction in movement, voice, improvisation and mime is given from 3:30 to 5 p.m. each Wednesday.

Roses rich in vitamin C

The rose is rich in vitamin C. Its syrup was a staple of medieval pharmacies, and today, rose hips are said to have 400 times more vitamin C than orange juice.

Valley Community Theater to do 'Once Upon a Mattress' in May

POMONA — Valley Community Theater will present "Once upon a Mattress," a musical version of the fairy tale of the princess and the pea, starting at 8:30 p.m. May 9.

The opening night performance will be followed by VCT's traditional champagne reception for cast, crew members and the audience. The comedy will play at 8:30 Friday and Saturday nights for several weekends.

"Mattress," starring Carol Burnett as Princess Winifred, ran for 300 performances on Broadway in 1959-60 and was featured in a TV special.

The VCT production will be directed by Judy Clem, who holds a master's degree from Cal State Fullerton and spent two years at the Pacific Conservatory of the Performing Arts in Santa Maria. Jeryl Greay is mudical director; Lorraine Mainhart is choreographer, and the costumes will be designed by Paul Oakes, who did the costumes for VCT's "Dames at Sea."

Lynda Hershey, who appeared in "Dames at Sea," "Little Mary Sunshine" and "Oliver!", will star as Princess Winifred. VCT veteran Jerry O'Connor plays King Sextimus. Karen Russikoff, who played Nancy in VCT's "Oliver!", will be Lady Larken, and Nick Hooybeer will take the part of Sir Harry.

Others in the cast are Brad Ekstrand, David and Carol Spencer, Debbi Shock, Judy Kellen, Craig Seibert, Glen Vivenzio, Beth Chirch, Kathy Lane, Helen Demetrion, Alice Ivey, Scott Poindexter, Johny Sullivan, Jim Stanley and Andrea Nazzare.

Benefit performances of "Matress" will be offered for fund-raising groups. Group rates and special prices for senior citizens and students are also provided.

LONG BEACH — Long Beach-Catalina Cruises is now offering twice-a-day boat service to Catalina Island.

Boats leave the LB-CC landing pier at 9 a.m. and 1:45 p.m. daily returning from Avalon at 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. The fleet consists of the 700-passenger, triple-deck Long Beach King and the 500-passenger Long Beach Prince.

Roundtrip fares are $8.50 adults, $4.25 for children 5 to 11. Reservations can be made at (213) 775-2654.

Occurrence at Owl Creek

Local bluegrass quartet to appear on television

ONTARIO — Occurrence at Owl Creek, a bluegrass quartet made up of four Claremont musicians, will appear on Channel 3, Theta Cable television from Ontario at 10 p.m. May 9.

The program is Profile, a weekly, half-hour show presented live from the Ontario studio and broadcast to subscribers in Ontario, Upland and Montclair. Host is Jack Fisher, film and television actor.

Owl Creek is made up of Jim Cope, Gil Frazee, Dave Brock and David Firman. Their repertoire includes bluegrass, folk, and country-western music, and several songs composed by members of the group.

Brock plays banjo, fiddle and guitar; Frazee, six-string guitar, bass and electric guitar; Firman bass, guitar and dobro, and Cope six-string and 12-string guitar, fiddle, autoharp and electric guitar. All four share the vocals.

Owl Creek has performed widely throughout Southern California. The group recently completed a two-week engagement at the Boiler Room at Griswold's Old School House in Claremont. Other performances have been given at the Calico Ghost Town celebration, Penny University in San Bernardino, UC Riverside, and at other local colleges.

JOHNNY CASH will host a salute to the new Grand Ole Opry House in Nashville, Tenn. on NBC-TV at 10 p.m. next Friday. Among the performers will be Roy Acuff, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Charlie Rich, Kris Kristofferson and Danny Davis and the Nashville Brass.

Joan Baez to perform at UCLA

LOS ANGELES — Folksinger Joan Baez will present a recital in UCLA's Pauley Pavilion at 8:30 p.m. May 18.

Her program will include selections from her latest recording, "Gracias a La Vida," as well as music from a score of other recordings and albums made by Miss Baez during her often controversial, 15-year career.

Miss Baez is known almost equally for her meaningful, often pungent lyrics filled with topicality and for speaking her mind on the issues of the decade. In the years since her debut at the 1959 Newport Folk Festival, she has displayed an unshakable commitment repeatedly on several of the hot topics. She demanded integration of her southern audiences before civil rights really was fashionable; she sang at festivals, marches and jails and toured with Bob Dylan.

Miss Baez founded the Institute for the Study of NonViolence despite the neighborhood fears of a "hippie" invasion; she married draft resister David Harris, and she participated in innumerable demonstrations.

How to make new plants from old ones

By Sheila and Allan Swenson
NEA Garden Columnists

Gardening should be a sharing experience. Here's how to make new friends with plants and neighbors. It's really quite easy to multiply gardening pleasure with simple propagation methods.

Basically plants grow from seeds. But many plants can be reporduced easily but cuttings of stems, tips and shoots and air layering. Some plants can be propagated from leaves alone.

Here's how you can create new plants from old yourself. An old aquarium or plant tray, plastic, aluminum or clay containers can be used. Even butter dishes or cut down milk cartons.

First, mix clean sand with peat moss, half and half. Prepared planting mixes also are available in garden centers and chain stores. If you use potting soil, add extra peat moss for water holding capacity.

Cut tips or shoots of plants: boxwood, firethorn, holly, similar woody types in spring. Ivy, philodendron, African violet can be done other times. Cut three or four inches below a leaf or node. Remove the lowest side leaves.

Plant the cuttings in moist planting mix. Place a plastic bag over them to retain vital moisture while roots form.

Locate your plant propagation unit where it gets good sun but not direct rays. Best rooting temperatures range from 65 to 70 degrees for most plants.

Many plants, ivies, coleus, philodendrons can be rooted simply in glass jars in water for several weeks, then planted into soil in pots.

Air layering also is reliable for starting new plants. Slit the softwood stem slightly. Insert a wood sliver or small stone. Next, pack moist sphagnum moss around the cut. Moisten well then wrap the area with clear plastic and seal with tape.

When roots are clearly seen inside the plastic, about four to eight weeks, cut the new plant off and pot it in a shady location until it has adjusted and taken strong root.

Be experiemental. Add plant propagation to your gardening skills this year and you'll have lots of new plants to share.

HOUSE BEAUTIFUL — Rhododendrons have few rivals in the flower kingdom which can match their glorious seasonal show. In addition to the sensational colors and blooms, rhododendrons are excellent evergreen shrubs for use in landscaping, as shown here.

Lecture due on composting

Composting, or the use of garden and kitchen refuse to provide nutrients for garden soil, is the subject of an outdoor lecture-demonstration to be given at Descanso Gardens, La Canada, Sunday, April 28, at 2 p.m. George Lewis, Descanso superintendent, is the speaker.

Although there is nothing new about compost bins, home gardeners today are interested in this means of conditioning soil because the recycling of raw, natural material fits current environmental concepts. A compost pile is just as effective as chemicals and, of course, is cheaper.

Lewis will demonstrate three types of compost bins-the old-fashioned hole in the ground, one made of old timber, and one made of cinder block, the most modern. He will also discuss the kinds of refuse that may be used and how the compost pile should be prepared. The lecture is another in the series of Sunday morning walks and Sunday afternoon lectures presented by the Department of Arboreta and Botanic Gardens at Descanso Gardens, the Arboretum in Arcadia, and at South Coast Botanic Garden on Palos Verdes Peninsula. All are admission free.

Smuggled color TV sets sought

CARACAS (UPI) -- J. M. Rodriguez, head of customs at Maiquetia International Airport, has offered special measures to guard against contraband color television sets now that Venezuela is on the verge of converting to color television.

Rodriguez says that the color sets are smuggled in from Miami and the neighboring Dutch island of Curacao.

Weavings for wall on market

A young artist who lives by the sea, not only gathers seashells, but driftwood, sea urchins, fish netting, dried flowers, leaves, bamboo and other odds and ends picked up on the sand in front of her Malibu Beach home.

She further adds such diverse items as dog, goat and human hair, unspun sheep and lambs wool, jute, ceramic and clay discs, chenille yarn, hemp, mirror bits and manzanita. From the strange assortment of materials Lauren Lesko creates wall hung weavings from "natural" elements.

The handmade tapestries are exclusive represented by Earl R. Retterath in the A. Mart and are sold through interior studios and specialty shops such as Spider Shop of Southern California.

Rhododendrons begin domination of garden

During these early spring days, Rhododendrons begin to dominate the garden scene. Their spectacular blooms adorn plants used as hedges, specimen shrubs, or the hillside. In any of its many shapes and sizes there is no better time than now to plant these lovely performers.

According to the California Association of Nurserymen, the varieties you plant, and how you plant them, will depend upon your climate—and the garden situation.

In Southern California and hot inland valleys, where rhododendrons are planted in increasing numbers every year, nurseries will have varieties that have done well in weather that once was considered unfavorable for growing them.

In such marginal areas planting instructions are different: Plant in pure peat moss or ready-to-use planting mixes designed for such acid loving plants as rhododendrons. Normally, gardeners would use peat moss or commercial planting material with a mixture of sand. It's a step in the right direction to solicit sound advice on planting from a CAN nurseryman.

In containers, rhododendrons are an impressive sight. Nurserymen have redwood tubs, or unusual containers, which will accommodate the plants indefinitely. Is it any wonder that more and more rhododendrons are being planted this way?

On a more massive scale, you can plant rhododendrons in an area suitable for azaleas and camellias. An unforgetable sight is a mass of vari-colored rohododendrons beneath a group of high-arching trees. For smaller gardens, use them as a specimen landscape shrub. Several of the same color make a desirable border planting.

There are so many varieties, hybrids, bloom shapes, colors and plant types of this flower. When making selection, the best thing to do is check your local nurseryman and inspect his supply.

Stop and think before planting

So you'll be spending more time at home this spring and summer! No doubt, you would really like to get busy and plant a garden or redesign the old landscape. Perhaps, certain members of your family would like to take up 'hobby gardening'—specializing in growing one certain flower for color and beauty and perhaps winning grand prize at the fair. You can involve the whole family in a very enjoyable garden vacation this year, if you plan ahead.

Planning the garden before you plant is an economic and esthetic necessity, according to the California Association of Nurserymen.

Your CAN nurseryman can furnish planting guidance through consultation at the nursery and he can give you ideas that can make it truly a garden vacation.

Before consultation, take a photograph of the front and back yard. Then, on a piece of paper sketch out areas you wish to utilize for patio, vegetables, play yard, 'hobby' garden. From a good garden reference (SUNSET Western Garden Book, for instance), choose a list of plants that you admire and will enjoy in your own garden.

Take all this material to your nurseryman, let him look it over, and suggest locations for trees and shrubs, advising you of their adaptability to a garden of the size you own. Your nurseryman knows what grows best in your locality. He can suggest methods and varieties for keeping your garden colorful through the year.

After you have completed your plan, you are ready for your planting list. Plant materials suggested along with prices will be furnished by your nursery.

Remember you are not required to buy all plants on your plan at one time. You may wish to budget your time and expenses for each weekend of your vacation.

Nurserymen have charge accounts and budget plans. Banks will make home improvement loans for the purpose of landscaping.

A new garden landscaping project—refurbishing the old—all adds up to upgrading the value of your property and affording you many hours of enjoyment in a beautiful environment right in your own back yard. So, with the help of your nurseryman, plan ahead and have a happy garden vacation.

It's matter of opinions

Jack David Dean placed the following ad in the Cleburne Times-Review:

"I will not be responsible for any debts other than my own."

There's a horse in the pool

As the dog days descend, more and more horses, just like people, are taking to water like ducks.

A horribly mixed metaphor? Perhaps, but it's really happening! More than 30 pools "for horses only" are now in operation as training, therapy, and recovery centers. And horses are swimming and, apparently, loving every minute of it.

Take Pennsylvania trotter Private Bill for example.

"Here was a horse," remembers pool builder Dave Hough, "plagued with bowed tendons in front and suspensories behind. He hadn't raced for two seasons due to his infirmities.

"But, after a swimming therapy and training program at the Meadowlands Therapeutic Horse Spa, this horse went out to win 12 times in his first 14 races."

Hough, whose company also builds "people" pools, is an active member of the National Swimming Pool Institute, and says that the benefits of swimming for people are widely promoted by the industry.

"But when I was called in at Meadowlands, I was really stumped for a bit. I soon learned, however, that horse trainers and vets have long recognized and valued hydrotherapy."

According to Hough, swimming helps injured horses recover from problems ranging from serious leg fractures to sprains and simple muscle soreness.

As training for the track, swimming is just coming into its own, but is of particular interest to trainers working with horses whose joint, ligament or tendon problems are worsened by continued pounding on the hard surface racetrack.

Trainers seem to agree, however, that a 15-20 minute swim exercises the same muscles and produces the same results as running a 2:10 minute workout mile.

Riding, hiking trails abound

SAN FRANCISO (UPI) — There are 14,280 miles of riding and hiking trails and 14,016 miles of fishable mountain streams in California's 17 national forests, according to the U.S. Forest Service.

Gardener's Checklist

1. Many rhodeodendrons are blooming—or will be soon—which means it is a good time to shop for these regal beauties.

2. After camellia flowers fade, prepare the plants for spring growth. Remove the faded flowers, prune plants that need shaping, feed with a specially prepared Camelia food and add a generous mulch of peat moss, ground bark, or other ready-to-use spread.

3. This is lawn planting time. Remember that preparation of soil is no longer a back-breaking chore as many effective an labor saving soil conditioners are available.

4. Plant these perennials now: Chrysanthemums, delphiniums, penstemon, gaillardia, columbine, coreopsis and gerbera.

5. Try one or several dwarf citrus trees as tubbed or patio plants. These bear heavily in tubs, are ornamental all year, and add charm to the outdoor living area.

Farm labor rate now $2.21 per hour, up 11%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farm wage rates on April 1 were up 11.1 per cent from a year earlier, an Agriculture Depatment report shows.

The agency's monthly farm labor report said wage rates for workers who do not get board and room rose to an average of $2.21 an hour April 1—24 cents or 11.1 per cent above a year earlier. A seasonally adjusted Department index of farm wage rates was about 10 per cent higher than a year earlier.

The report said the nation's farm labor force in the last week of March totaled nearly 3.8 million persons, about 1 per cent below the same week a year earlier. Records showed the number of hired farm workers—874,500—was at the same level as in 1967. The number of farm family workers, however, was down 14 per cent from 1967.

TODAY'S Women

MRS. DAVID WILSON

Miss Leslie Ann Frantz became the bride of David Hayden Wilson in an afternoon ceremony read by Dr. James Dallas in Kingman Chapel of the Claremont Church of Christ, Congregational.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Frantz of Claremont was given in marriage by her father. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilson of Claremont.

The bride's gown of white sata peau was fashioned with a fitted bodice, long full sleeves and a chapel-length train. Guipure lace formed the V-neck and encircled the cuffs and hemline.

Mrs. Paul Buchanan was matron of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Richard Frantz and Mrs. Randall Conrad.

Inter nos Club meets Tuesday

The Inter Nos Club will meet Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the Ramona Avenue Christian Church in San Dimas.

Serving as hostesses will be Mrs. Lillian Mills and Mrs. Jack Johnson.

Parent Guild gives camera to doctors

The team of specialists will use the camera in their evaluation of cleft palate youngsters. The Rancho team is one of three major teams located within Los Angeles County.

The parent guild has scheduled its final meeting of the season on April 26 at 7 p.m. The guild, affiliated with Crippled Children's Society of Los Angeles County, will meet at the Pomona Regional Center, 480 S. Indian Hill Blvd., Claremont.

Mrs. Kay Lott and Mrs. Kathleen Selden, speech pathologists, will present a program after the buffet dinner. It will include demonstrations and discussions of "Speech Therapy for the Cleft Palate Child."

The Cleft Palate Parent Guild will reconvene in the fall. Any parent of a cleft palate youngster in the area is invited to participate. Additional information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Joseph Lombardi, publicity chairman, 595-4496.

Salute to Youth charted

Pomona Valley youths are among the 55 youth groups and individuals from Los Angeles County nominated for Vision Awards to be announced at the ninth annual Salute to Youth luncheon of the Women's Dvision, Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday at the Biltmore Bowl.

The nominations are from individuals, schools and organizations. Nominated from the local area are the Webb School student tutors of Claremont, Miss Rebecca Sue Elder of Azusa Pacific College, Jeffery T. Kennedy of Walnut High School, Joanne Merrill of Pomona Valley Community Hospital, the Candy Stripers of Casa Colina Hospital, the Wandering Folksters of Pomona Catholic Girls High School, Michelle Fractions of Pomona, Patrick H. England of Pomona High School, Charlotte E. Moore of Garey High School and Sondra A. Shells of Pomona.

A wards will be presented for group and individual activities and all nominees will receive a certificate of merit for volunteer service in the community.

Awards will be presented in Americanism, history, press, bulletin, president's memory book, membership and attendance.

Pomona Emblem Club is competing in ritualistic competition. On Saturday, the state banquet will honor current state officers and include the presentation of awards for ritualistic work, bowling and outstanding clubs.

"Rainbow of Love" was the theme for a reception given by Star of the West Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, in honor of Mrs. Robert E. Powers, deputy grand matron of the grand chapter, OES, recently in the Pomona Masonic Temple.

Marshals were Mmes. Orville Deardorff, Roy Bowman, Meyer Gatov and Mae Hunt, all past matrons.

The worthy matron, Mrs. Irma Gustafson, and worthy patron, Lorren Walrod, and officers of the chapter were escorted and introduced.

Mrs. Gustafson presented the worthy matrons and patrons of Chino, Claremont, Ontario, Pomona and Upland. These chapters and Star of the West comprise the 59th district.

Mrs. Powers, accompanied by her husband, was escorted into the reception room and presented, after which the Star Chords of Gardena Chapter sang a duet.

Mrs. Merle Kistler placed the Holy Bible and Mr. Kistler, past patron, gave the invocation. Philip Gustafson, past patron, presented the flag, and Mrs. Robert Machulies gave the tribute.

Others were: The Grand Star Points, Mmes. Warren Wildman, Jim Stubblefield, Ed Warren, Roy Wheeler and Charles Towner; Mrs. Frank Garst, grand warder; Robert L. DeVries, sentinel; Mrs. John Blum, and Helen Andrews past grand treasurers; 34 deputy grand matrons; Gene Harris, Mrs. James B. Craven, Mrs. Ross Williams and Clarence Andrews.

Grand Chapter committee members, Mrs. Bill Dean, Roy Bowman and Glen Younkin, were introduced. Escorted were the worthy matrons, patrons, past matrons and past patrons of Star of the West and grand officers, worthy matrons and worthy patrons for 1970.
